LISLE COMMUNITY HIGH SCHOOL

When we came here we knew far less than we ever thought we did

*Ten long years of stimulation and growth—
a large auditorium, new science labs, new courses, even a new principal.*

From a graduating class of 41 in 1958 to a class of 127 in 1968, we have come far.

Our school has undergone much change, and it is not yet finished.

*However, there is a greater change taking place . . .
It takes four years to smooth and shape the mind and body.*

*We come as a seedling and quickly take root.
We are on a long search to find ourselves and learn about the world.*

But where do we begin?

We cannot keep up a pace of endless work and study. We need some fun! After all, this is a part of growing too.

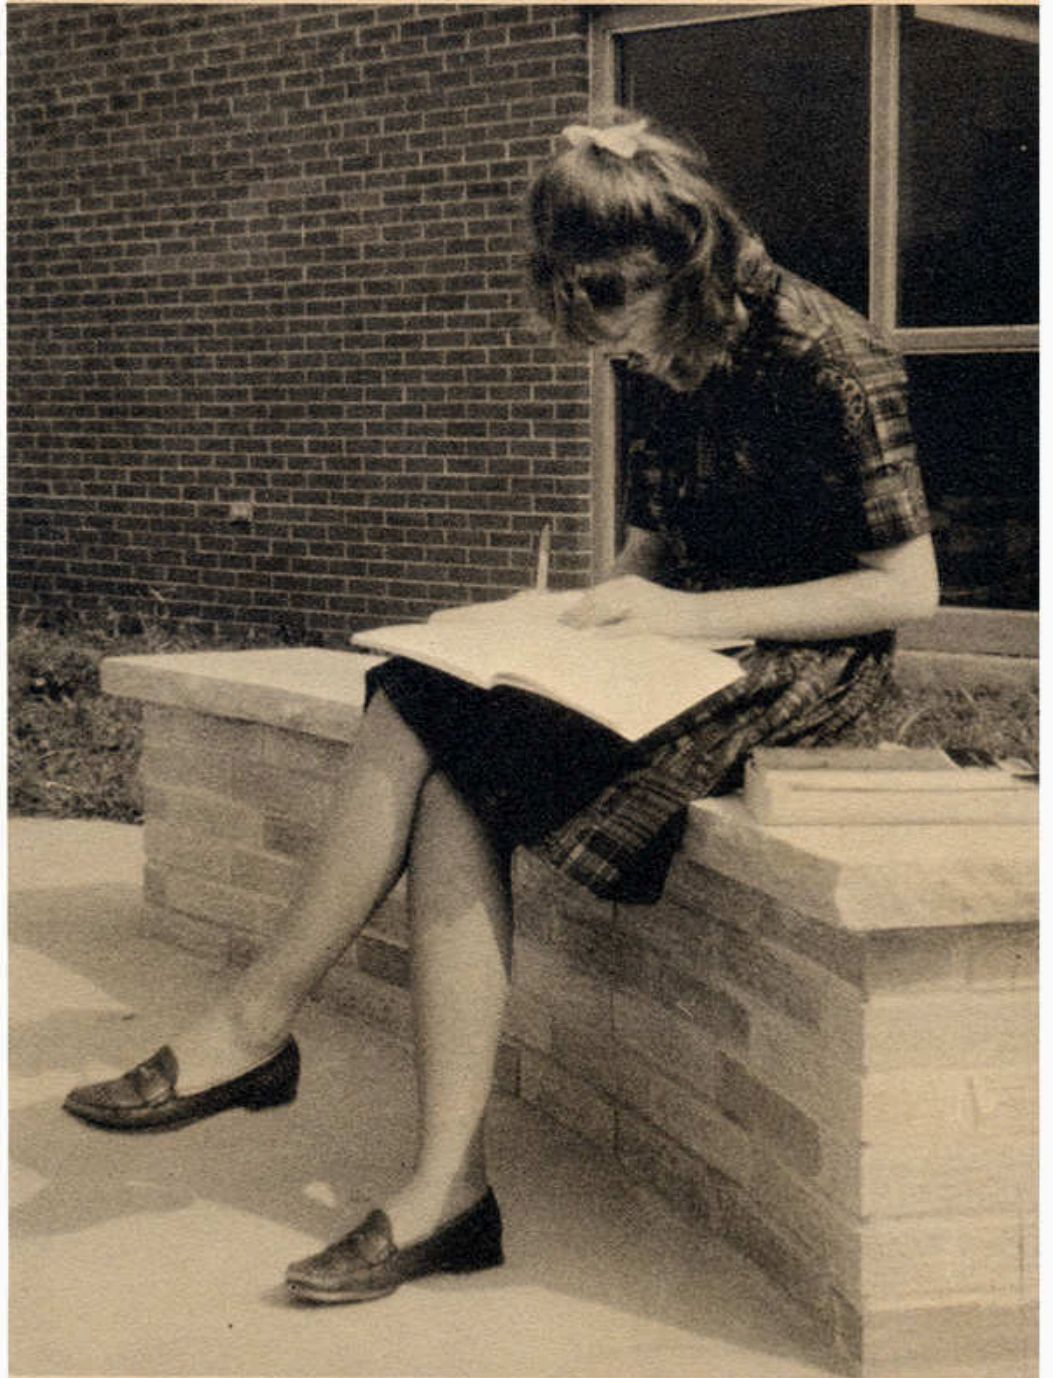

Engaging in sports can help us learn more about others as well as ourselves. Who would have thought we could gain knowledge from everything that we do in school?

After we have come so far—we just can't quit now!

*It takes a long time . . .
Four years of training.
We are guided through our maze of questions, constantly trying to find answers.
We are searching for an understanding and the facts about our world.
It almost seems too far to go.
Will we make it?*

A confusing fifteen modules break the day but aid in classroom studies.
Many new teachers are added to help guide our meandering search for knowledge.
Will we ever learn enough?
There seems to be so much we don't know.*

Administration

New principal initiates first modular system at Lisle High

Where do you go for a tardy slip? When does an announcement have to be in for tomorrow's bulletin? The answers to these and all the other puzzling questions of a student's day can be found in the office. There is always someone on the administrative staff who is willing to listen and advise. From secretaries, to principal, to the Superintendent of Schools, no matter what your problem, there is someone who can solve it; just ask in the office.

Guiding the administration is an awesome task which requires ability and experience. Mr. Hornbeck, our new principal, manifested both these principles in combination with a unique sense of devotion and interest. Under his guidance the modular scheduling system was initiated at Lisle.

Progressive leadership marked the administration of Mr. Hornbeck, who guided Lisle toward an energetic and youthful scholastic goal in this, his first year as our head administrator.

MR. RAYMOND MILLER—Superintendent of Schools.

MR. SAMUEL GALOVICH—Director of Student Affairs, U.S. Government, Sociology, Frosh-Soph Football Coach, Wrestling.

MR. HENRY HORNBECK—Principal, Student Council Advisor.

MRS. ROSEMARIE EVERETTE—Principal's Secretary.

MRS. SHIRLEY McKENNA—Clerk-Typist.

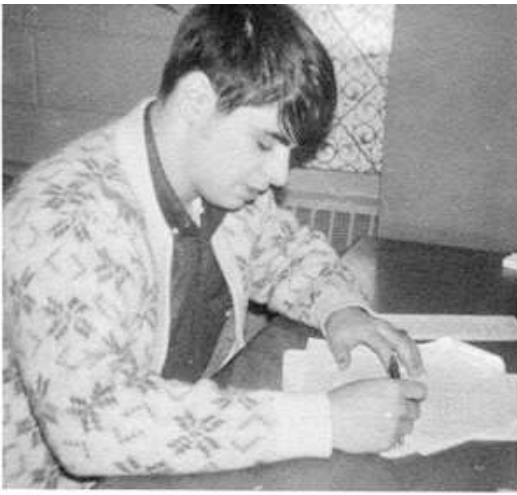

MRS. HELEN LINDEMANN—Secretary.

There is always plenty of office work to be done for the school. Brenda Perry donates her time to type some business information.

MRS. ROSEMARIE KREMER—Clerk-Typist.

Al Carter reviews the council's present Constitution for any possible additions.

Preparing for elections, Kathy Homan and Verna Jones display another campaign poster.

Changing the new calendar provides a never-ending task. Joan Kremer posts the week's events.

Dave Williams concentrates on hanging curtains in the new Student Lounge while Sue Taylor and Ellen Koba supervise.

Student Council

Planning school activities and governing the student body is a large task—but the Student Council has successfully met their objectives

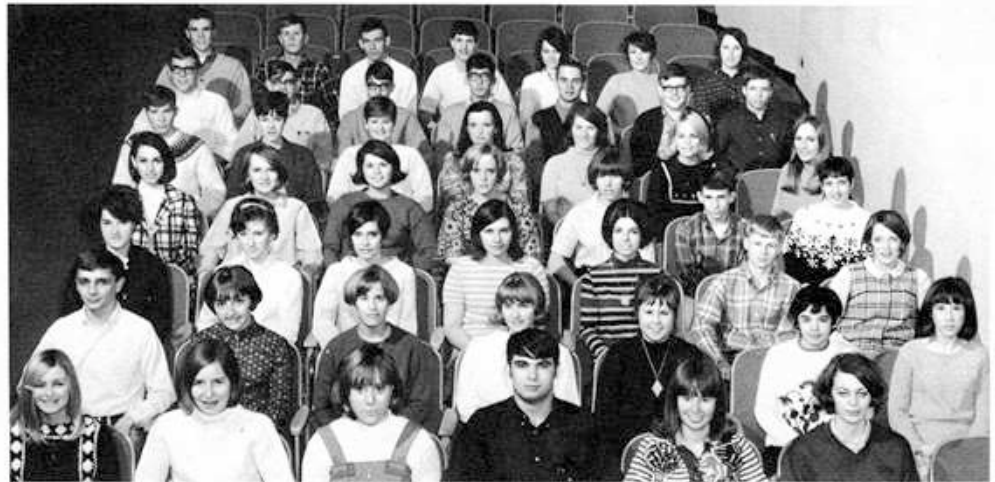

The Student Council began working on plans for the upcoming year last spring. Along with the newly elected officers and representatives, came new and better ideas.

Their work started with the modernizing of the Student Council office. They had quite a job ahead of them. Old chemicals, papers, and miscellaneous articles were disposed of. The room was painted a lively color and accented with curtains and a rug.

But the council didn't stop there. They met during the summer to plan the coming year's activities. The year started off with Freshman Initiation Week. During this week frosh wore beanies, white socks, and even clashing clothes. In October, the council sponsored a very successful Talent Show entitled the Roaring 60's. There was standing room only for the one-night performance. They also sponsored professional assemblies, soc-hops, and the traditional Jamboree.

The council certainly has represented the student body well this year. They have kept alive the all important line of communication between the administration and the students.

English and Art

in English and Art a help in expressing new thoughts*

Walk down the hall on any day. You may hear lines from Shakespeare's Hamlet or Edgar Allen Poe's The Raven. The English Department implements a program of language expression and understanding through reading, writing, speaking, and listening. Programs are enriched through the use of the library, filmstrips, and records. At all levels there is an effort to meet individual needs through regular and honors classes. The entire program is designed to develop in each student competency in his native language and cultural appreciation of literature.

Opportunities for students to gain appreciation and understanding for an art career, or for personal enjoyment, are made available in the Art department. This course encourages free interpretation with paints, chalks, and crayons.

MRS. DORIS STRAUB—Art, Mechanical Drawing, Art Club, Yearbook.

MRS. MARGARET PHINNEY—English I, II, Sophomore Class Advisor.

MISS CAROL SYDOW—World Literature, Composition, Pep Club, Creative Writing, Business English.

MR. RICHARD PALZER—World Literature, Business English, Speech, Debate, English I.

MISS SHERYL HURBAN—English II, French, Cheerleading, Freshman Class Advisor.

MRS. LEOTA PROKOP—English III.

Art class is a time for individual study. Maren Hagarty begins her own watercolor creation.

MR. RONALD WILDERMUTH - Algebra I, Geometry, Applied Math.

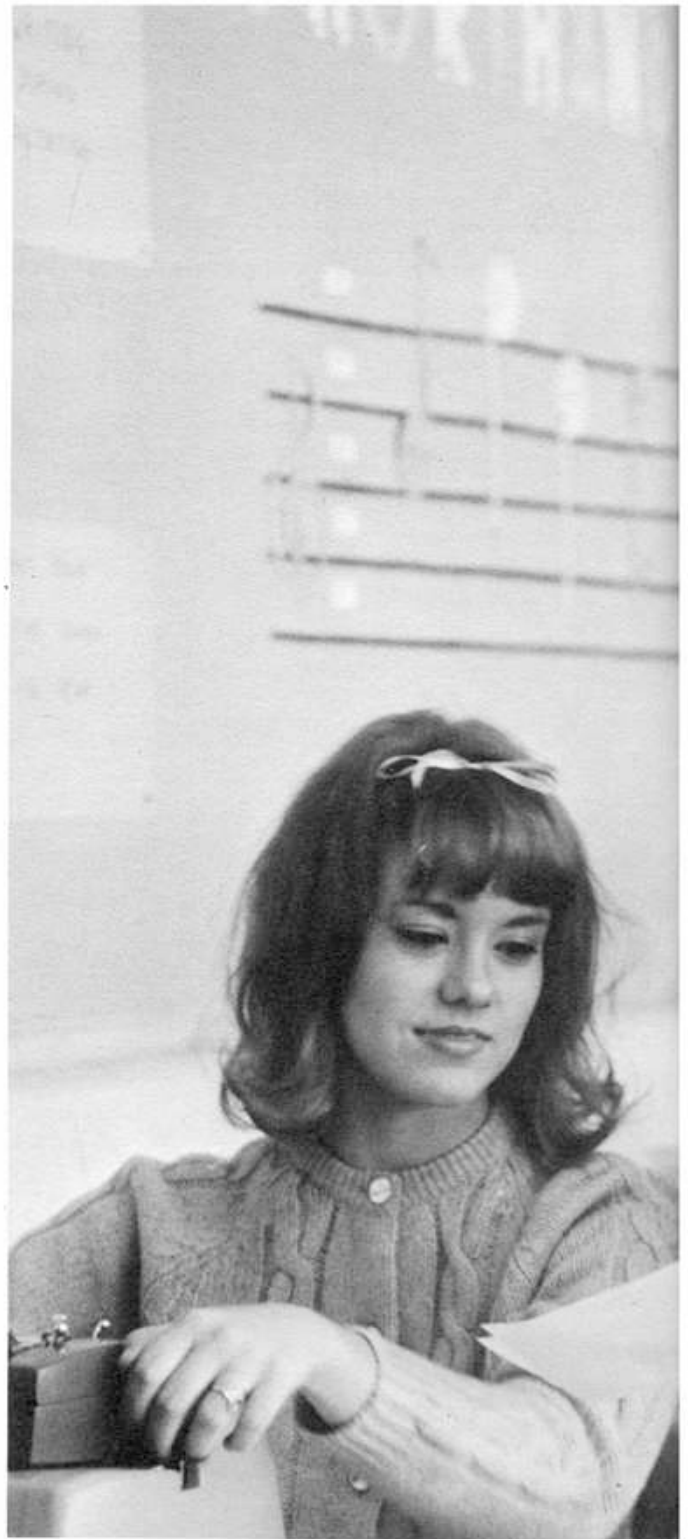

MRS. SANDRA PHILLIPS - Algebra I, Geometry, Applied Math.

MR. DONALD JAMES - Math Analysis, Algebra I, II, Trigonometry, Junior Class Advisor, FTA.

Math and Business

Students soon solve mystery of complicated theorems and numerous business machines

MRS. MARY LAWRENCE - Typing, Clerical Practice, Shorthand, Secretarial Practice, Commercial Club.

Where do you go from here? If the answer lies in the business world, there's help to be found in Mr. Jones' bookkeeping class, or maybe Mrs. Lawrence's excellent secretarial practice course, where you can gain valuable experience. With the adding machines, typewriters, duplicating machines, filing and accounting practice, you can develop the skills necessary to keep pace with the fast moving business world.

If engineering and sciences are more to your liking, you can benefit from the teaching of Mr. James or the newly-arrived Mrs. Phillips or Mr. Wildermuth. They work hard to make the formulas and symbols of mathematics less mysterious and more enjoyable. Now is the time to prepare for the future.

Learning how to operate various machines is part of a business education. Daryl Van Kampen shows Marsha Phillips the "art" of the adding machine.

MR. ROBERT JONES - Bookkeeping, Business Law, Economics, Record Keeping.

MR. CLARENCE JENSEN—Electronics, Physics, Physical Science, A-V.

lectures build inquiring minds and "budding" young scientists

The Science department emphasizes the importance of science in today's world.

The Freshman course, General Physical Science, offers a "preview" to the vast world of science in a modern world. The basics of life and its functions are the subjects of Biology, which is required of the sophomores. Biology students learn a variety of biological facts, from being able to recognize microscopic ameba to understanding the complex systems of classification. Chemistry students "discovered" the theories of great scientists and put them to practice in the laboratory. Physics students study matter and energy and their transformation during their daily "hour of happiness". A new course, Physiology, was added to the program this year. Seniors who have successfully completed Chemistry may enroll in this class.

n the world and they make preparations for the future

In a world full of people in motion, a world full of change, we wonder about the people around us. Why are they different? Can we deal with the problems of the future? World Civilization, the History courses, Government, along with World Problems and Sociology, under the direction of Mr. Rapp, Mr. Neahaus, Mr. Getz, and Mr. Galovich help you find the answer.

If world problems seem blocked out by the shadow of an uncertain future, or if you need help in making any decisions, drop in and talk to Mr. Thompson or Mr. Stamm. You can borrow a college catalog or investigate the files in the Guidance Office and discover the opportunities that exist after high school days have ended. Present and future problems disappear when you have help like this.

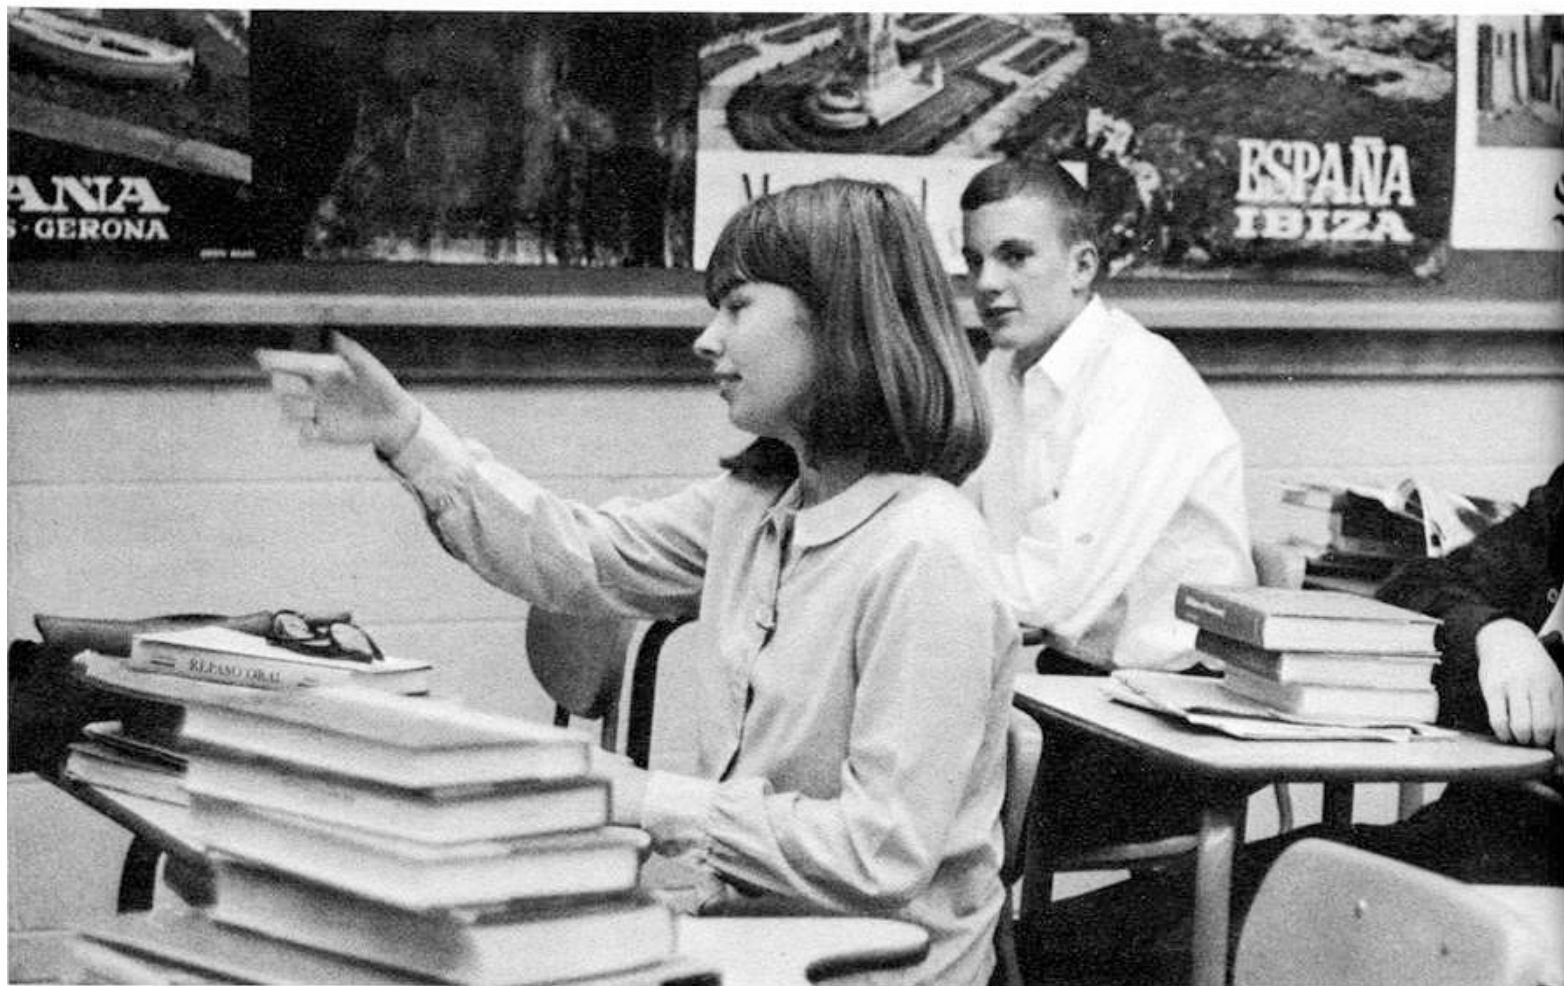

MR. RICHARD THOMPSON—Guidance Counselor, Typing, National Honor Society.

MR. LEROY STAMM—Guidance Counselor.

and languages to LCHS

Would you like a well-rounded background in a foreign language? Four years of training in French or Spanish, or two years in Latin will provide this. To broaden knowledge of foreign countries, as well as the languages, is the chief aim of the Language Department. Authentic accents on tape recordings are studied in the language labs. Movies, film strips, and periodicals aid text and lab work.

The library is an essential supplement to all courses. A wide variety of books, periodicals and reference materials are available for student and faculty use. These are great aids in enriching the academic programs of the school. Members of the library staff, while maintaining an atmosphere conducive to study, are always available to answer questions and to help locate materials.

Choir adds a new dimension of sound to music

Practice makes perfect—Jeff Hon prepares for the next concert.

The choral department of LCHS was at its peak this year. Mrs. Densford worked with two groups of music loving students, the A capella Choir and the Chorus.

The A capella Choir, consisting of selected students only, met at 7:30 each school morning for 45 minutes. The choir is Lisle's first group to have robes. They spent a busy year preparing music for performances in the Talent Show, Christmas and Spring Concerts, and Baccalaureate. "Annie Get Your Gun", this year's musical, was made successful by many weeks of intensive work and rehearsal.

In the spring of the year many members enter the IHSA state music contest. Solos, duets and ensembles compete with students from other schools. Lisle can be proud of the many awards they have won.

The two choruses are to be congratulated for their marvelous performances presented during the school year.

Band

LCHS concert and marching bands add spirit to High School activities with music

Much new music and more hard work were waiting when band members assembled in the music room last September. The new freshman class supplied welcome additions in instrumentation. Practice was held every day during the fifteenth module.

The director, Mr. Bartelt, by careful guidance and unlimited patience, enabled the band's "debut" in the fall at Open House to be a success. They worked hard, and their efforts were rewarded in the fine response they received.

Their music was enhanced by talent from other schools this year: Plano's band entertained at homecoming both in the parade and between games. In December, the band participated in the North East Conference concert at Dwight.

The band provided half-time entertainment for spectators at football games and the pep band played lively music for basketball games. The members marched in Homecoming, Memorial Day, and Pet Parades. They were also guests at Yorkville's Homecoming Parade and entertained at half time. The group performed at a concert in February and again in May. The May concert featured highlights from the band contest as well as solo and ensemble winners.

Evidence of their accomplishments and talents lies in the many medals brought home each year from the IHSA contest. The complete band and also many soloists, duets, and ensembles enter the rough competition and come home successful. Through these many activities, the band found a pride in accomplishment and demonstrable education in music.

Bill Tinker is proud to be this year's drum major.

A parade isn't complete without a band—and the LCHS Homecoming Parade had a good one.

Playschool teaches Homemaking I classes the art of child care. Connie Gaines keeps a little girl happy while observing her actions.

To develop skill and expel energy are the purposes of the Applied Arts classes. Included in this section are Home Economics, Industrial Arts and Physical Education.

If you like sewing, cooking, or homemaking, Home Economics is for you. The department studies sewing, home decorating, food preparation and home management. Girls try to keep up with the latest fads by sewing their own creations. They learn to satisfy their appetites by co-operatively planning and preparing delicious, wholesome meals.

Industrial Arts challenges the creativity of the young men in our school. These courses interest them to learn the basic principles of wood design, welding and machines. It gives them the opportunity to try their skill at constructing a bookshelf or some other useful article.

Students can relax and have fun, while learning coordination in Physical Education. Basketball, tumbling and calisthenics are but a few of the activities enjoyed by the girls. The boys take on more masculine, daring sports, such as football and wrestling. All students participate in the fun of the trampoline as well as the horse and parallel bars. Student gym leaders assist the instructors in keeping the activities safe.

MRS. ANN JOHANSEN—Home Economics, Food Services, FHA.

MR. ERWIN NEESE—Industrial Arts.

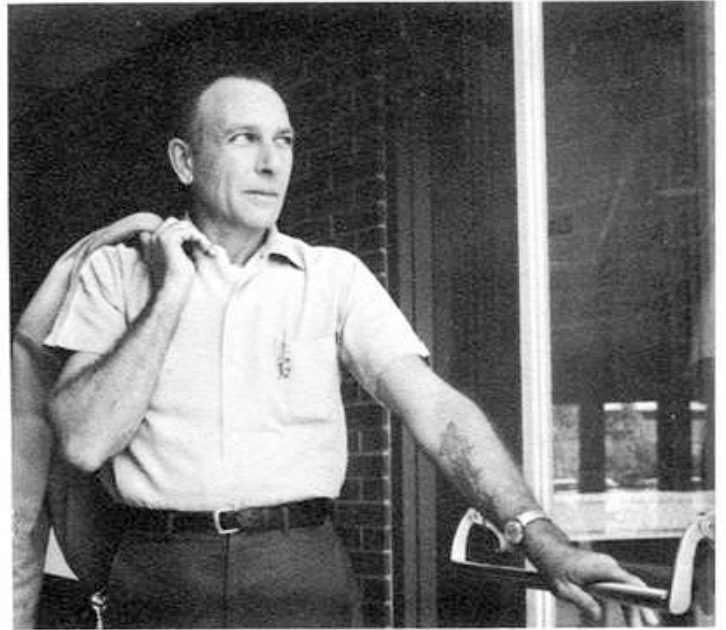

Operational Staff

Cooking and cleaning make a never-ending chore

Cooking, cleaning, waxing, repairing—a capable group of workers is necessary to keep our school in order. The seemingly unending, but essential tasks of cleaning rooms, shoveling snow, and keeping the building in top shape was in the hands of the custodians. The staff performed every service to best assist both teachers and students while maintaining maximum efficiency.

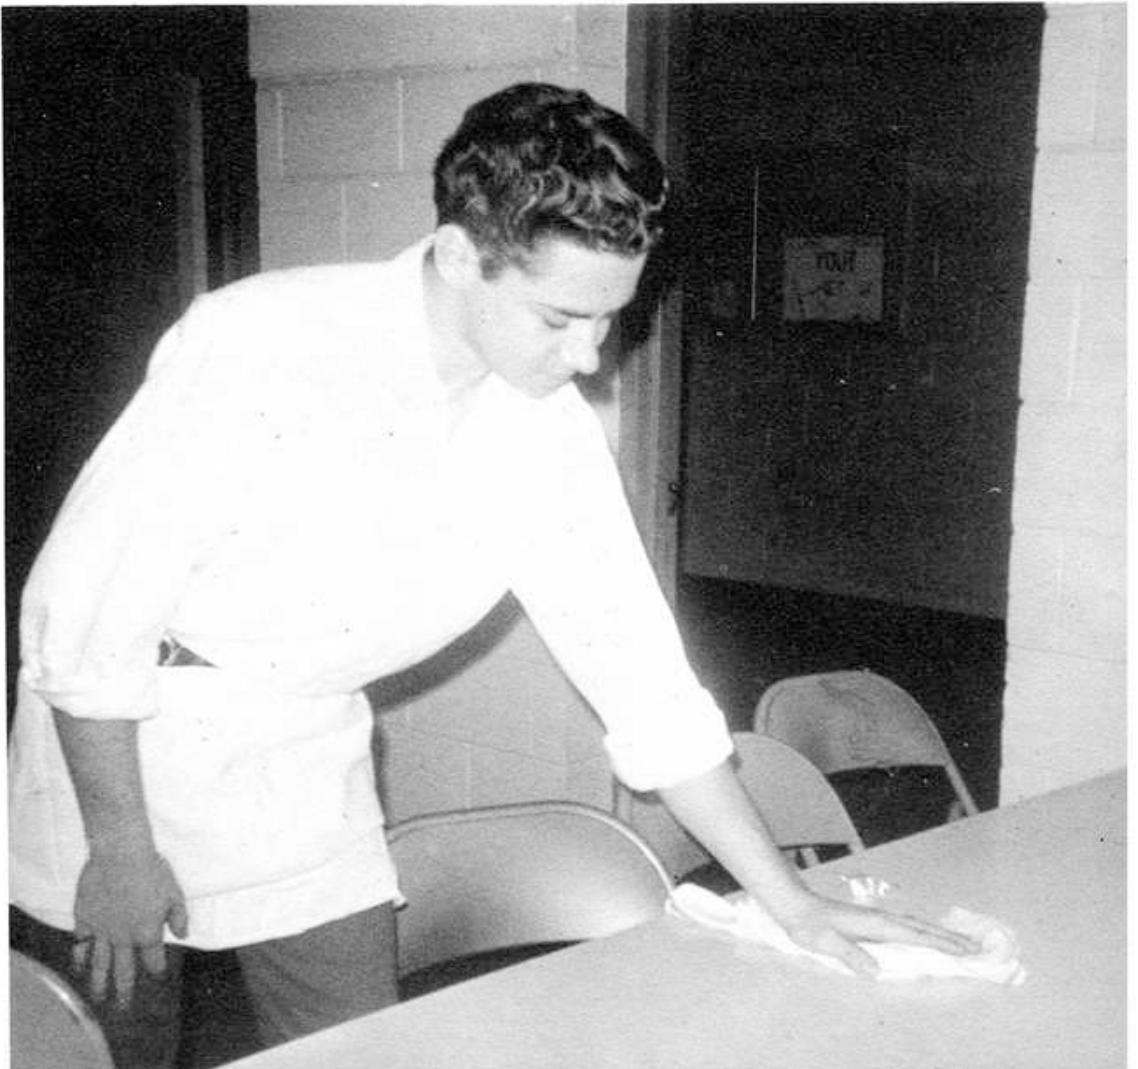

Preparing appetizing and nutritious meals created unceasing chores for the kitchen staff. They made over 250 delicious lunches per day. Baking started early in the morning and a huge clean-up job ended their daily schedule. The trustworthy staff took care of everyone in a well regulated manner.

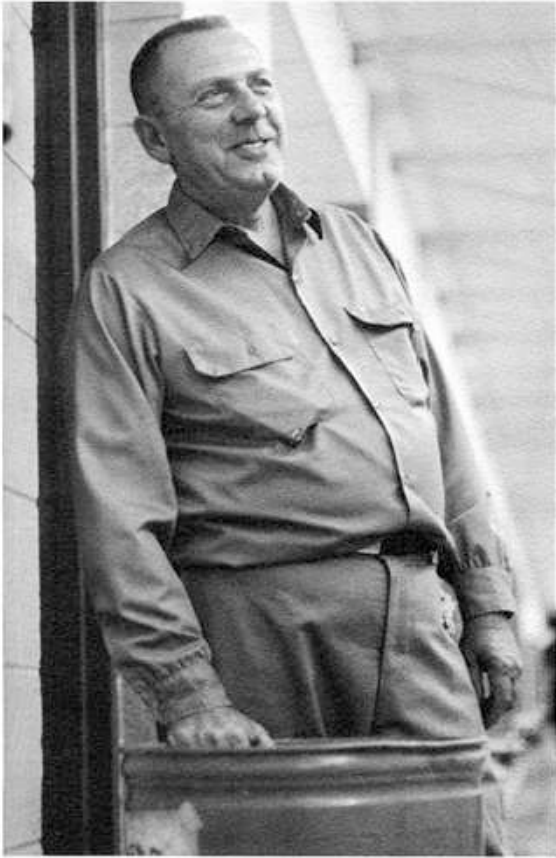

The efficient personnel did an excellent job in performing their duties.

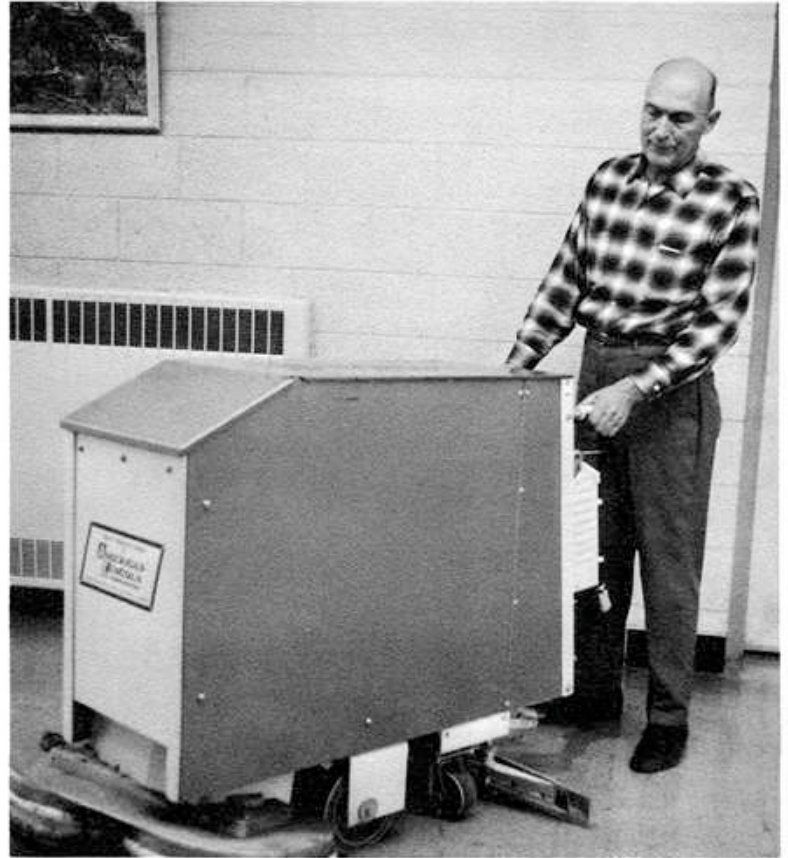

MR. ROBERT CHARLESWORTH - Custodian.

Students assist in keeping the school clean. Frank Ferrin wipes tables before another hungry lunch "mob" rushes in.

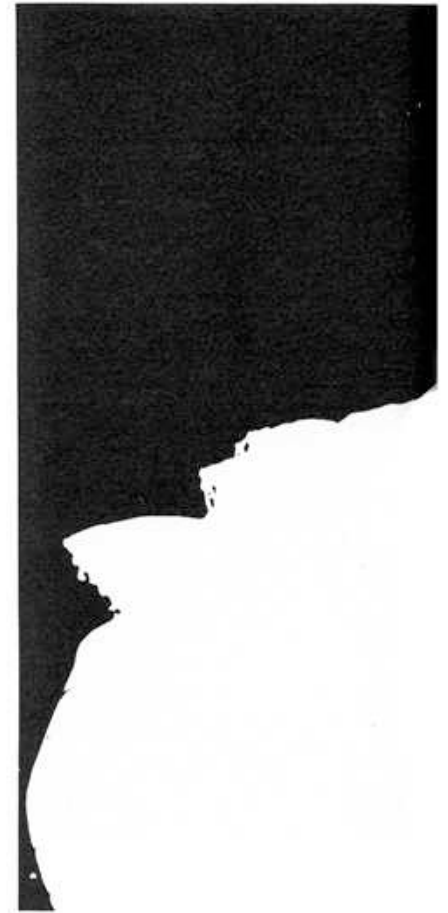

MR. CLARENCE WILDE - Custodian.

A play, dance, basketball game, assembly, club meeting—we will be right there!
This is truly learning in new surroundings.
We are on our own to demonstrate leadership and participation.
Hours of hard work in preparation make our activities successful.
However, there is plenty of time for socializing and relaxation.
Are we really growing?
This is too much fun!

Activities

Homecoming

The week arrives and the fun begins as the entire student body take parts in Homecoming

Anything goes—John Carothers displays his ensemble on skag-day.

Homecoming activities this year involved the entire week. All students were encouraged to participate.

The week-long events began Tuesday with class color day. On Wednesday, "skag day," students as well as faculty showed up in anything from pajamas to a World War I army uniform. Thursday brought about dress-up day, which was quite a contrast to Wednesday's casual attire. Friday was traditional blue and white day, and also, be kind to athletes day.

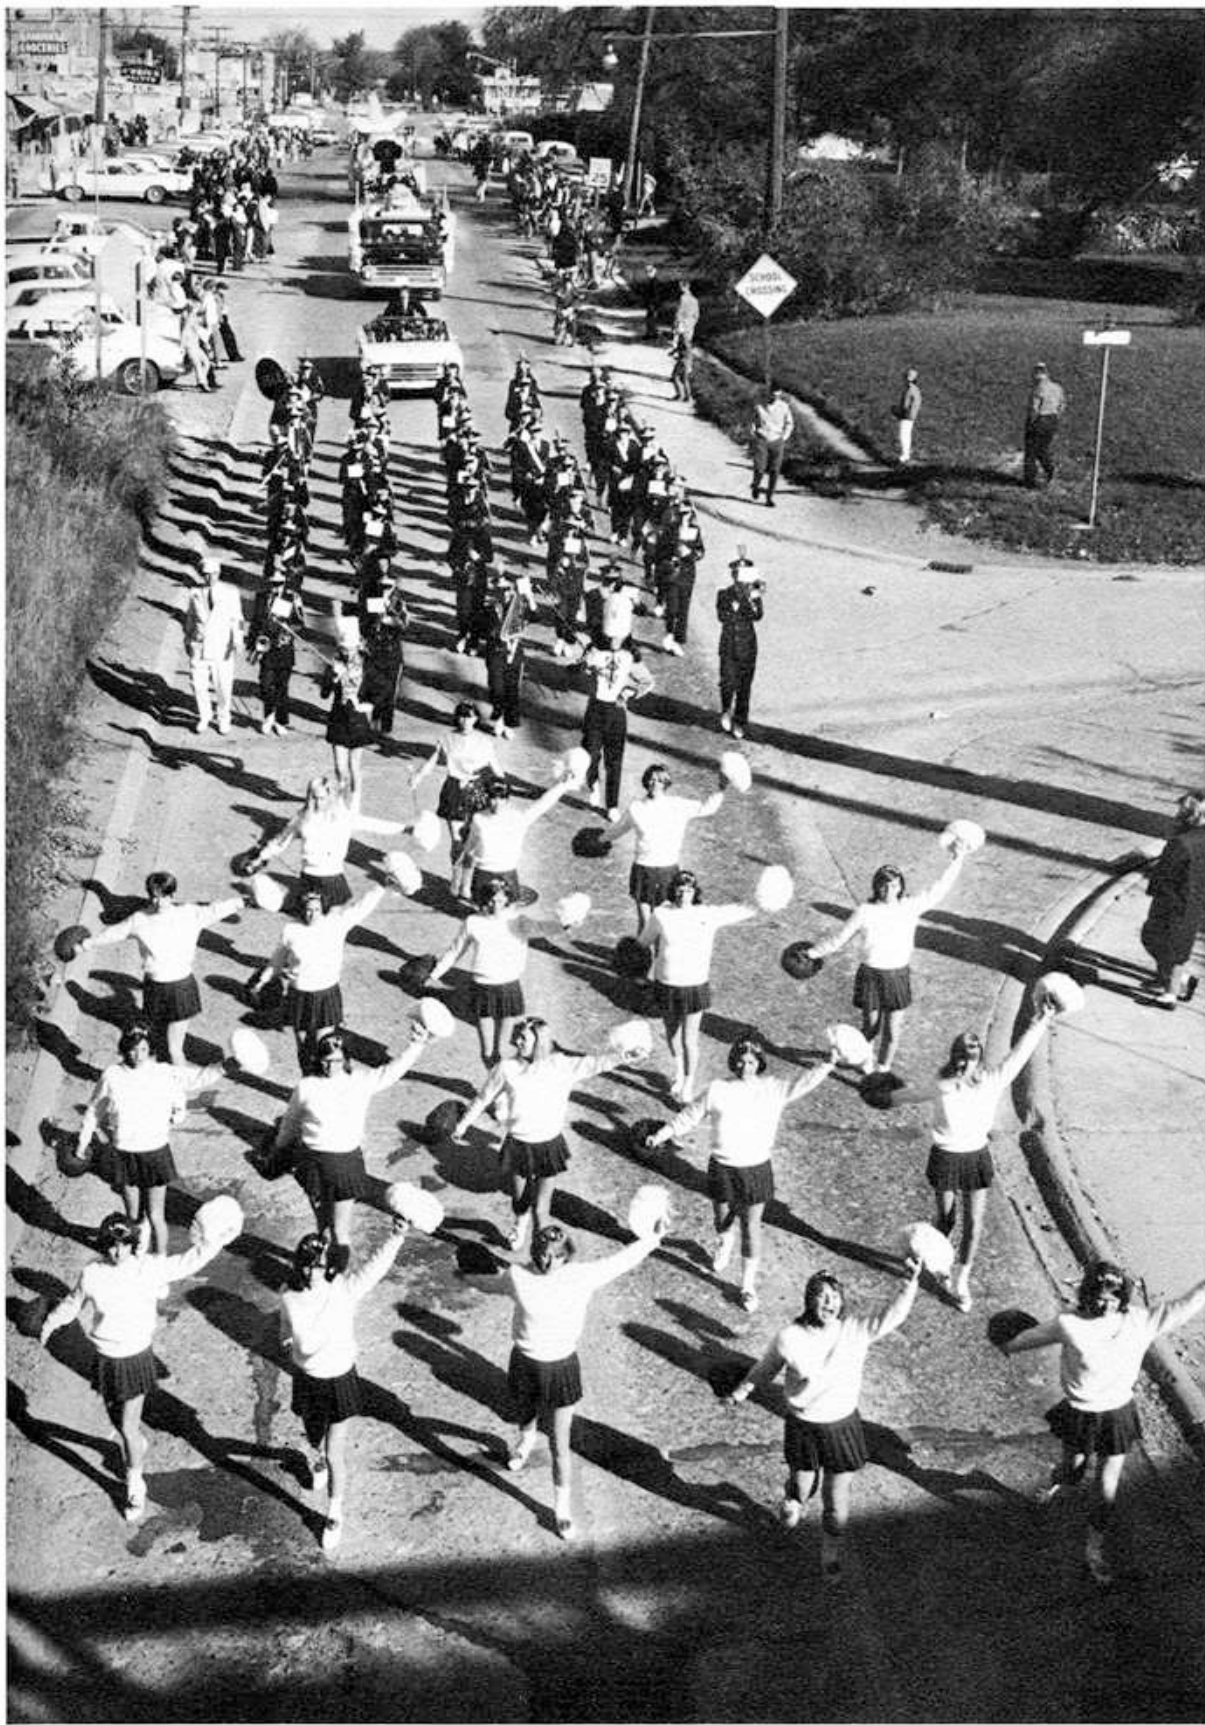

On Friday afternoon there was an enthusiastic pep assembly. In the evening an earth-shaking snake dance wound its way to the raging bonfire. Tension mounted as the time came to crown the queen. Last year's queen, Gerri Stanek was present to do the honoring. Joan Kremer reigned as our 1967 Homecoming Queen.

Many nights of hard work were put into the building of the Junior Class float.

The night of the bonfire was a cold breezy one—but our 1967 Homecoming Queen, Joan Kremer, beams a warm smile.

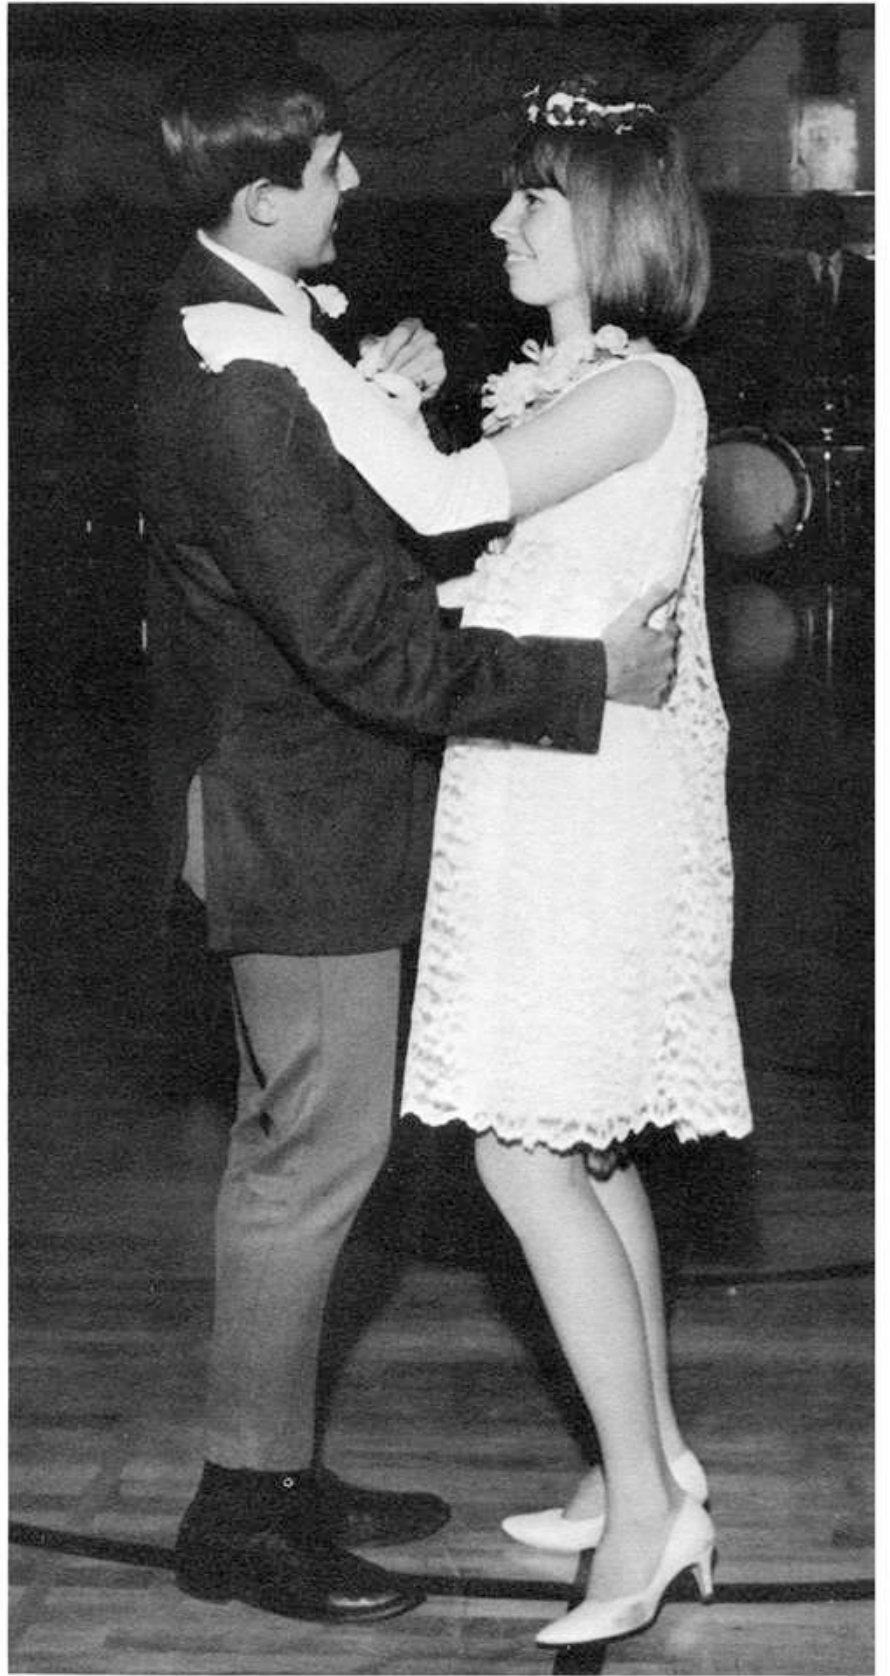

The traditional Homecoming Parade marches down Main Street to a peppy tune played by the band.

A fast dance is enjoyed by Dawn Wright and Jim Stanley.

Carl Hagarty serves punch to many thirsty dancers.

A night to remember—Queen Joan Kremer, and her escort, Barry Melton, lead the dancing for the evening.

Homecoming

Week ends with spectacular success of "Marine Dream"

Saturday! The big day had finally arrived. The day started off with a successful Pancake Breakfast by the Yearbook Staff. All waited in anticipation for the annual Homecoming parade. This year's parade was one of the best. It included Lisle's band, decorative floats, and the visiting Plano High School band. The theme this year was the "Underworld." The senior class won first prize for their float consisting of an octopus entangling a Plano football player.

Following the Parade was the football game. The stands were bursting with enthusiastic fans ready to cheer their team on to victory. Another varsity victory for Lisle was chalked up with a final score of Lisle 9, Plano 0.

The climax of the festivities was the dance held Saturday evening. Many couples, dancing to the music of the Chambers of Sound, attended the gala affair. Everyone went home happy and fully content with the greatest Homecoming Lisle has ever had.

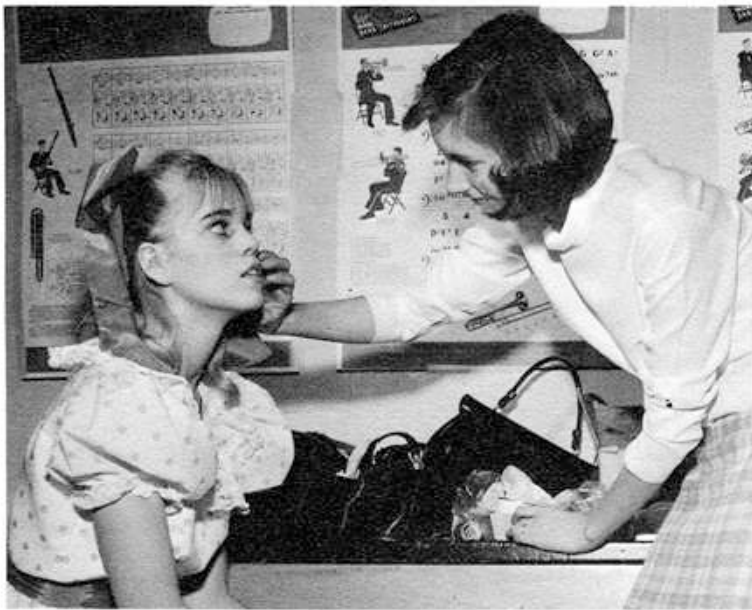

As the evening continues, more couples decide to dance, and soon the floor becomes a maze of dancing silhouettes.

"Oklahoma"

The farmer and the cowman should be friends . . .

The success of Lisle's first musical, Brigadoon, brought about the decision to do another. Oklahoma was chosen and enthusiasm spread throughout the student body. As great interest was shown, especially by the boys, many appeared for tryouts.

Bringing to life the fightin' and lovin' of the farmers and ranchmen of the Oklahoma Territory was a cast of over 100. The cast displayed their talents of singing, dancing, and acting.

The show was performed before three record-breaking audiences. A standing ovation at the end of each show further evidenced Oklahoma's success.

The combined efforts of the directors, cast, and crew made Oklahoma one of the greatest shows performed on Lisle's stage.

Ali Hakim pleads for Ado Annie's (Sue Taylor's) hand at gun point.

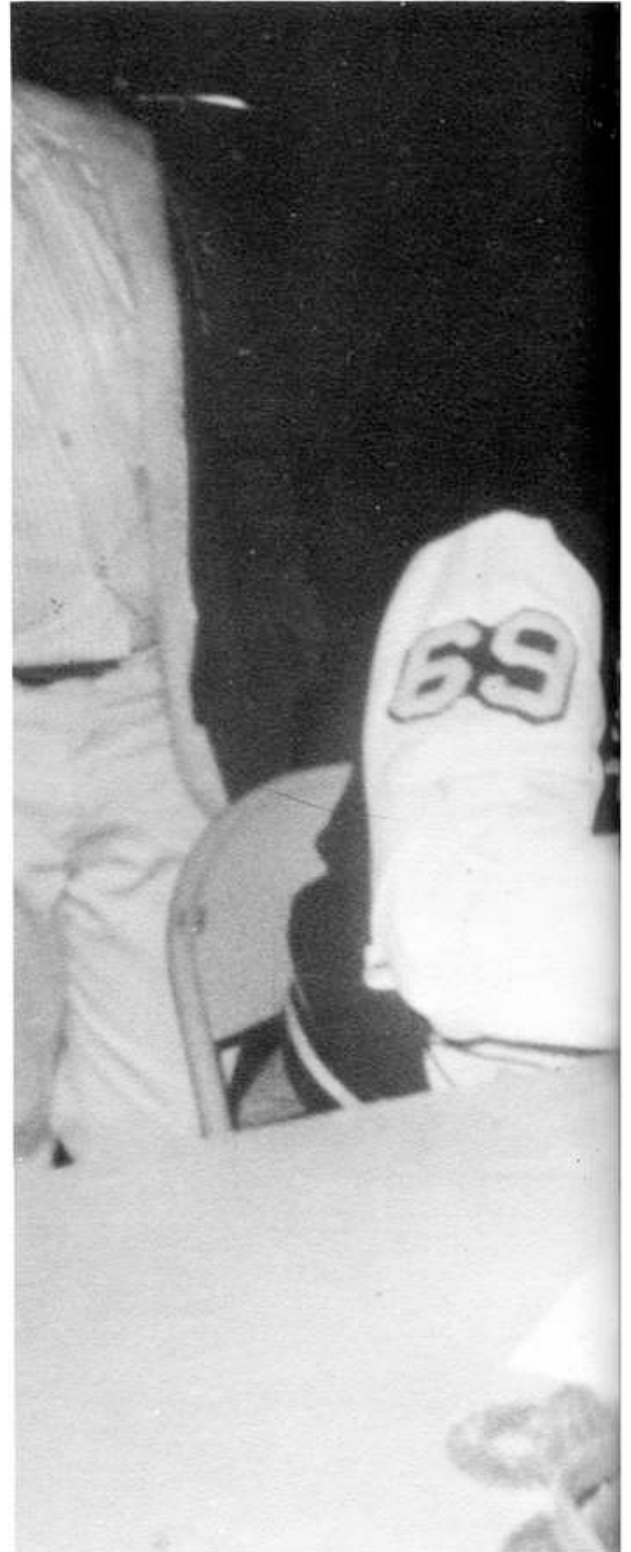

Put your best friend in the stockades! Mr. Giuntoli and Doug Jensen seem to be in the same predicament.

You can't go hungry at the Jamboree. The LMC Bakeshop has several kinds of delicious cookies and cakes to choose from. Kathy Homan happily makes another sale to a satisfied customer.

Jamboree

Student body and faculty participate in an annual day of fun and activity, the Jamboree

Come one! Come all! Try your aim and win a prize; test your bravery by going through the Junior Class spook house; or take revenge on a lowly sophomore by throwing balloons at him. These were just a few of the main attractions at the annual Student Council Jamboree held in the Spring.

Students as well as adults joined in the fun as they walked along the gala midway, trying their luck. Along with the fun came well deserved profits for the various clubs and classes in the school.

The highlight of the day occurred in the evening with a battle between four bands. The gymnasium was packed with anxious onlookers ready to make their own judgement of which was the best. The rhythm quickly filled the gym and soon many could not resist the urge to dance.

This successful day could only be attributed to the many hard-working classes, clubs, and organizations who spent many hours in preparing for the Jamboree.

Even teachers enjoy trying their luck! Mr. James and Mr. Palzer have fun with a miniature car race.

Many of the games involve skill and coordination. John Buss concentrates on breaking the record in stacking sugar cubes.

Jan Claus puts the finishing touches on a chalk drawing.

National Honor Society, Art Club

Students find it advantageous to express their individuality in art and leadership for future years

Members of the National Honor Society are selected by the faculty on a basis of a four year objective rating system concerned with scholarship, character, service, and leadership. This year's new members of the Lisle chapter were honored at an all school assembly in January. Seven Seniors and eleven Juniors were brought into the chapter.

One organization that encourages creativity and individuality is the Art Club. Members work on special projects at the meetings. The Artists' creations are displayed throughout the building.

Tears of joy were shed by new member Lee Hankinson.

Art Club members draw Mrs. Straub's wooden manikin.

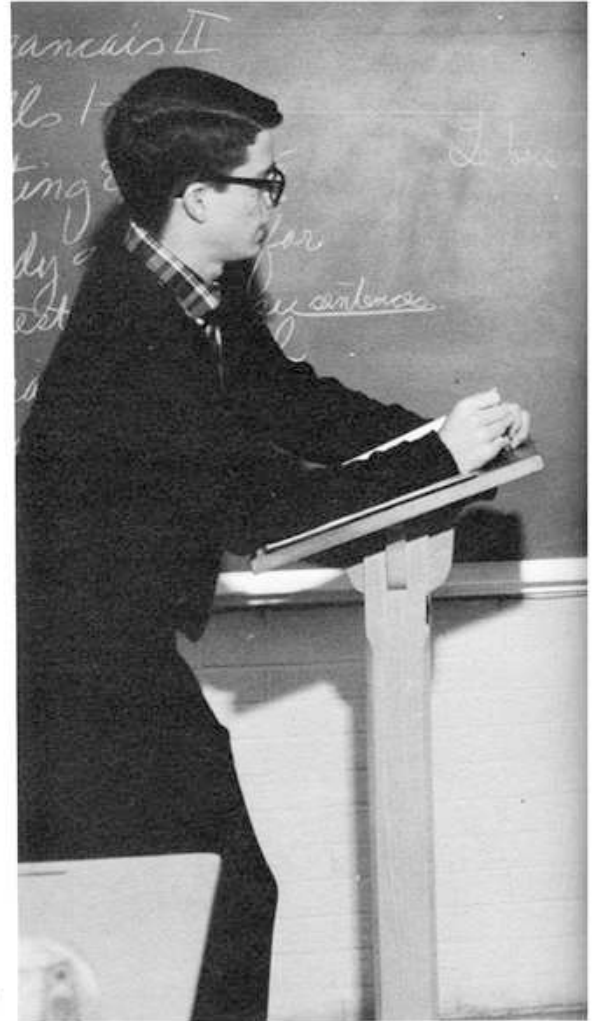

French and Spanish Clubs

Language clubs seek understanding of foreign peoples and customs

The sights and sounds of Mexico are still lingering in the minds of the Spanish Club members as they recall the talk given by Jan Reed and Mary Cosgrove. These two girls were sent to Mexico by the Spanish Club for the purpose of studying Spanish and increasing their knowledge of the native language and customs. The club met monthly to stress appreciation and understanding of Spanish culture through studies of the language and people. Highlights of the year were the Christmas party with the traditional piñata, a taco booth at the Jamboree, and a soc-hop. Their project was to raise money to send two students to Mexico during the summer. A Spanish newspaper, Mas Papel, was published weekly by Mary Cosgrove and Dennis Woolverton.

Au revoir are familiar words to members of French Club. Open to all students taking French, the club broadens the students' knowledge of life, customs, language, and art of France. A variety of programs, including speakers, filmstrips, and dramatizations of French plays, enabled members to learn more about France in addition to improving speaking skills. The club also participated in the Jamboree.

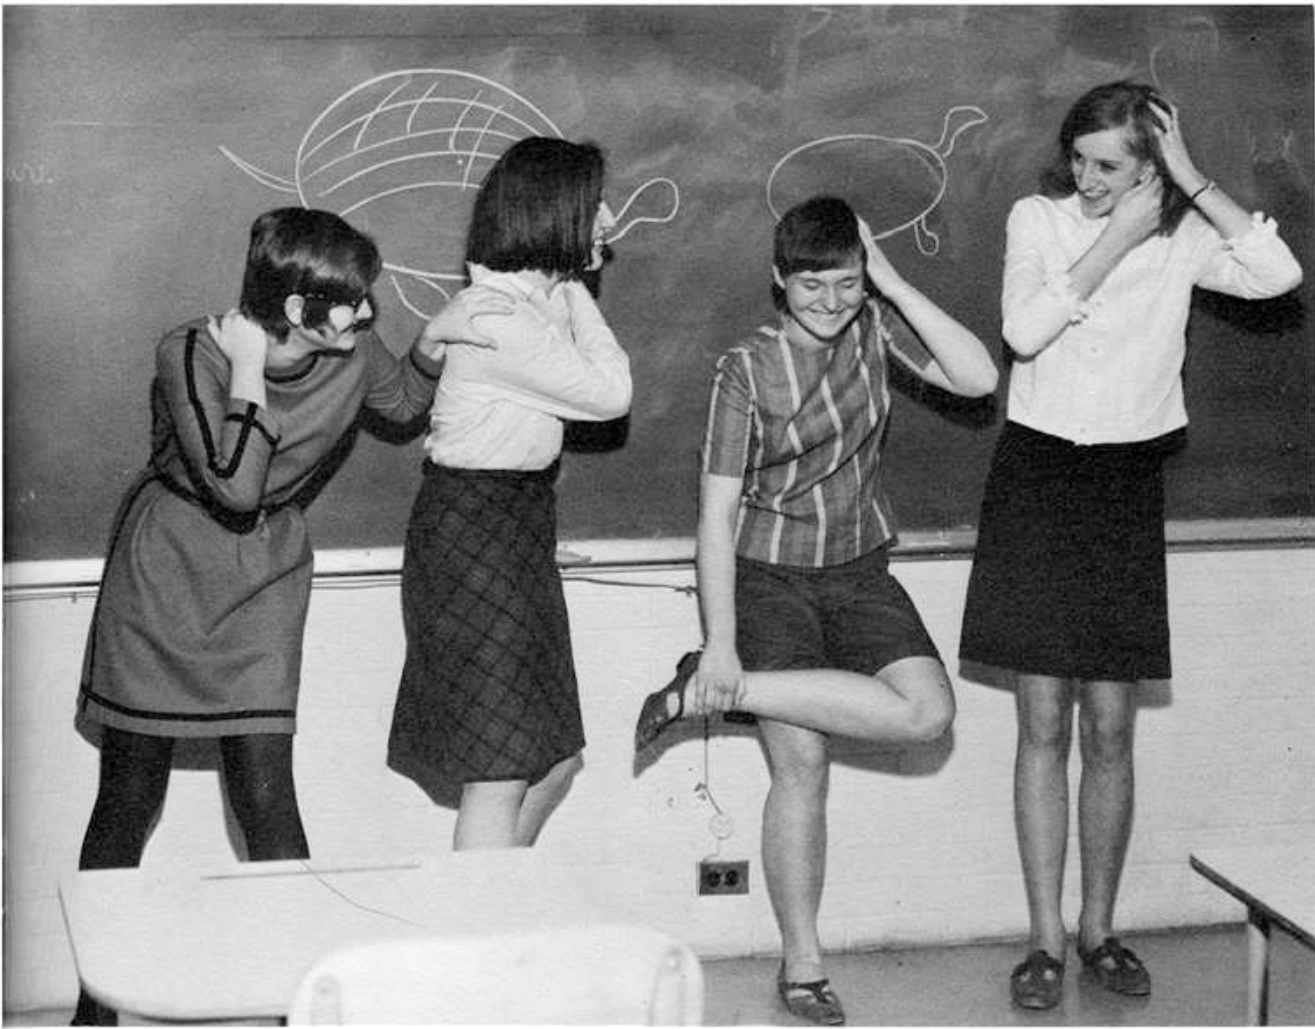

Games can be difficult, as French Club members discover, when the directions are given in French.

happenings and publicity for all important occasions

Work, work, work—when will it end? Co-Editors Verna Jones and Sherry Gamble prepare articles for the next edition of the Roar.

Finding a new approach to the news often takes much research. Linda Bilinski, Pat Bunsold, and Debbie Cox share their ideas in hopes of making the next issue even better.

Each month, a refreshingly different newspaper was edited by the Roar staff. The staff got off on the right foot this year by attending a seminar sponsored by the Tribune for high school newspaper staffs in the Chicago area. Many new ideas were developed as a result. The Roar contained articles of interest for anyone who read it—be it sports results or GAA news, a student's poem or the editorial, or even a bone-tickling joke. Opinion polls on everything from hit records to student activities could be found. The newspaper was well worth its price—a dime.

Students are always anxious to get the latest issue of the Roar. Sloane Cheng hurriedly purchases one from Terry Nelson before going to class.

Students find means of expression in speech, debate, writing

Man has long sought to perfect his speaking and writing skills. Through participation in debate, speech, and creative writing clubs students can develop these talents.

Coached by Mr. Palzer, the Lisle debate teams began early preparations for the many tournaments in which they participated throughout the year. After long hours of hard work gathering materials and perfecting the art of argumentation, the teams were ready to meet debaters from other schools. They brought honor to the school, learned patterns of logic, and developed elocutionary techniques.

Being a member of the speech club requires a lot of time and hard work. Members of the club develop speaking skills by competing in contests of reading and dramatization. This year's individual events found students trying comedy, prose reading, radio speaking, and verse reading, to name a few.

Guided by Miss Sydow, the Creative Writing club encourages students to cultivate literary interests and talents. Members develop writing skills by studying and using many different composition forms.

FTA, LMC, Commercial Club

Books, thermometers, typewriters bring hopes for future careers

Do you like to teach children, care for the sick, or type? There is a club to fit any of these interests.

For students planning to become teachers, FTA provides an opportunity to learn about their desired profession. Among the activities this year was a Christmas party for the TMH children, a trip to see the movie, "To Sir, With Love", and a student observation day in which the prospective teachers could sit in on classes and watch the professionals at work.

To explore career opportunities in nursing and other health fields, students join LMC. Listening to speakers and going on a field trip to Edward Hospital helped prepare the future medical students. Participating in the Jamboree rounded out an active year.

The projects and activities of the Commercial Club are many and varied. The club is responsible for the programs of the concerts, assemblies and plays throughout the year.

Thus FTA, LMC, and Commercial Club provide ample opportunities for students to investigate a future profession.

Future teachers? Betty Dyntaxa and Judy Westerhoff add humor for the kiddies in the Homecoming Parade.

"'Twas the night before Christmas." Santa Claus (Mr. Neahauss) reads a story to the TMH children.

FHA

“Lollypops and Roses” head all the activities planned

Calling all future homemakers! FHA can provide plenty of work with lots of fun.

This year's activities began with participation in the Homecoming Parade. Later, the girls and their beaux went to the annual hayride, held at Prince Crossing Stables. In November, the Section Rally was held at J.B. Conant High School. There, the girls exchanged ideas on projects and activities. At Christmas, they baked cookies for the Du Page Boys' School.

The highlight of the year was the turnabout dance entitled “Lollypops and Roses.” Music was provided by the Vynes. This year's dance was most successful.

The year came to an end with the election and installation of new officers for the next year.

A moment to be captured in one flash—Joan Kremer and Barry Melton pose for a picture at Turnabout.

Jeff Mack and date join in the fun of an evening of “Lollypops and Roses”.

Nancy Williams and Steve Cook fast-dance to a tune by the Vynes.

Taking time out to relax and talk are Wayne Troyer, Jane Vining, Jill Janovsky, and Stan Weller.

Jackie Kusnierz carefully puts in another dozen cookies to bake for the Boys' School.

GAA, Pep Club, Gym Leaders

Participation in athletic clubs provide channels for school spirit and P. E. skills Skating can be a breeze! Sue Stoerzbach demonstrates a trick which is really more difficult than it looks.

Are you a girl interested in sports? GAA plans swimming and roller skating parties. They also plan tournaments and travel to other schools to attend Play Days.

Lisle's Pep Club unites all students through the promotion of school spirit. Making victory posters and selling bus tickets for away games are major club projects. Roof-raising pep assemblies are planned by the officers.

Students interested in Physical Education have the opportunity to gain experience in this field by becoming gym leaders. They assist the instructor in teaching skills and refereeing games.

A library can operate efficiently only if it is kept in order. Library Aides render valuable service by assisting in shelving and arranging books, checking materials in and out, and filing magazines.

Members of AV service the school with efficient operation of movie projectors, phonographs, and tape recorders. Their services enable teachers to incorporate the use of both audio and visual equipment into classroom instruction.

Lisle's many hall monitors are invaluable for effective functioning of the school. These students direct bewildered visitors, collect attendance slips, check passes and run errands for the office and teachers. Through the tasks done, these students are able to take responsibilities and to be of service to others.

Ellen Koba and Kathy Kemerling are completely enchanted by Charley's "loving" aunt.

Could this really be Charley's Aunt from Brazil, where the nuts come from?

"Charley's Aunt"

Two boys + two girls + one aunt = Hilarious uproar

While Charley (Mark Koba) looks on, Jack Chesney (Dave Williams) helps Charley's Aunt decide what to do with her (his?) flowers.

A mishap occurs when Sir Francis Chesney (Al Carter) and Stephen Spettigue (Bernie Orpin) offer the gracious Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez (Andy Brubaker) a chair.

On November 17 and 18 the stage at Lisle was transformed into a room in Oxford, England.

Charley's Aunt is a delightful farce which has been entertaining audiences for seven decades. The play concerns a college boy with a fertile imagination who attempts to bring about a solution to a love problem. Instead, one of the most hilarious situations possible results.

Under the direction of Mr. Rapp, members of the cast rehearsed many weeks in preparation for the final performance. All props were constructed by the stage crew and were supervised by manager Mr. Mulcare. Mrs. Straub in the Art department carefully developed an artistic and romantic atmosphere.

The successful production could only have been attributed to many hours of hard work.

Which of these beauties will be named Dream Girl of '67?

Talent Show

The "Roaring 60's" plus LCHS talent produce smashing success

Can you sing, dance, twirl a baton, or act? If you possess any talent at all, you could have shown it at the 1967 Talent Show.

The show was held October 6 and was a big success. Tickets for the production were sold by members of the Acapella Choir and Chorus.

A variety of talent was displayed during the few hours. The Acapella Choir began and ended the show by singing a medley of songs. Various folk groups, comprised of choir members, selected modern songs and performed them with ease. But the talent didn't stop there, not with the talent of a tap dancer, baton twirling duet, and the Bickering Bickersons.

A lot of work went into the production of the show. Many people devoted their valuable time to practice. The Choir and Chorus worked hard to fill the auditorium with people and they did an excellent job.

Without the help of Mrs. Densford and Mr. Rapp, the show couldn't have been a success.

Yearbook

*Mrs. Straub becomes advisor and yearbook acquires a new home—Room 106,
The Valé is soon done*

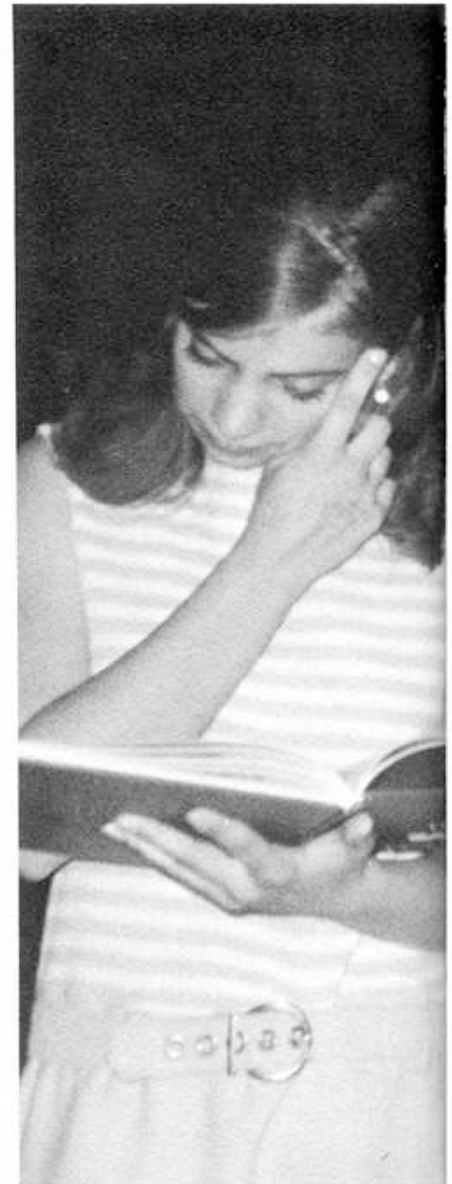

Frustrated screams, weary sobs, and loud moans are not uncommon sounds around room 106. That is the workroom for the 1968 Valé staff.

Under the direction of Mrs. Straub and co-editors Betty Dyntera and Daryl Van Kampen, the staff worked to finish layouts, copy, headlines, and cutlines in time to meet the assigned deadlines. Although the staff had to share their room with stacks of books, papers, the Homecoming throne, and teachers eating lunches, they had room enough to complete their work.

Editor Betty Dyntera attended a summer workshop at the University of Detroit in order to make this year's book one of the best.

The layout editor can now put his scaleograph away and the copy editor can lay down her pencil. It is finished.

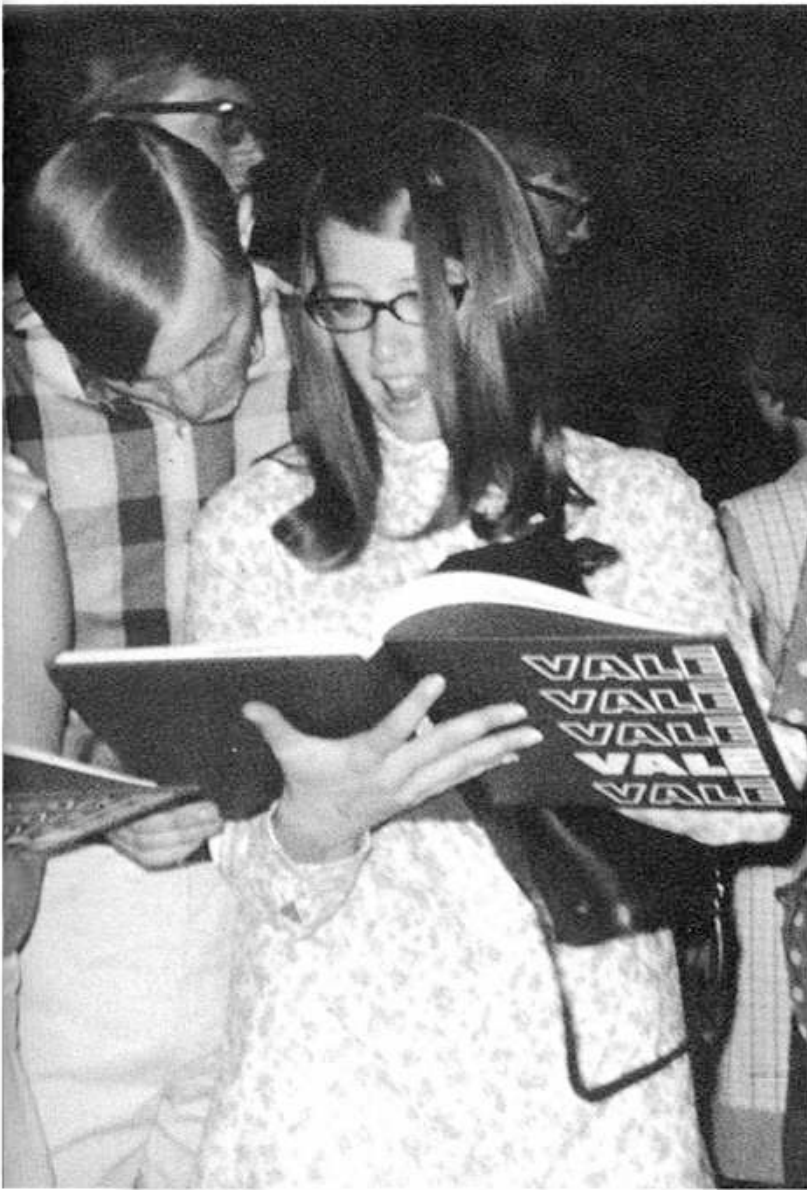

The day finally arrives for the Yearbook Dance. Everyone excitedly reminisces "that wonderful year."

Handling finances for the yearbook is a huge task. Sandy Bakken and Laura Krause sort through unpaid ads to prepare the month's bills.

Can it be true that we are finally on our last deadline? Co-Editors Betty Dyntera and Daryl Van Kampen make preparations for one more "battle."

Judy Westerhoff and Brenda Getty begin to feel the mid-night drag that comes from an overdose of yearbook.

Pancakes anyone? Sports Editor Rick Wheeler adds his talents to the annual Pancake Breakfast.

The final step is recopying layouts. Jan Claus and Mrs. Straub complete the pages for a large deadline.

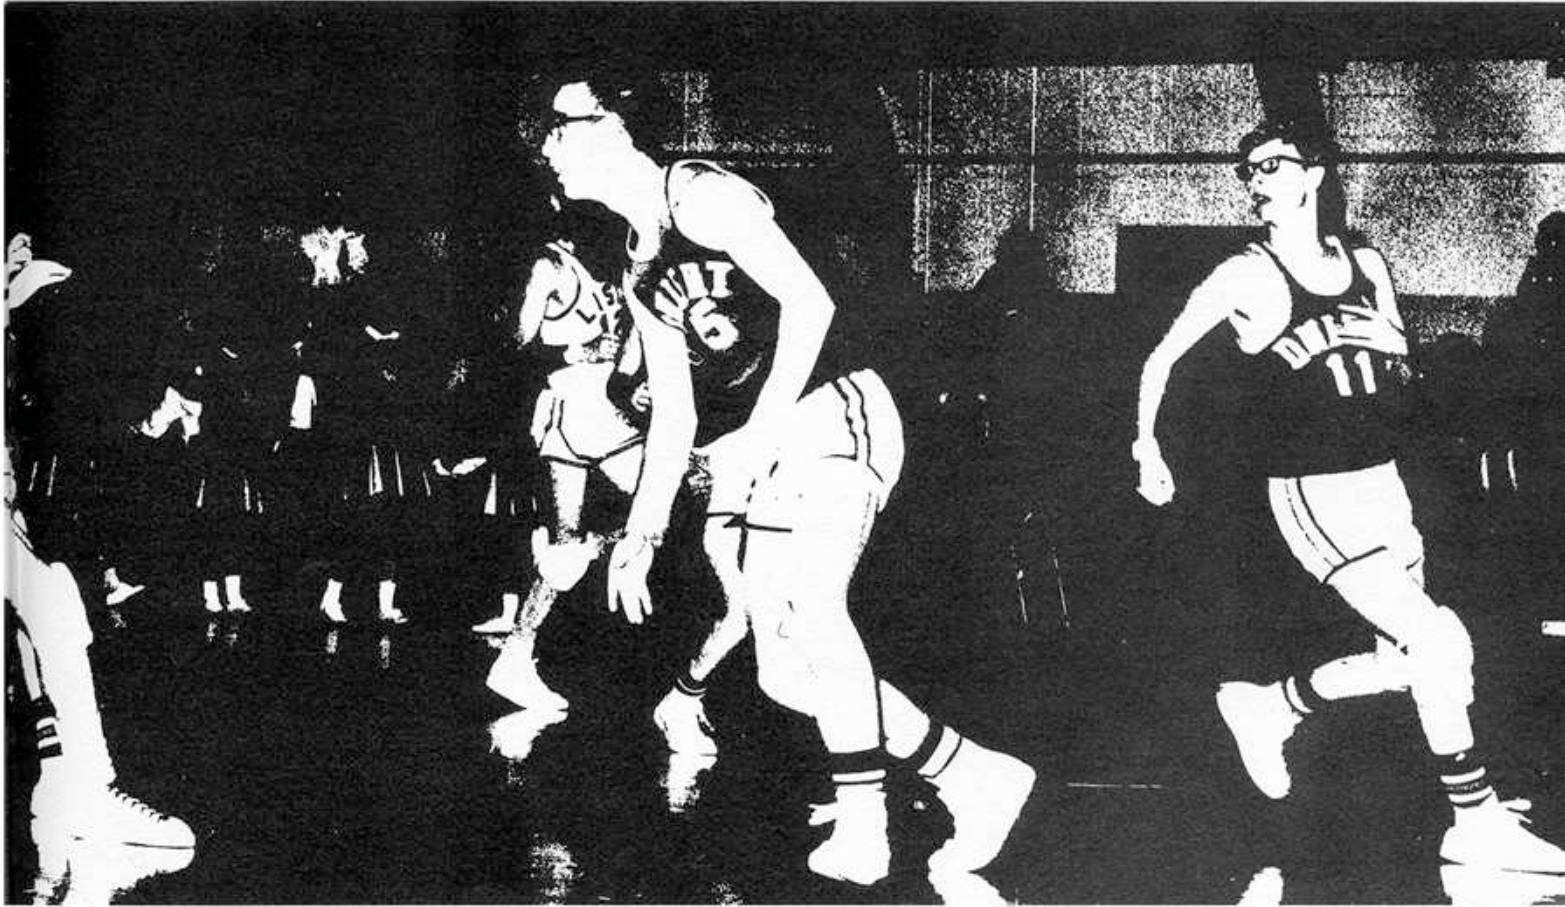

Man's best friend may be his dog, but Mark Ross learns that a Layout Editor's best friend is his scaleograph.

tenacity to successfully inspire Lisle to the brink of victory

Cheering continues and one's own injuries must be forgotten for the moment. Pam Gabler gives a whole-hearted cheer even with a bandaged leg.

School spirit has been at its peak this year. Much of the credit for the tremendous increase must be given to the cheerleaders. They have fulfilled their job—to promote enthusiasm throughout the student body.

Once weekly they practice to improve their skills. Throughout the week the energetic girls work diligently to learn new cheers, synchronize body movements, and maintain their smiles. Miss Hurban, cheerleading advisor, is on hand at all practices and games to discuss new ideas and help whenever needed.

Illinois State University was the setting for a week of camp to which the varsity squad attended. During this week they learned many new cheers, pom-pom routines, and gymnastic stunts. In the daily competition they won many ribbons.

The makings of a cheerleader; a never-ending smile, and boundless pep and energy, are certainly evident in these girls. They spread a wave of pep through the crowd, encourage the team, and are definitely an inspiration at every game.

Team spirit is sparked by the Frosh-Soph cheerleaders during a short time-out.

Lionettes provide half-time entertainment for a Lisle home game.

Lisle's drill team, better known as the Lionettes, is composed of girls who practice diligently to achieve precision in dance routines with suitable musical accompaniment. The group provides half-time entertainment at home football and basketball games. Highlights of the year included marching in Lisle's, as well as Yorkville's, homecoming parades, and La Grange's Annual Pet Parade.

Lettermen's Club promotes the pride and distinction of being a Varsity Letter Winner. This year, the Lettermen earned money by supervising crowds at basketball games and had concessions. They plan to sponsor one athlete to a Fellowship of Christian Athletes Summer Camp.

Varsity Football

Varsity defense put Lisle in close conference competition

Go, fight, win! This was the enthusiastic cry heard throughout the halls during football season.

Our varsity team got off with a bang in the early season games. The first two games (against Stevenson and Marseilles) were tied, but in the following games the Lions moved right along into second place with three big wins from Sandwich, Lemont, and Plano. Spirit was high with twice as many fans going to all away games and a noticeable increase in the amount of attendance at all of the home games. The Lisle Booster Club managed to make every game even when they couldn't get a bus.

With all this school spirit and with a rating of second place in the Northeast Conference, the Lisle Lions went to Yorkville for the Foxes' homecoming. In the first quarter, Yorkville completed two touch-downs and two extra points, while Lisle could only come back with one touch-down and an extra point. This didn't harm school spirit at the next game with Lisle playing Wilmington. Again the Lions allowed two touch-downs and this time the Wildcats held Lisle from scoring with the final score Lisle 0, Wilmington 14.

First place Dwight was Lisle's next opponent. The Trojans rolled over the Lions and won the conference trophy.

Roncalli was the Lions last game. Lisle completed it's fourth win of the season. Lisle won 4, lost 3, and tied 2. We finished fifth in the North-East Conference.

Three Lisle Lions were named for the 1967 Northeast All-Conference team: Mike Hood, a senior for center position; Mike Brady, a junior for tackle; and Tom Joy, a senior for end position. Junior Phil Nystedt was given Honorable Mention for fullback.

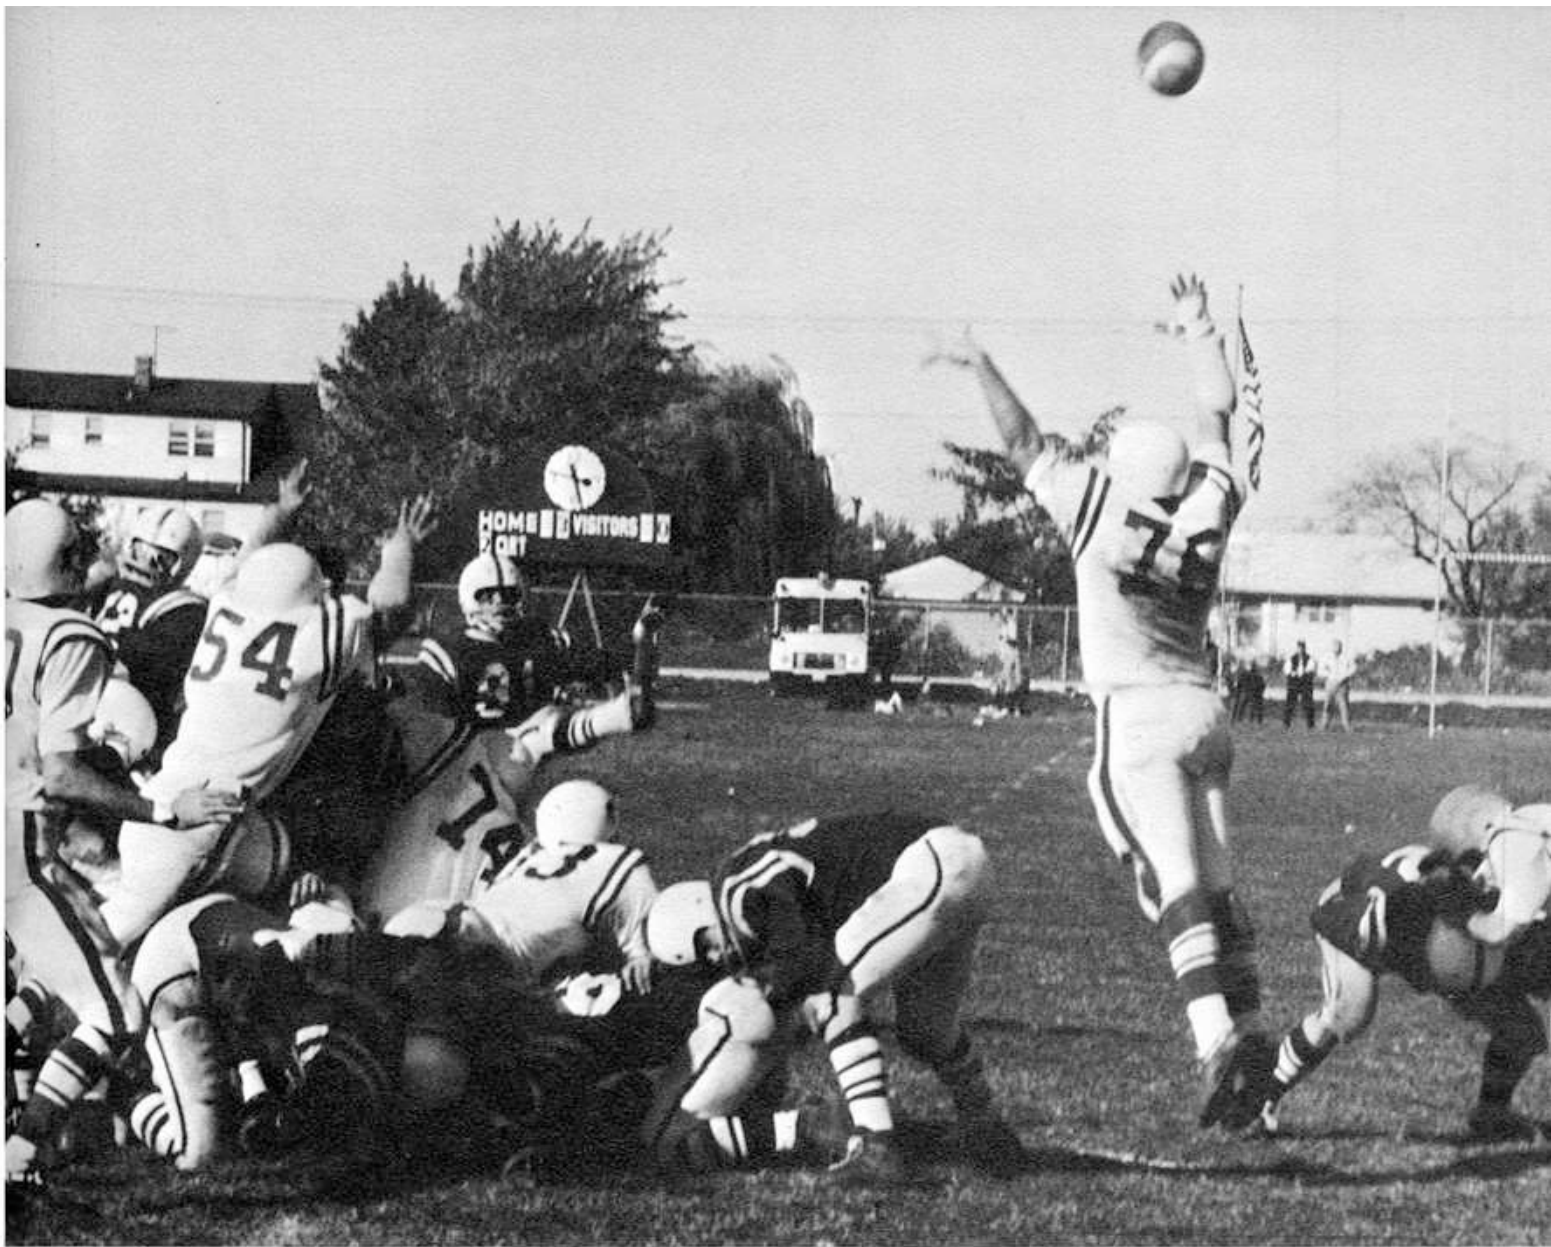

Behind strong blocking Tom Joy kicks another of his fine shots. In this same game Tom kicked a 45 yard field goal, a Lisle record.

Junior quarterback, Marty Francis, who was a strong second string hurler, will have a good effect on next year's team.

The frosh-soph's fighting spirit was evident during every play in all games.

A Plano back finds it necessary to really "turn on the steam" in what soon ended in a vain attempt at alluding two Lisle aggressors.

Frosh-Soph Football

Cubs found it rough going during most of the season, but never were spirits low

The 1967 frosh-soph football season turned out with a record of but one win tainted by nine losses. The losses were unbelievable, for the team had pretty good specifications. They had size and speed as well as talent. The Cub's showed good blocking, tackling, and running. They never were defeated by outrageous scores and the games were always exciting. The future of the frosh-soph players looks bright. The experience they earned this year will prepare them for next year's football season.

The frosh-soph coach, Mr. Galovich, watches intently as the important activities on the field continue.

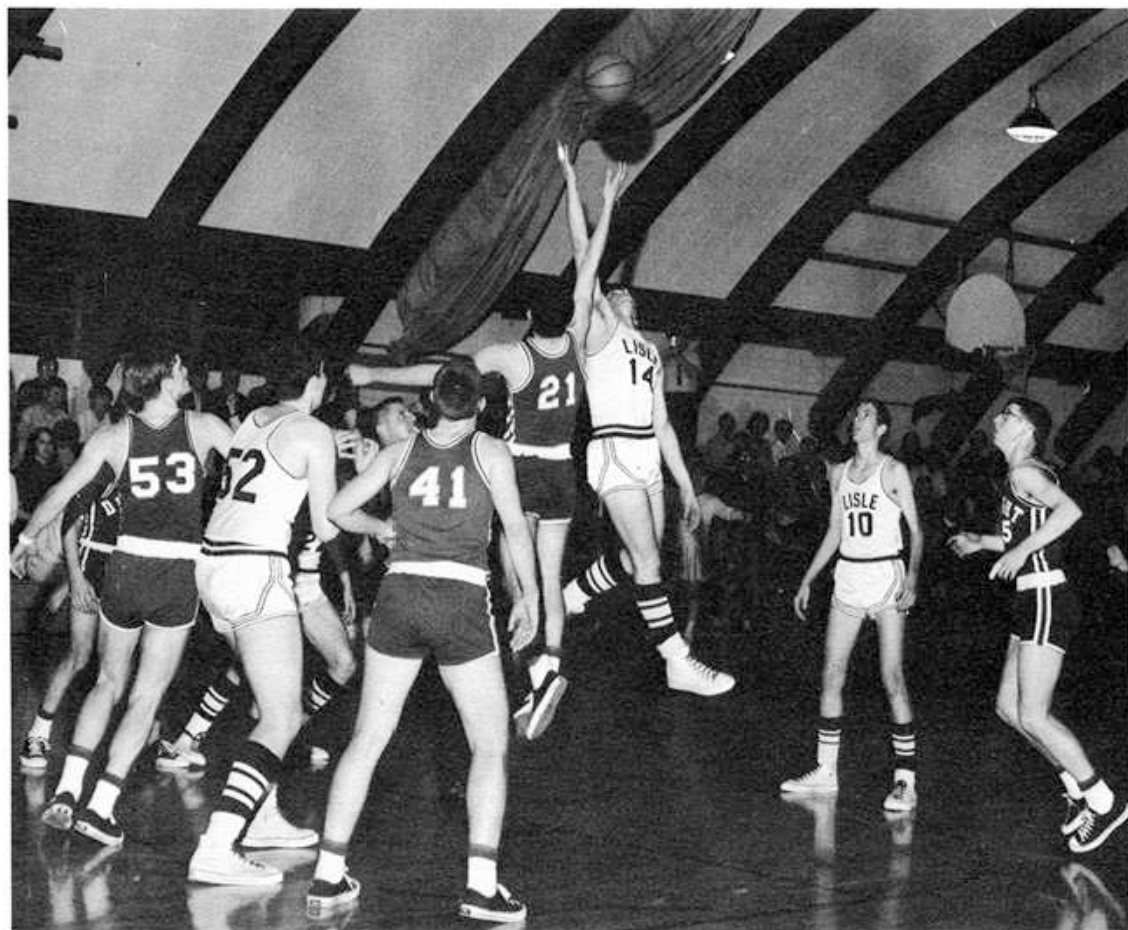

Varsity Basketball

Lisle Lions defeat opposition to achieve Second Place in the Conference, setting a new record!

The '67-'68 basketball season found Lisle second in the Conference with an 11 win, 3 loss record. The only teams capable of defeating the Lions were the first place Yorkville Foxes (14-0) and the Dwight Trojans who held third place (10-4).

John Carothers our 6'7" center not only took in most of the rebounds for Lisle but added valuable lay-ups that would keep us ahead at the end of the game. Bob Lindgren and Kirby Kepford were our two forwards which had gained experience in the previous years of basketball at Lisle. Guards were Tom Joy and Sonny Florian. All these men put together meant victory; and Lisle played it's best season of basketball in 10 years.

Sophomores follow example of Varsity and gain Second Place

Scrambling for the ball, Jim Peer retrieves for Lisle.

Victory struck again for Lisle as the Sophomore team, coached by Mr. Fee, placed second in the Northeast Conference. Many long hours of practice during the week went into the perfecting of dribbling, passing, and making baskets. The real test of skill occurred on the court with their rivals.

Men like Tom Pausche, Al Warner, and Paul Tsukuno will make up the backbone of next year's Varsity Team.

Track and Cross-Country

Cross-country team joins Lisle's sports program

The fall of 1967 marked the rise of a cross-country program at LCHS. Although the Lisle boys were up against excellent competition, they always gave the "extra effort." Coach Ciesielski drilled the boys every night in a run of about five miles. Some of the races were run in slippery mud and pouring rain. Jim Shultz was leading man on the mileage ladder, closing the season with 162 miles. Next year's winning team will be molded from the experience of this year's team.

Oblivious to the cold and rain Lisle's cindermen trained persistently through the spring. Starting early with practice in the gym and gradually moving outside, coach Ciesielski held his stopwatch through numberless races and uncounted jumps. With training and encouragement Lisle's trackmen showed strong improvement in certain events. Bart Clouston broke the record by pole vaulting 12 ft. 3 in.

The efforts of these fine athletes put Lisle on the cinder path to victory.

Baseball

Although their 1967 season was unsuccessful, maybe next year . . .

The Lisle 1967 baseball squad had an unsuccessful season with 0 wins and 9 losses. Every game was played away because our home field was "out of condition."

Mike Hood, one of our pitchers, hit a grand slam home run in the middle of the season against Yorkville. Even with Hood pitching, Bob Lindgren catching, Steve Cook at first, Bruce Wolfing at second, and Mike Brady at third Yorkville went on to win the game.

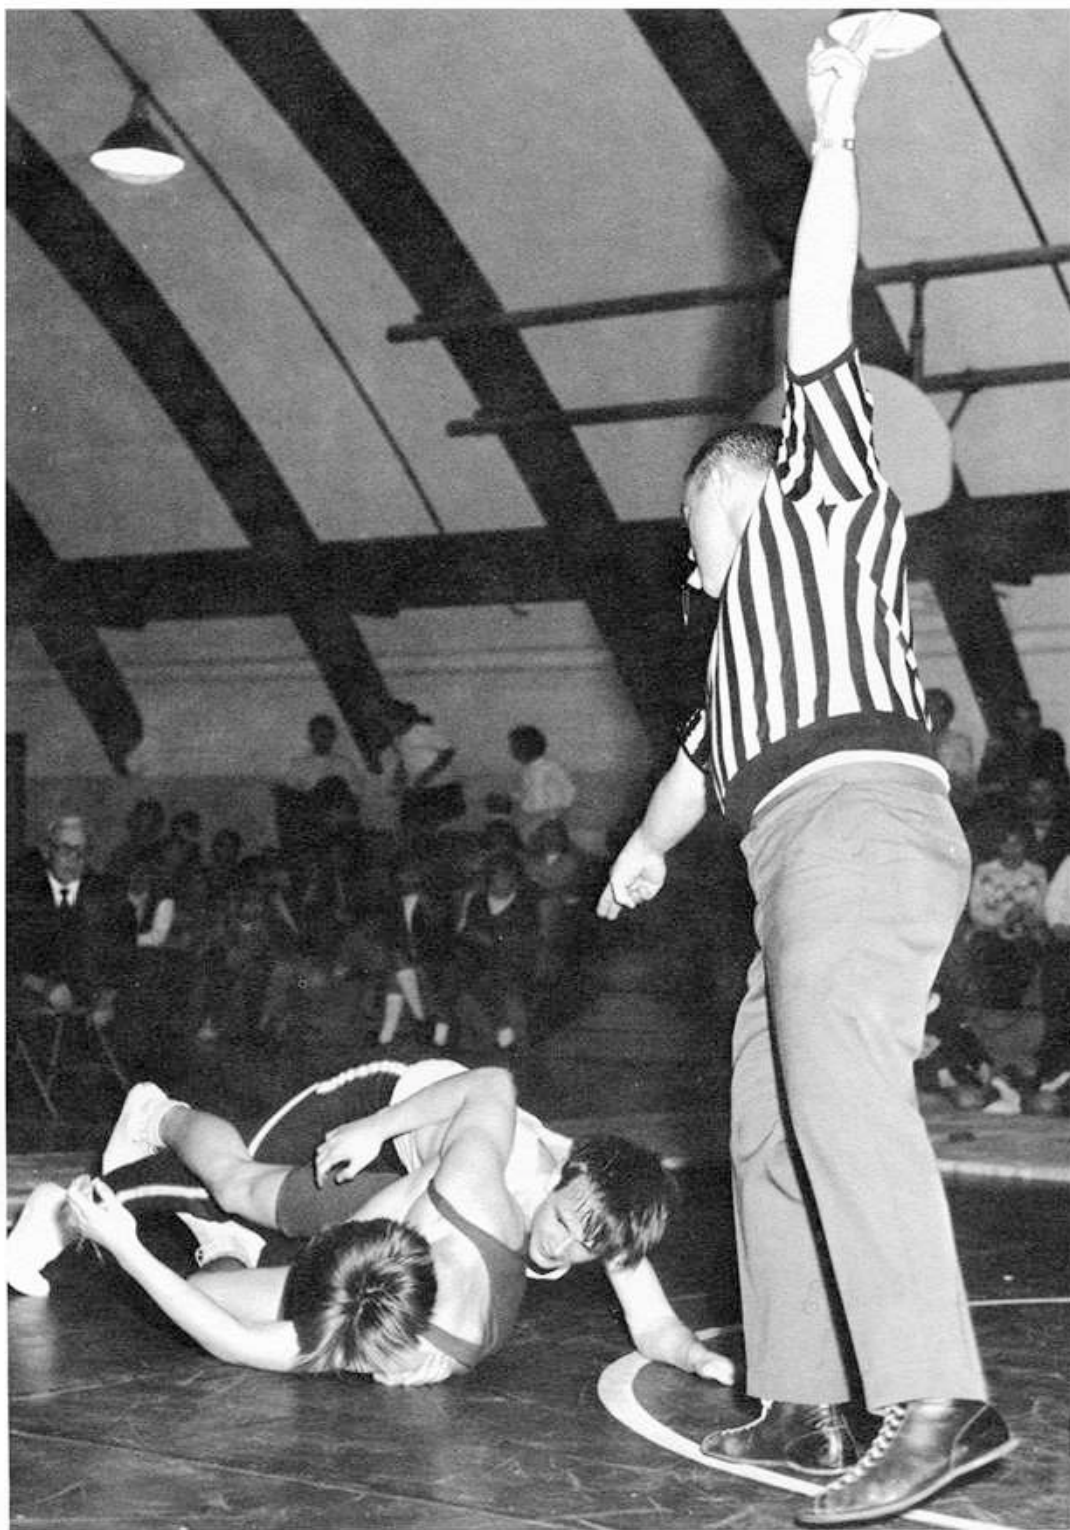

Next year will be a promising season if more Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors will come out. Of course, the Seniors will be there winning the games for Lisle also.

Bill Tinker keeps in condition to put up a hard fight against the opposing team.

Wrestling

Coach Galovich proudly leads Lisle's grapplers to their best scoring season with many promises in store for coming years

The '68 Wrestling Team has progressed in more ways than any wrestling team from Lisle. Everyday at four o'clock the squad practiced in the 110° wrestling room. Each member worked out in sweat clothes learning new holds, counters, and how to build up his body for the moment when another man his own age and weight would meet him on the mat and match skills. Wrestling is not only learning the holds and counters but applying them while the other man resists.

Although our wrestling team has been unsuccessful up to now, we hope to build the younger members into experienced men who, in a few years, will become the backbone of our team. No one can truly appreciate a wrestling team unless he comes out and supports them or becomes a member of the team. Once you become involved you will find it a type of entertainment that you will never forget!

Nick Heinz and Mike Athey practice to prepare for the rough meet ahead.

Coach Galovich gives advice before Mike Athey meets his opponent in the next match.

*It is only the beginning—the struggle to become a future senior.
These first three years show a great deal of promise.
But there is so much to be absorbed in so little time!
We learn participation, sportsmanship, gain knowledge, and mature in the process.
There is a lot to look forward to—
But we must tread carefully, for progress takes time.*

Freshmen week started out with a bang! The Freshmen had little blue beanies which set the mood for an exciting week. The Freshmen girls had to wear gym shoes, bobby socks, and no make-up! The Freshmen boys had to wear ties, white socks, and gym shoes. They had to carry a stuffed animal all day long. Also, every time an upper-classman talked to them they had to answer with respect and say, "Yes, Sir" - "No, Sir." Whenever Freshmen didn't follow these instructions they were given demerits.

On Friday, the Freshmen with the most demerits had to ride tricycles across the gym and push marshmallows back with their nose.

All in all our first Freshmen Week was a large success, even though the Freshmen may disagree!

Energetic spirit, imagination, and hard work created the Freshman Homecoming float.

the moods and memories of an unforgettable evening

The night, the music, the mood—all theirs to share.

“Le Jaune Fleur Balle” titled the Junior-Senior Prom for 1967. After long hours of preparation and planning, a glorious evening began but ended only too soon. Dancing, laughter and pure pleasure were enjoyed through the evening headed by the music of the Andrew Marchese Orchestra. Rhythm as well as laughter moved throughout the room as the Lombard Commons transformed into a flower-filled spring fantasyland.

May 20, 1967 was remembered to the Seniors as their last high school prom. To Juniors it was the climax of meticulous preparation and the exhausting problems of fund raising and decorating. To all it was remembered as a wonderful evening climaxed with a trip filled with sun, sand, and cold water at the Warren Dunes in Michigan.

A school progresses with the branches of its community.

*Our community is where we live and work and play.
We learn to live with others—to know that they are close at hand to help.*

We gain many lasting friendships with peoples from all walks of life.

*We are richer for this understanding and friendship.
From toddler to school-child to adult—we grow with our community.*

 Yearbook 64.65

The year has become a series of remembered sights and sounds

It seems such a short time ago when all of this began. Another year is over—but our growth will continue. The future is ours.

*All has now ended—
Except the memories.
Cramming for exams, cheering at pep assemblies, rushing to classes, and staying for club meetings are all over for another year.
For the freshmen, it has been a year of learning to become a part of the school.
For sophomores and juniors, it has been a year for further progress in studies and activities.
For the seniors, it has been the final year for preparation and decisions about the future.
We have gained many new concepts about our world.
Our minds and bodies have matured and developed.
But yet—
When will we be sure we have grown enough?*

Acknowledgments

A yearbook could never be successfully completed without the assistance of many who donate their time and skills. This year has been one with many helping hands.

First, we would like to thank Mrs. Straub. This first year as advisor has been very hectic for her, and we deeply appreciate her guidance. Mr. Haney and Mr. Snyder from Consolidated Graphic Arts have given us excellent service on our book, and Waling Studio has done well on photography.

We would also like to thank Mrs. Lindemann and Mrs. Everette for their continual patience with the many perplexed staff members who wandered into the office with unlimited questions. Jim Tibbetts did an excellent job in developing rolls of film for us. This year's staff has been fortunate to have a patient and understanding faculty and administration; especially when it came to problems in picture scheduling and taking.

Finally, we would like to thank the entire student body for their cooperation as we tried to take pictures and write copy. Only with the invaluable help of these people could we complete the 1968 Valé.
