Prom

Mystery of the Orient: Shangri-La

The mysterious atmosphere of the Far East was reproduced by the Class of '72 for last year's Prom. The beautiful mobiles and Chinese lanterns combined with the exotic plants and the waiters dressed in Japanese robes created an aura of peace and tranquility reminiscent of the Orient. The tinkle of the mobiles mingled with the flowing music and subdued conversation seemed to make time stand still.

For the Juniors, it was a time of contentment that they had attended their first Prom. For the Seniors, the quiet held a melancholy air as they had time to reflect on their fleeting moments before graduation. All too soon it was over. The decorations disappeared mysteriously, the dancers filtered through the exits, and the silent, empty room made a sad farewell.

"Gee, Keith, your hands are cold."

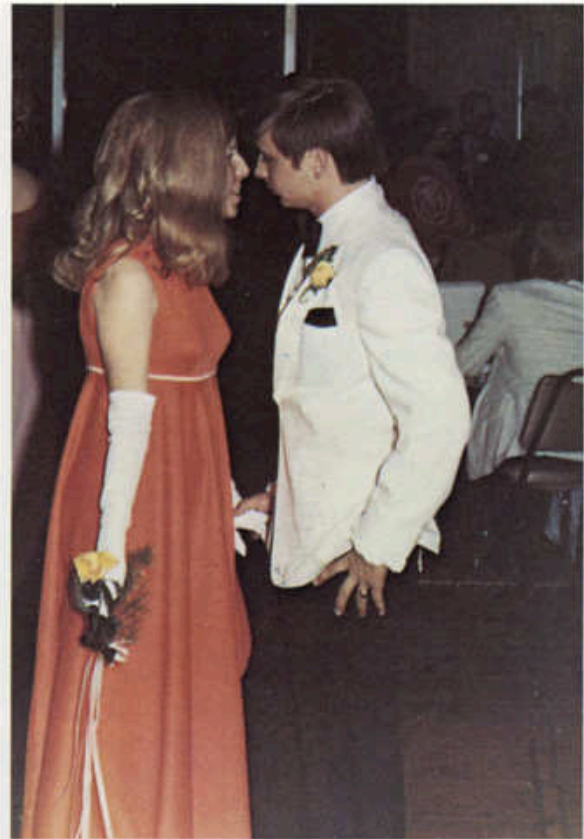

Opening a bottle of "sparkling Cantaba" is both fun and suspenseful.

Homecoming

Emerald City Glows Alumni Welcome

This year's homecoming surpassed all others in the revitalization of dragging spirit. The day of the snake dance, spirit exploded into parades and songs which involved even the most apathetic students. This same spirit bubbled all over the Pep rally and crowning of the queen and extended into the dance. This year's theme, Emerald City, provided a romantic backdrop as students and alumni alike allowed their pent-up enthusiasm to vitalize the evening.

Changes Add to Talent Show's Success

A new home, a new format, and lots of new talent all combined to make the new LCHS Variety Show, both a resounding success and a truly versatile vehicle for young talent. More students than ever before jammed the available time slots for acts, and competition became fierce as the date came closer and closer. The hard work and hours of practice that each participant expended really added to the quality of the hour and a half show. All of the three choirs, as well as individual acts of comedy, and music, emceed by seniors Cyndi Geyer and Bill Esposito, contributed to the show's success.

Musical

Call of the South Pacific

"Bali Hai may call you, any night, any day," and so may the L.C.H.S. musical, "South Pacific," the tragic love story of two young couples, a Navy lieutenant and an island girl; and a Navy nurse and a French planter, within the exotic framework of a tropic island during World War II. In the tradition of Lisle musicals, South Pacific was a smashing success with a happy ending for both cast and characters. For the characters, it was the touching conclusion of a love affair, and for the cast, the satisfaction of hard work rewarded.

Black Comedy = Fall Entertainment

A surprise phone call from Clea.

"Black Comedy" isn't a racial thing; it's Lisle's newest step forward in sophistication for the fall drama. The unusual title comes from the fact that the play centers around the complications that result when a struggling young artist, Brindsley Miller, and his socialite fiancée, Carol, steal a friend's furniture to impress guests and are forced to deal with some very unexpected company just as a fuse goes out. The problems that result from the surprise visits of the furniture's owner and Brindsley's ex-mistress are complicated by the darkness. Although it sounds quite confusing, the lights-off, lights-on panic of "Black Comedy" is an unparalleled advancement in fall entertainment.

The situation worsens for Brindsley.

Jamboree Strikes New Note

Student's revenge.

Balloons — cheap plastic whistles — cotton candy — children screaming — drag-'em-off-and-lock-'em up stocks. Every year the crowds at Jamboree get bigger. Every year the booths get wilder — the Sex-O-Meter that measured your sex appeal; the Baseball Toss, that dumped hardy students into a vat of icy water till they got out dripping and climbed back up to their perch waiting to get dumped again. Jamboree is Lisle's annual carnival, mad-house, come-as-you-are-and-put-your-best-friend-in-the-stocks. Young and old come, more every year, not just the high school students, but their brothers and sisters and grandmas and dads. So what if you never win that stuffed animal? You can't beat three tries for fifteen cents!

"Come on in, the water's fine!"

Connie Galloy and friend get hairsets, the hard way.

"Not the wooden lips, you fool! Me!"

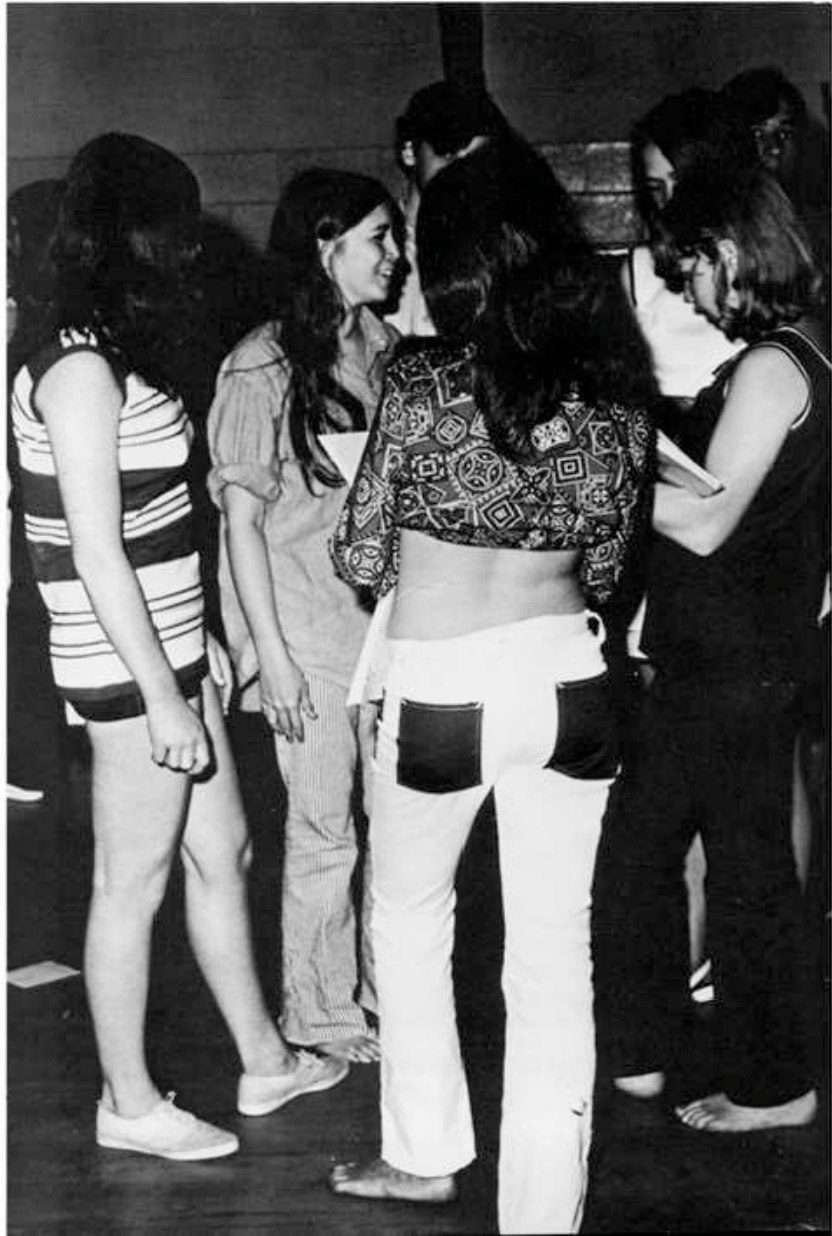

A choice of prizes.

Yearbook Dance Sparks Memories

Jane Handy gets comfortable as she tries to think of what to write.

The year stretched itself out through the Kickoff Dance, Homecoming, Sadie Hawkins, the Christmas Dance and Prom and finally, the Year Book Dance arrived. The last big gathering of the year, Year Book Dance gave the Seniors their last chance to gather memories and signatures before graduation. For underclassmen, the dance was a chance to meet and talk, to prolong the fun of soc-hops, and to extend just a little the social life of the school year. But, most important, it gave the students a chance to cement and perpetuate friendships with the sometimes weird, sometimes funny, and sometimes trite comments written painstakingly over the Vale's pages.

Just as much talking as writing was done.

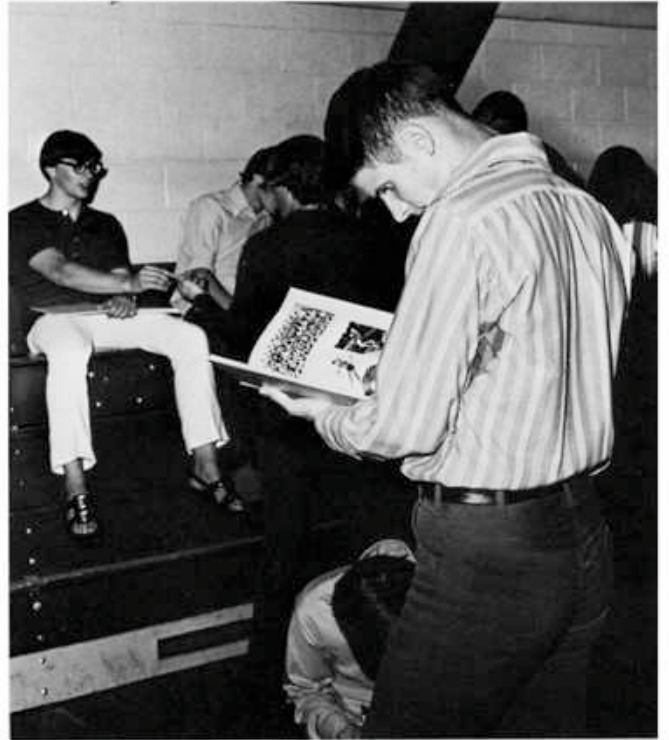

Karen Vocelka concentrates on a numerous quote.

"Aw, come on. What if his parents read the Yearbook?"

Amid all the confusion, there's time to read.

Dave Tyznik pauses a minute to sign a fan's Yearbook.

Administration

Administration Means Efficiency

After Lisle's pass-policy change, the administration was called everything from "Warden" to, well, never mind. Theirs is a difficult and far-from appreciated position, and they maintain it with decorum and efficiency. While other high schools are rocked with riots, Lisle is perennially calm. Internal disorders and discontent are usually dealt with by the fair practice of a discussion with the student body. Not a shouting session, but a discussion. But, whenever a policy fails, malcontent mounts, or efficiency drops, the shovelfuls of blame are quickly and gleefully heaped around the administration. Yet no praise or thanks is ever expressed for the basic purpose of the main office: to maintain an orderly and efficient situation where students can learn.

Mr. Henry Hornbeck, Principal.

Mr. Baum, Dean of Students.

Mrs. Maxine Murphy, Secretary to Mr. Baum, and ...

Mrs. Helen Lindemann, Secretary to Mr. Hernbeck, all contribute to the office's efficiency.

Mrs. Betty Nordstrom, Office Secretary, and ...

Guidance — For Help Past High School

Guidance is a job which requires the utmost in patience, as well as care. Coping with the tangled schedule of a Frosh, advising a jittery Senior on college prospects, and persuading a dropout to stay in school are all functions of the Guidance Department. Their administrations extend far past high school and a mistake can be disastrous without our expert counselors. College would be only a dream in a panicky senior's eye. Unraveling the intricacies of college enrollment, advising on scholarships, loans and grants, and career counseling are only small parts of the Guidance office's functions.

Mr. Doolen chortles at the thought of scholarships.

... While Miss Engelman relaxes despite the hazards of freshman counseling.

Mr. Young advises seniors on college applications.

And Mrs. Kramer, Guidance Secretary, keeps the office efficient.

Foreign Lang.

To Study Another Way of Life

French and Spanish: doors to another's mind. Languages: keys to a way of life older than our own. To communicate in a foreign language is to exchange the most precious gift of all — ideas and the understanding that can blossom from them. That is the goal of the Foreign Language Department — to give each student the opportunity to reach out with words to someone of a different culture and to exchange freely ideas, philosophies and customs.

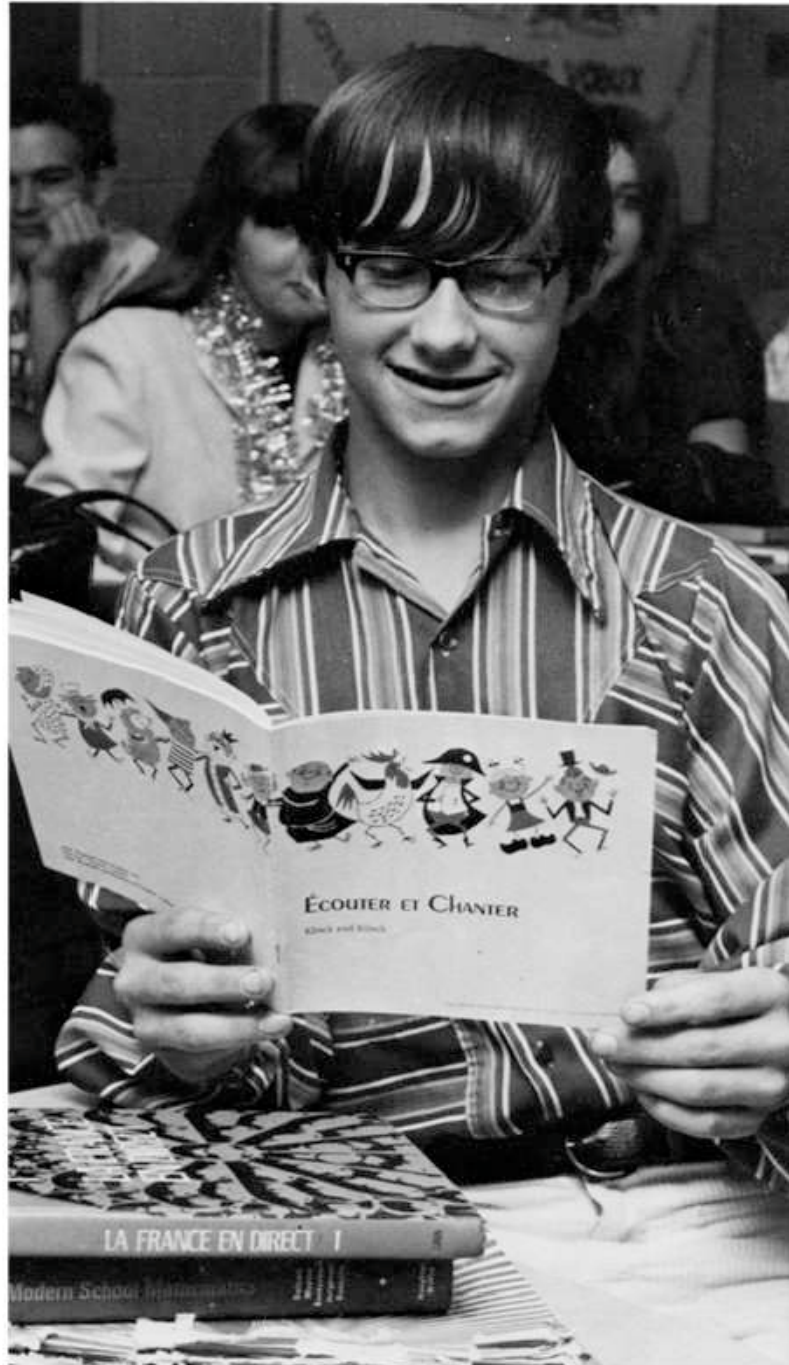

Mr. George Beloz.

Mrs. Driggett.

Mrs. Sylvia Sonney.

English

English Extends Ideas Through Time

Language is as flexible and unbreakable as a steel spring. Always changing, evolving, from old English to modern, added to bit by bit by the Anglos, Saxons, Jutes, Romans, Normans, Germans and countless others. English carries great thoughts through all time. Words are poured together to form the intricate, rigid beauty of a sonnet or the flowing symbolism of free verse. To teach the student to discern, understand and appreciate is the goal of the L.C.H.S. English Department.

Mr. Munnecke chairs the English Department.

Mrs. Beverly Fiore concentrates on theater and speech, while

Mrs. Margaret Phinney explores literature and rhetoric.

Science

Science — One Small Step For Knowledge

Ours is a technological society. To be contemporary, even to survive, one must have knowledge of the basic principles of science upon which each tiny action is based. To delve forward into further scientific advancement, it is necessary to understand past and present achievements. Science is a limitless plain bounding into the future, and students must move forward on this plain to become the doctors, chemists, biological engineers, physicists and electrical engineers of the future.

Mr. John Ciesielski combines Lab Science with mechanics . . .

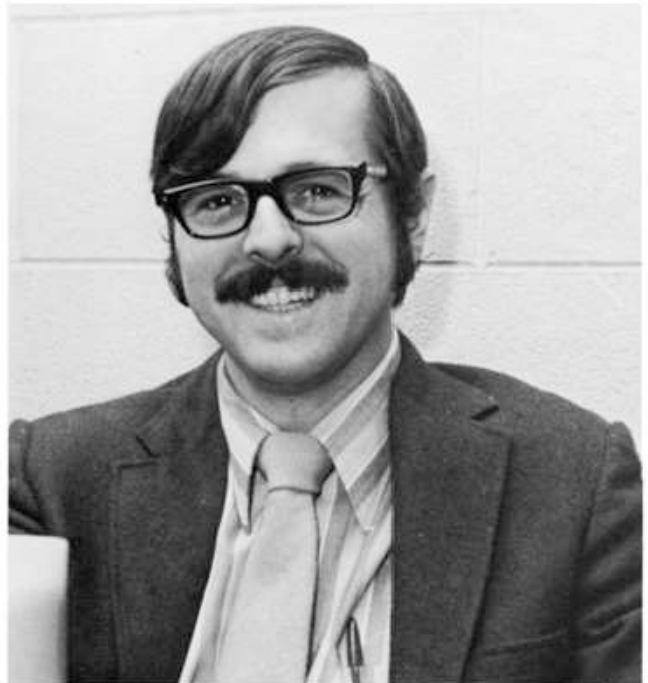

but Upperclassmen still prefer electronics.

Mr. Clarence Jensen expounds the principles of Physics, physical science and Electronics.

Mr. Larry Bates, however, concentrates on Biology and Earth Sciences.

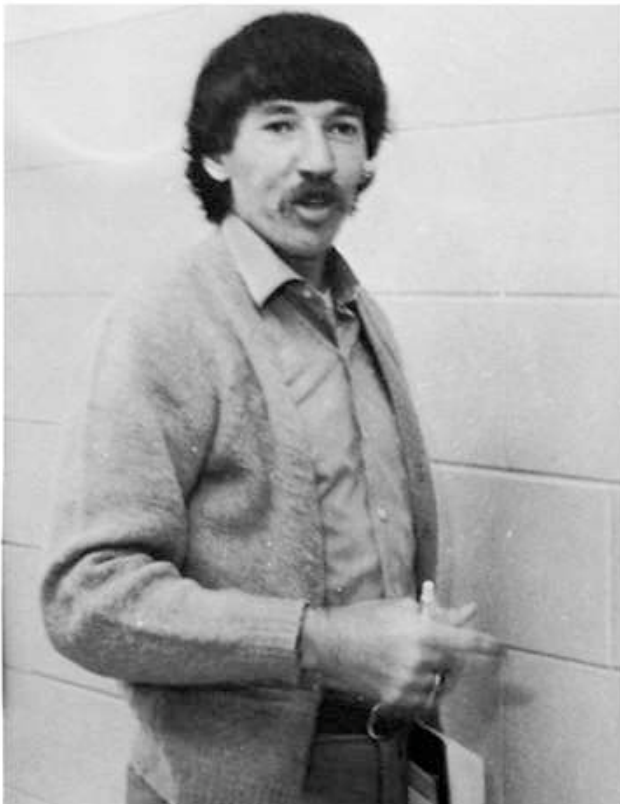

Math

Equation For Extension

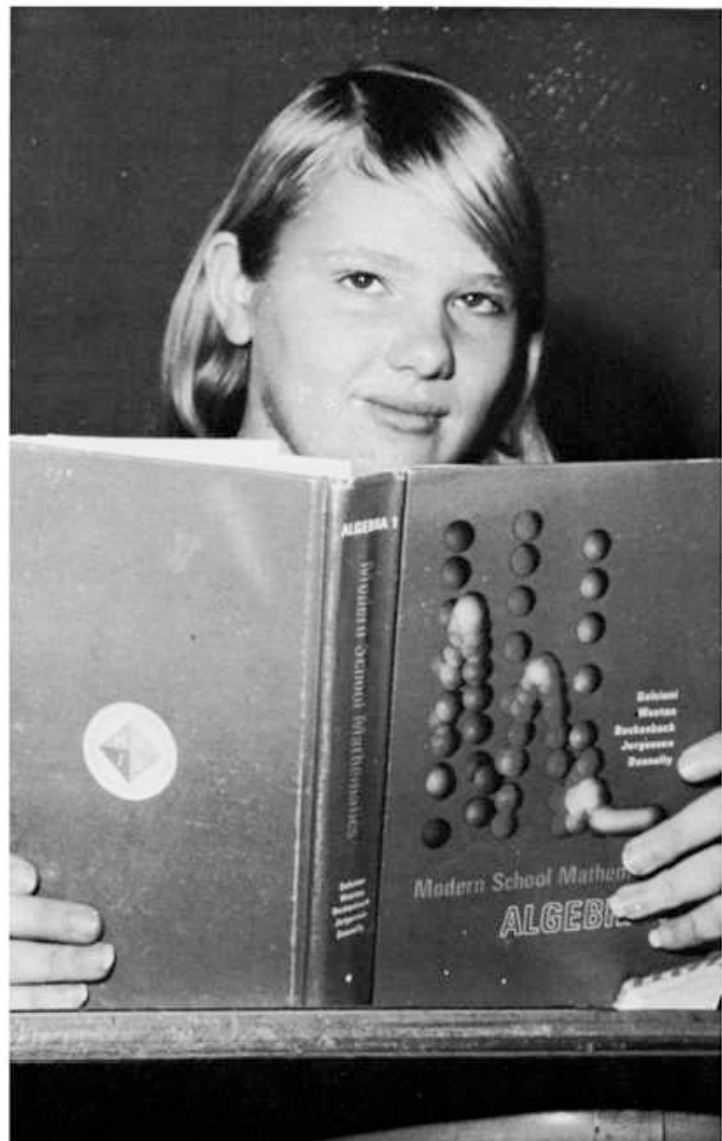

Math — geometry, algebra, trigonometry, analysis — is an extension of the students' society. Math is the key to both every day problems and higher research science; to both the student's present and future. Lisle's Math Department tries to provide a firm foundation for future study as well as practical knowledge, so that whether a student advances to Calculus or settles for Algebra I, his knowledge is always applicable.

Mr. Donald James. "Parabolas can be fun."

Math requires diligent study.

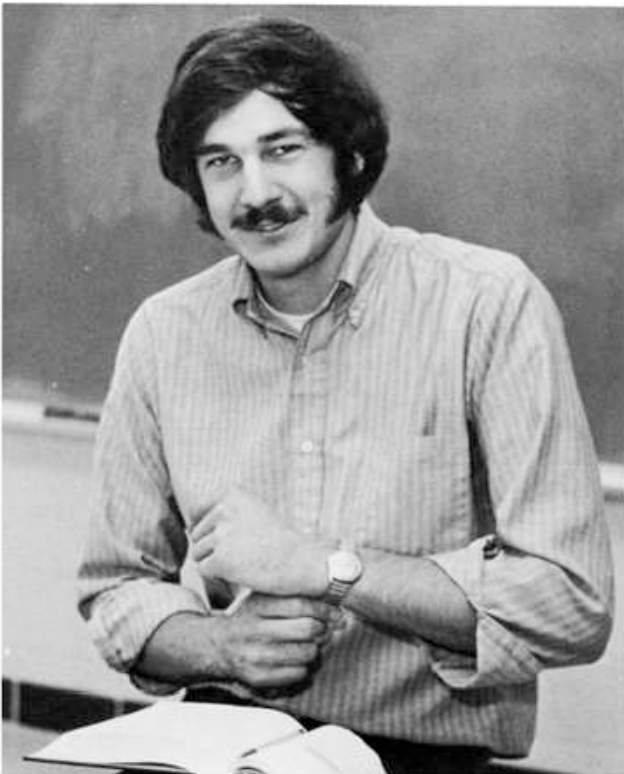

Mr. Peter Paul struggles with an Algebra problem ...

Mr. Keith Allen, meanwhile, plans a quiz.

Home-Ec.

Home-Ec. Developes Skills of Caring

You can't sew a button on a skirt without stabbing yourself 27 times. Your boyfriend thought your pizza tasted like cheese-covered plaster. You get so nervous taking care of kids that you wind up with diaper rash. Take HOME EC. Your cooking may not improve, but your confidence will. Teaching girls the art of home-making is the basic goal of the Home Economics Department. If you're a soon-to-be swinging bachelor who can't stand his own cooking, try Chef's Cookery. It's not the Galloping Gourmet, but then he doesn't have to eat what he cooks. Vocational Food Service takes up where the experienced Chef stops and provides training for future restauraners, bakers, and chefs. All together, Lisle provided an efficient, varied Home Ec program.

The children are still interested in the story.

Mrs. Parker tries to rescue someone's cookies.

Jamie Simpson, Vick Shugart and Debbie Gains display their gingerbread houses . . .

Mrs. Johansen, meanwhile, directs the preparation of a snack.

Industrial Arts

Creativity Expresses Itself in Shop

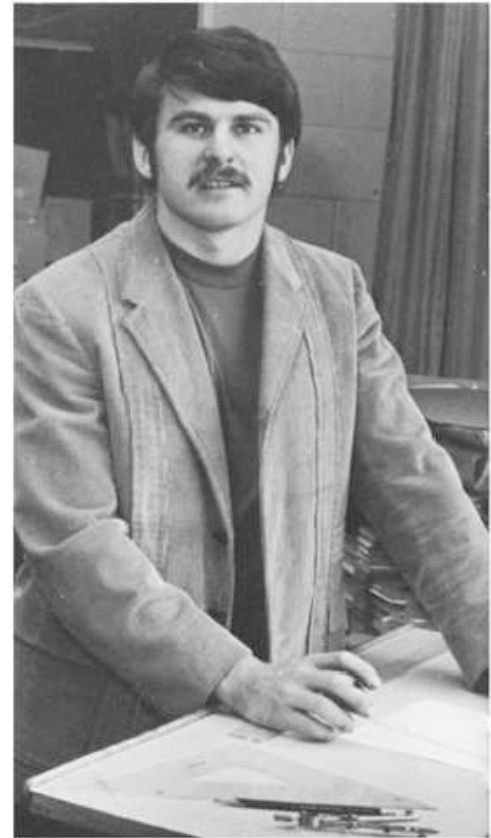

Shop is more than just the male version of Home Ec. It gives high school guys the chance to express themselves creatively and at the same time receive vocational guidance. Through woodworking, machines, and welding, students can create useful items, develop job or hobby skills, and learn the basics about auto repair. Both imagination and practicality are taught to come into harmony together in shop creativity.

Mr. Donald Tooley

and Mr. Jerry Diesren plan shop activities.

while Mr. Wakefield goes back to the drawing board.

Tony Vodicka explores woodworking.

Shop equipment develops industrial skills.

Art

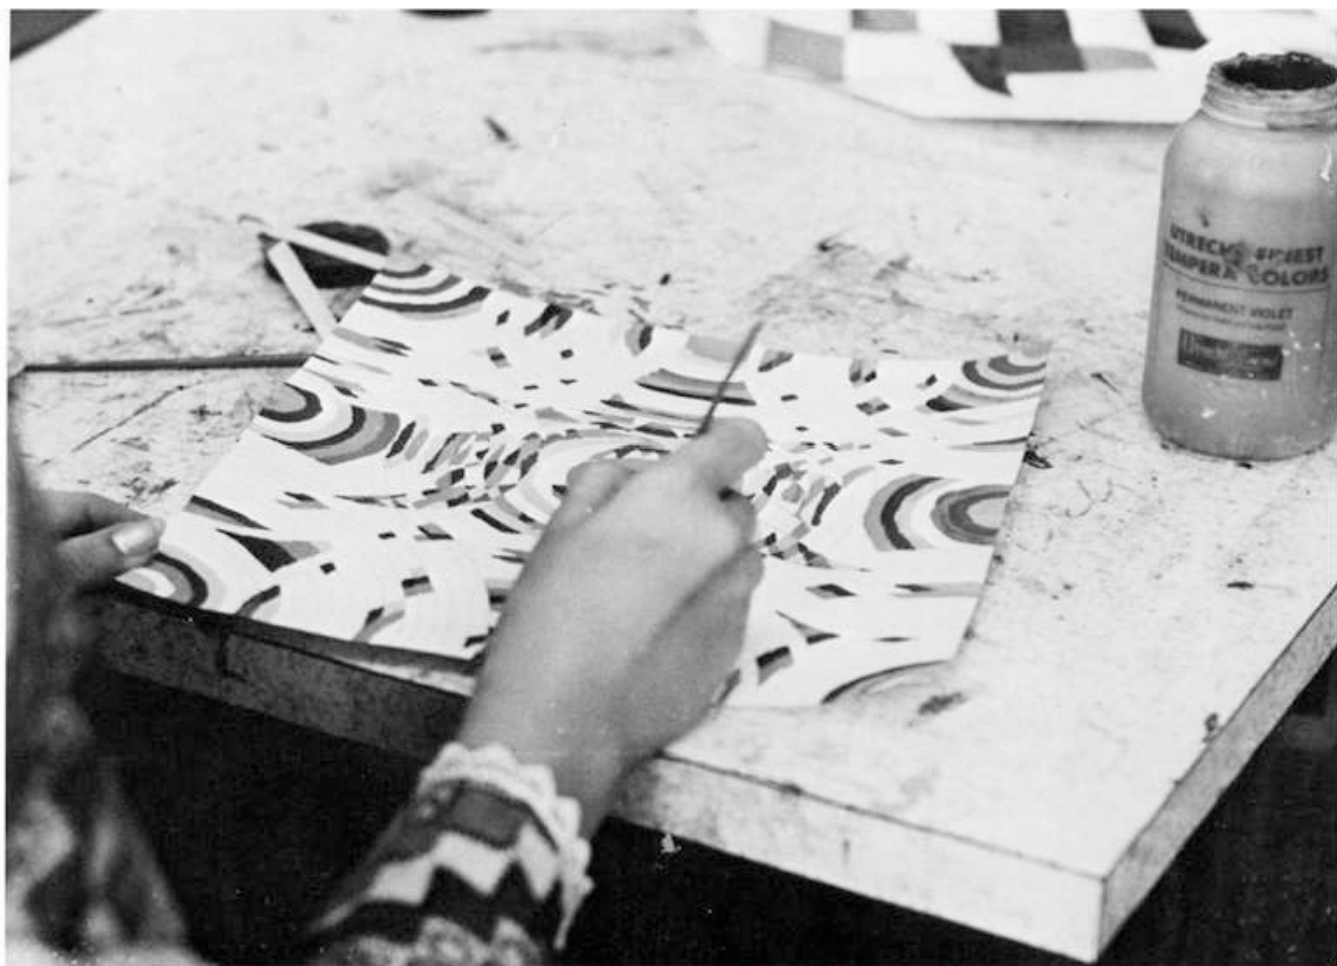

Art Is Everywhere!

Beautiful ugly original Art is everything! Creativity expands the world of eyes and hands. The mind becomes visual, tactile. Thoughts touch the senses of the viewer, past, present, future. Vision evokes a response, a feeling, good or evil. Creative, expanding, breeding feelings from clay or canvas. Art is a developing, mystical, unscientific science — the science of the mind and hand and eye.

Mrs. Doris Straub.

The perfect complicated masterpiece starts as a simple paint-by-number.

Business Classes Extend Students' Horizons

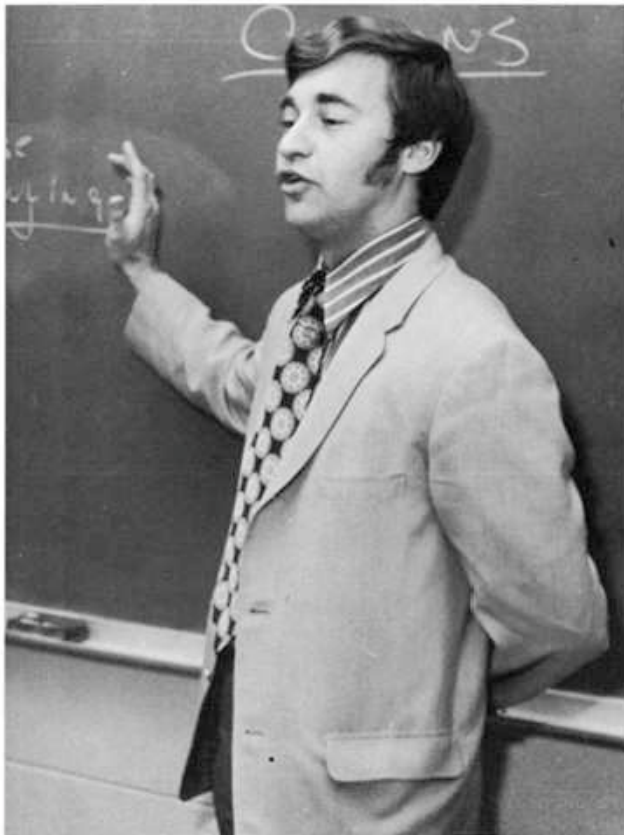

For the benefit of students wishing to extend their studies beyond academic subjects, business courses are offered. This year LCHS has eight such courses. First year business students start with the General Business course. From there, they progress to Shorthand I, Office Machines or Typing I, in order to become secretaries. Or, students can go on to Business Law, Bookkeeping, Retailing or Salesmanship to become ambitious capitalists!

Mr. Robert Jones helps students prepare for business careers . . .

. . . as does Mrs. Swanson.

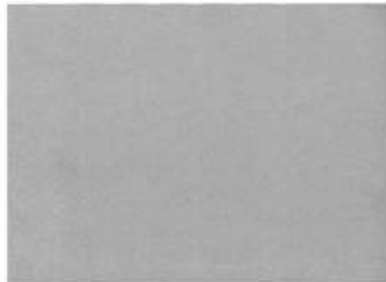

Mr. Twitty concentrates on the intricacies of buying, as well as other aspects of business ...

... while Mrs. Goldie Brown is most renowned for teaching uncoordinated fingers to hit the right typewriter key.

Books Reach Out Through Time

The world is limitless and uncontainable. Humans may capture and imprison only fragments of the whole, but those fragments are scattered over the earth in cleverly disguised containers that many students never voluntarily examine. They are called books, and they are the key to whatever knowledge or enjoyment man has snatched from his environment. Like their source, they too, are infinite and their contents are indestructible. They give enjoyment and education while they are carefully preserved by dedicated librarians.

Mrs. Winifred Shannon, Head Librarian, is a fountain of information on almost any subject.

When in doubt, turn to the card catalogue.

Mrs. Irene Burkman can always help you find a book . . .

unless Mrs. Nancy Sauer is putting it away.

P.E.

Get High From P.E. — Not Drugs

Physical Education promotes athlete's foot, sprained backs, and a general sense of well-being from strenuous exercise. Physical Education provides a place to "let it all hang out" before, after, or during a routine school day. Physical Education is also a good outlet for those inner tensions — whallop the volley ball instead of your history teacher. All in all, Physical Education mass produces physically prepared young men and women.

Maintenance & Cooks

A Clean School is a Happy School!!!

You sat on the sink in the John, and it broke; you got over-zealous in Physical Education and hit a home-run right through Mr. Jensen's window; your Home-Ec project blows up; what do you do? Call the Maintenance Department. Working around the clock, they fix major and minor catastrophies keeping our school clean and in running order. Although not anything like the Galloping Gourmet, L.C.H.S. cooks provide us wuth nutritious and well-balanced meals.

Varsity Football

A Season of Frustration

This year's Lions were plagued with injuries from the beginning of the season right through to the end. Coach Nalley attributes our losing season to these injuries more than to any other single cause. The frustrating thing about the season is that Lisle played well in almost every game. For example, in the Wilmington game, Lisle came from way behind to tie up the game in the last quarter. On many other occasions Lisle was beaten by only a few points. It just seemed as though the breaks were against the Lions. Coach Nalley anticipates a better season next year "if we can get some good men at key positions, for instance, the running backs."

Rough And Competitive

Frequent injuries caused many problems for the year's Sophomore Football Team. Even so, the players never gave up. Some played with injuries and others put out an extra effort, and the team fought hard in every game, whether they won or not. Together the members experienced moments of victories and together they felt the pangs of defeat; but win or lose, they worked together and played as they learned the meanings of the words "team-work" and "competition!"

Season Record
4 — 3 — 1

For many members of this year's Freshman football team, this was a first experience at team play. The Frosh had to learn to work as a unit and to put forth their best at all times. There were tough moments of defeat as well as moments of victories, and always the going was rough in this bone-jarring contact sport, but the Frosh stuck to it. They can now look forward to next year with a season of experience and training behind them.

Lack of Experience Hurts Harriers

This season was a building year for Lisle's Cross-Country runners. The team lost many of last year's best runners to football, transfers, or other activities. Also, many of the runners were young and inexperienced, and there was a small turn-out, yet the team put up a good show in most meets. Although the 2-17 record for varsity, and the 1-6 record for Frosh-Soph doesn't show it, victory was within reach in many cases. Coach Robert Jones looks forward to next year when the team will have more depth and many of the promising younger members will be able to reach their true potential.

A Bright Spot For Lisle Athletes

1971 Track and Field Co-Captains: Chuck Montague and Carl Morgan.

An extremely strong showing in the track events gave the Lisle Varsity a second-place in Conference, and the Frosh-Soph team a Conference Championship for the 1971 season. Numerous records were broken, among them the 2-mile run, the 440 yard dash and others. The only disappointment to Coach Carlin Nalley was in the field events, which lacked the depth which has been traditional at Lisle, but this was more than made up for by the superior showing in running events. The 1972 season should be just as good, since most of this year's team members will be returning.

Good individual performances, exemplified by Bob Leswig's conference championship, were the keynote of the 1972 Wrestling Team. The Team, as a whole, had troubles recruiting members and had to rely on Sophs and Frosh as well as Upperclassmen. However, this bodes well for the future, as this year's Frosh and Sophs will become highly experienced Juniors and Seniors in a few years.

Sr.-Faculty Game

Seniors Beat Faculty!

The class of '72 has the distinct honor of the relatively few Senior classes to defeat the Faculty in the Annual Senior-Faculty Basketball Game. This rare and extra-ordinary feat was produced with a final score of Seniors: and Faculty: But, it does not really matter who wins the Senior-Faculty Game it's the fun that counts, and the knowledge that the Seniors are still champs.

Faculty tries to win by using two basketballs.

The Lions had a disappointing season this year as the Varsity Basketball Team, under Coach Baum, netted only three victories. However, there were two important pluses this year. First, the spirit of both the players and the fans greatly excelled that of previous years. Second, the Team members were always in there trying, and after all, that is what really counts. If the spirit and the effort are there, the victories will eventually come — perhaps next year.

This year's Sophomore Basketball Team ran into various troubles which combined for a final record of only three victories. However, it is the effort that matters, and the Sophs constantly put out their best. Next year should be better as this year's winning Frosh Team will return as Sophomores.

Lisle Joins Summer Baseball

Lisle catcher Jerry Stuart giving directions.

This year Lisle athletes were able to join both the Track Team and the Baseball Team as Lisle played summer baseball for the first time. Unfortunately, the switch from spring to summer baseball involved a change in opponents, and Lisle ended up playing larger schools. This, combined with a young team, caused Lisle to have a losing season, although the team played some close games. Coach George Rapp is looking forward to next year when Lisle will have more experience and victories.

Band

Band = Musical Education

Band is more than wearing a uniform and taking a lot of kidding for the sour note you've hit, it's hard work, and practice, practice, practice, to extend the boundaries of your musical skills and talent. And it's getting up at six to be at school at seven-thirty every morning in order to translate some ridiculous ink blots into clear, wild, sweet music. It's straining your talent to the utmost to learn and extend that talent. It's tiring, rewarding, unprofitable monetarily, and students think it's worth it!

Mr. Robert Bartelt.

Chorus

Lisle Choirs More Active

The Lisle Community High School Choirs, larger, more dynamic, more active, than ever before. The large number of interested students requires the choir to be flexible; changing and moving forward as the quality improves, and for this end, the choir program is divided into three chorus groups, Varsity, Girls and Freshman, as well as the select Madrigal group. Their aims, however, are joint and basic, to strive for excellence in choral music and to expand their musical taste by sampling morsels of the finest musical works and composers. And if even one student learns to sing on key, or "discovers" Bach, then the program has proved its worth.

N.H.S.

Candles Glow As Students Join N.H.S.

National Honor Society is the tangible reward for extended horizons. Music, athletics, drama, club activities and school politics are all part of the National Honor Society's meaning: Scholarship, leadership, and Service. This meaning exemplifies the N.H.S. members. All are top junior or senior scholars that have yet found time to explore the horizons of leadership and service to the school. Each year, in the traditional candle light ceremony, Lisle expands its N.H.S. membership.

Ken Martin escorts a surprised initiate to her place on stage.

Senior N.H.S'ers welcomed their new members with punch and donuts.

Doug Kuncel lights his candle of knowledge.

Denise Anthony congratulates Leslie Warner with a flower.

Linda Kriewall and Alice Kuttner relax at the reception for new members.

Student Council

Student Council Extends Self-Government.

Student Government. Self-Government. Lots of people claim a puppet government and demand its abolition. But Student Council does serve its function as buffer between the students and the administration. This year the Council has been more involved in student affairs via the completion and regulation of the Commons, as well as the planning of events such as Homecoming, assemblies and Soc hops. Although controversial, Student Council is still concerned for the benefit of the students.

Guidance

Guidance Girls Aid Efficiency

A very important cog in the let's keep-everything-going-smoothly wheel is the guidance girls. They run errands, fetch people for appointments with the Counselors, and generally cope fairly well with the strange menagerie of people who wander in to find the counselors. Without them, a great deal of the efficiency of the Guidance Office would be lost.

Yearbook

Yearbook Is: Expanding . . .

. . . staying up all night to make a deadline . . . finding out all our sports pictures were left out in the rain . . . never knowing what to write about a club you aren't in . . . being absent the day your copy is due . . . explaining why the book costs $6.50 . . . trying to find out who that girl in the center photo is . . . forgetting to load your camera. Most of all, the yearbook Staff is trying to lengthen and improve your Vale. And, this year, we hope, succeeding.

Journalism

Revamped 'Roar' Appeals to Students

The Journalism Club, almost mouse-sized by Lisle standards, produced a bigger and better Roar than ever before. Almost total revamping of the format allowed the newspaper to reach a larger number of interested students than in previous years, and the addition of new features, such as "The Little Lions," also added to the student appeal. Editorials increased in quality and number, and the superior features of last year were not lost. To measure the success of the Journalism Club merely count the number of discarded "Roars" scattered through the halls. It's less than last year.

To Reach Out — to Communicate, in Whatever Language

The world is growing closer and closer together, bridged by the intangible, yet steel permanence of the jet route. And the importance of communicating in another language is growing, too. Businesses are international now, and what was once a three-month's trip for the rich is now an eight hour trip for anyone — even the student. Both the French and Spanish Clubs offer their members the opportunity to study the people and customs of other lands at first hand, through travel scholarships to Mexico and summer tours of France. And even the most mispronounced word of French or Spanish is a way of reaching out for friendship in other lands.

A. F. S.

Hands Of Friendship Around The World

A.F.S. is reaching out. That is their goal; their motto; their creed. A.F.S. is an organization dedicated to world unity through friendship and knowledge of each other's customs and beliefs. For that reason, each year high school students come from all over the world to live in other countries and learn other's way of life. A.F.S. is caring, too, — trying to understand a country so different from your own, rather than condemning its differences. A.F.S. is an organization of practicing brotherhood — an open hand, an open home.

Foreign Exchange

Lisle Hosts Two Foreign

America — Sweden, the differences are really not that many. The western civilization style of living brings the countries together. The high school here has more strict rules than mine in Sweden, but I have found a much more informal relationship between teachers and students here than at home. Students are also much more involved in different school activities here. In Sweden, we hardly have any other activities at school than studying. This year in Lisle has been a lot of fun, very interesting, but sometimes real hard — for me.

Marie Salmark

Exchange Students

I am Sergio, from Brazil, a hot, tropical and lovely country in South America. I like to play soccer, the national sport in Brazil, and I love to play chess, bowl and go out to movies.

A lot is different in the life here in the U.S. A., the weather, the school, the people. After five months I am adjusted to the American way of life and I just have to enjoy myself living like an American citizen and trying to discover each day more good things that the American people have.

To every one here in Lisle, this small and pretty town, I sing "Aquele Abroco" for I love you.

Applause — the motivation for students to experiment in drama, makeup, set design and construction, lighting, costuming, and all the other phases of dramatic art. International Thespian Troup 660 is Lisle's honorary answer to dedicated students. This year even more erst-while actors have expanded their interests to include the drama productions, and even more students will be pledged from apprentices to International members in an initiation both dramatic and comedic.

Quill & Scroll

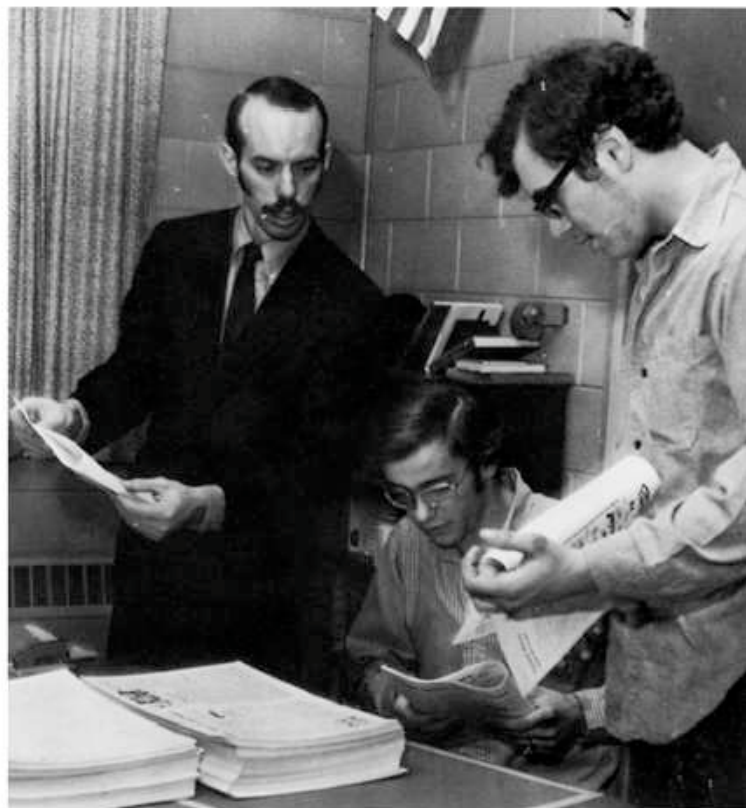

Quill And Scroll Honors Lisle Penmen

Lisle added to its voluminous list of clubs and organizations this year with the acquisition of a new chapter of the Quill and Scroll Club, which honors the school's most inkstained fingers. Five charter members were named for outstanding participation in the preparation of the Roar and the Valé, and periodic initiations will increase the Club's size and quality. Quill and Scroll is a strictly honorary club—like the International Thespians, membership is by merit. Thus Lisle expands its "honor system" to include, not only students outstanding in the art of theater, but students outstanding in the art of journalism.

FRONT: Rosie Moss, Mary Lou Simonson, Karen Balchunas, BACK: Kandy Vermeer, Mr. Eric Beato (Sponsor), Leslie Warner.

Future Quill and Scroll members show Mr. Beato the "art" of folding papers.

Co-op

Future Tradesmen Gain Job Experience

Co-op students from Lisle gained experience in a diversity of fields this year. The basic idea behind Co-op is to give the students a chance to become familiar with various jobs before graduating, thus giving them a better chance on the job market in the future. To this end, the Co-op members devoted half of their school day at businesses in the area, familiarizing themselves with the machinery, techniques, and fundamentals of their future vocations.

A.V.

Audio-Visual, Men Behind the Scenes.

The Audio-Visual Department helped run the school with its usual efficiency this year. Under the guidance of Mr. Jensen, the students spent numerous hours running projectors and record players for classes, operating the lighting for plays and shows, and in general keeping the AV equipment in good condition. It is doubtful whether many school functions would have come off well without the valuable assistance of the AV students, who contributed much time and energy to helping out.

In its first full year of operation, Lisle's youngest club initiated a number of new activities to accomplish its objective of providing opponents of all levels of ability for anyone interested in Chess. The club purchased a number of Chess sets, so that there will never be a lack of materials. The Chess players then organized a club library of books and magazines related to Chess rules and tactics. In order to get more opponents, the Club offered free instruction to any student desiring to learn the game. Finally, the members challenged the Chess clubs of neighboring schools to inter-scholastic Chess matches. The increased membership and the extension of club activities is a clear indication that Chess Club is here to stay.

Art Club

Our Motto: Self Expression.

Yearly the Art Club has one important creative experience set up for them. They swing a mean brush filled with creative ability to the back wall on our school stage. For each spring musical, the Art Club applies another layer of paint to the wall. Our new school had better come about before the wall gets heavy with paint and comes tumbling down.

Lettermen

Promoting Pride — Lettermen's Club

Like NHS, Thespians and Quill and Scroll, Lettermen's Club is select and exclusive. The requirements for membership is school spirit — spirit enough to become involved in athletic activities and to win a letter in sports. Thus the club promotes school spirit by the mere fact of its exclusivity and unity. Athletes from track and field, cross-country, football, basketball, and baseball all join together in Lettermen's Club and an expression of their school pride.

Pep Club puts forth that effort.

Cheerleaders

Cheerleaders Personify Spirit

It's a foggy, cold, Saturday afternoon with a chill rain falling off and on in its intensity. It's close to winter and a day for any sensible person to be at home under shelter. But Lisle has scheduled a football game for this miserable afternoon, and the team has to shiver in the rain on their home field. And besides the team, there are fourteen select girls who have chosen to shiver out on the field, along with the team. They are Lisle's two cheerleading squads, who cheer at all sporting events from fall to spring, and who personify school spirit. Even though bad weather, indifferent student crowds and team losses, they manage to retain their enthusiasm for the Lions and to try to transmit some of their enthusiasm to either students. Without them, school spirit would indeed be dead.

Drill Team

New Ideas Add to Pom-Pom Squad

New uniforms, new members, new routines and new creativity added to the precision of the Pom-Pom Squad to give even more enjoyment than ever before to the crowds that flocked to football and basketball games. The new scheduling allowed more practice time to the Squad and their routine and showed their added care.

G.A.A.

Girls Participate In Athletics

It's not quite Women's Libs, just the Girl's Athletic Association. It's here, however, that its members do demand equal sports rights as boys, and that they do enjoy many of these rights, but there the similarities end. Unlike Women's Lib, G.A.A. does not demand all the rights and privileges of males; merely the right to have fun through athletics. And in this they succeed. Throughout the year, G.A.A. members enjoy bowling, swimming, basketball, and volleyball, just as the Lettermen play basketball, football, wrestling, cross-country, and baseball. Equally enjoyable.

LMC

LMC Gives Headstart on Future

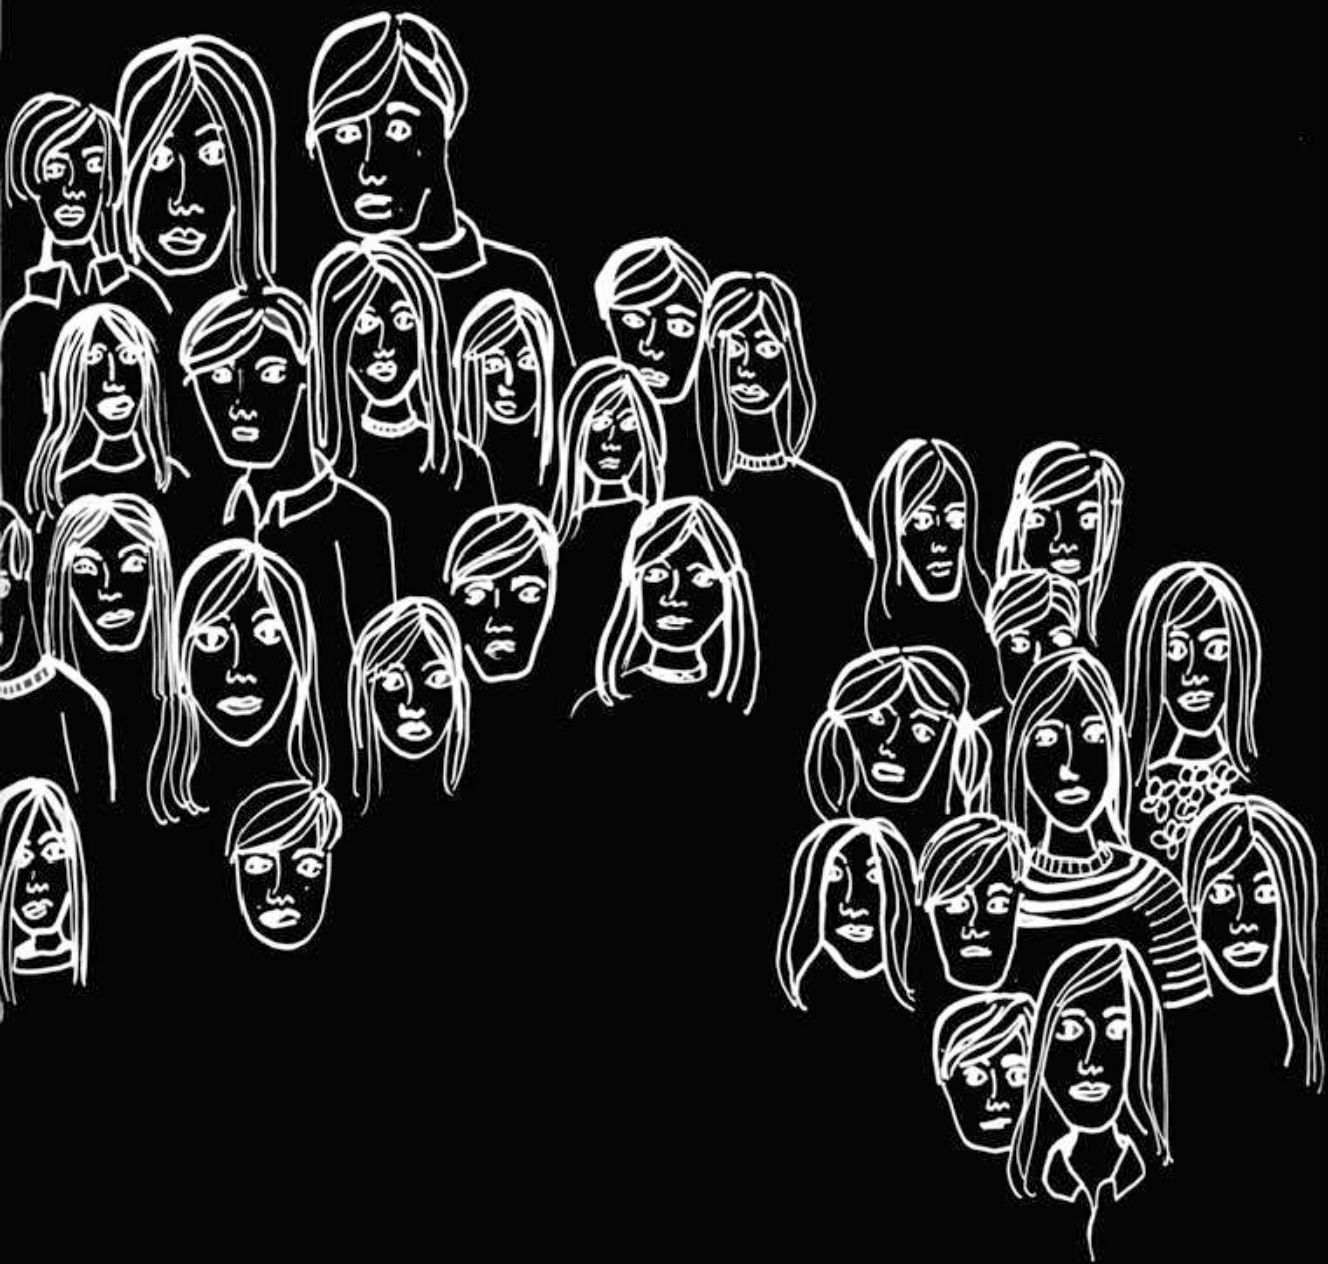

Lisle Medical Careers give medical-minded students a head start on the intricacies of their future profession. LMC provides an anchor of interest for indecisive students, as well as an indoctrination for determined students to the benefits of a medical career. Members learn of career opportunities within their chosen field and the basic duties and requirements of a medical career. Fundamentally, LMC provides enjoyment and education for the future.

The biggest Freshman class Lisle High School has ever seen has arrived. Capturing third place in homecoming float competition, singing in the Variety Show, and participating in the fall drama production has proven they have talent for more than just crowding the halls and "elevators." Great things are expected of the Freshman class this year, and by the proof of their abilities so far, they are sure to fulfill the school's expectations. Sophmores

Sophomores Progress to Drivers Ed.

Being a sophomore means many new experiences — biology class, Homecoming decorations and, best of all, driver's ed. Learning to drive means watching Mr. Rapp and Mr. C. saying a prayer as they climb into the car, running a stop sign, and knocking over the parallel parking signs. Being able to drive means being able to work, which means MONEY, and buying that fifteen-year old "pre-driven" relic will always be one of the most important dreams of a sophomore. So, this year, as always, the sophomore class will be working hard for that coveted piece of little paper called a license.

Juniors

Juniors Are Ambitious

Winning second in the Homecoming float competition, the Juniors are well on their way to a successful year. Their talent extended to songs, comedy and instrumentals in the Variety Show. Meanwhile, to earn money for the Prom this spring, the Juniors will be running the football concessions stand and holding soc-hops. And according to their crystal ball, the Junior-Senior Prom is sure to be a success, even through the last minute rushes when everything seems to go wrong.

Seniors Reach End of Four Years

Being a senior is like being trapped in a corridor; a door closing behind you, but a door to open ahead. Three years of high-school behind you and the world future ahead of you, to pummel and mold into your life the way you want it. It's nearly the end of three years of sharing; experiences, good and bad; hopes; failures; and successes; and the senior class, no matter how split, seems to draw a little closer together, as if to yank the last particle of friendship from each other before separating for the last time in June. But most of all, the senior year is a time of not only thinking of the past, but reaching out to the future, be it work, college, service or marriage.

Mrs. Doris Straub, Advisor

We, the editors of the 1972 Valé, wish to express our thanks to ourselves, all of whom gave of their time and talents to make possible the publication of this year's book. First, of course we want to thank our Advisor, Mrs. Straub, for her constant moral support as well as the sacrifice of her time and efforts. Thanks also to Mr. Bull, our representative from American Yearbook, and to Otto, our photographer, for being available whenever needed. And thanks to the many year book staffers who gave of their hours and efforts. But our greatest thanks to you, our reader, with our hope that this, the 1972 Valé, has sparked some memories.

Mary Lou Simonson and Kandy Vermeer, Co-Editors
