Lisle Senior High School
Lisle, Illinois
Volume XVII

A new principal brought change to LSHS.

1973 - 74
Was a Year of Many Changes

The library's atmosphere altered with a new librarian.

New faculty and students came to Lisle.

Seniors alone enjoyed commons privileges

The energy crisis brought a new outlook to first hour classes with the initiation of Daylight Savings Time — watching the sunrise.

Leaves Fall and Bells Call LSHS

Fall drifted in, and from 7:55 until 3:23, students and faculty readjusted to the school routine. Confusion reigned the first week as everyone became used to hours instead of modules.

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors attended assigned study halls, while seniors chose between the commons, the library, and the senior court. Attendance cards were sent to a College of DuPage computer, which took roll, and printed out grades and class rank.

During September, many students rehearsed for the sixth annual talent show. Two different performances were presented, October 6 and 7, because there were more acts than could be fit into the ninety minutes allotted. The mistresses of ceremony were Mary Modaff and Beth Roberts, both seniors.

1 For the first time, the chorus is accompanied by a band, including Pat Schmidt on bass guitar. 2 Lunch hour comedians play scrabble with the football scoreboard, much to everyone's amusement. 3 Jenny Johns, Priscilla Handy, and Jeanne Wilson formally present a request to Mr. LeCrone concerning juniors in the commons. 4 During the year's first assembly, Gary Grunst undergoes a hair-raising experience with static electricity. 5 Telling a story of the freshmen's first day, Tony Campos shaves and Terri Tabisz powders her nose, as they prepare for school.

Homecoming Is Filled with Fun

"All right, all right, okay, okay! Go! Lions! Go!" established the rhythm of Homecoming week. Dress up day on Wednesday, October 10, sparked the week's activities.

Classes and faculty competed Thursday in the second annual Lions' Fun Day. The juniors triumphed in the tricycle and three-legged races as well as the pyramid contest. Paul Schmidlein achieved victory for the seniors in the pie-eating contest. At the close of the day, the juniors were in first place for the spirit trophy.

Each class performed creative skits at the blue-white day assembly. Carol Meyer was crowned Homecoming Queen after the snake dance Friday night.

"Disney on Parade" provided the theme of Homecoming. Juniors placed first in float competition, with frosh and sophomores picking up second and third, respectively. The Class of '75 earned the spirit trophy for the second year in a row. Two victories over Plano fulfilled the goal of the week.

Ending the week's activities, couples danced to the sound of "Copperhead" at the dance Saturday night.

Seniors, Seniors are the best!" is the cry of the Class of '74 at the pep assembly. 6 Freshmen muster their strength to immerse their sophomore foes in mud.

Auntie's Antics Amaze Audience

"But, darling, I'm your Auntie Mame!" This cry rang out across the auditorium as Auntie Mame introduced herself to Lisle Senior High School.

The third annual AFS-Thespian dinner theater was held on November 16 and 17. Dressed in long skirts and foreign costumes, AFS club members served two capacity crowds in the commons. Lasagna on Friday and roast beef on Saturday were the main dishes. Scott Stevens, Lisle's AFS student to Germany, and Kayoko Kurata, AFS student from Japan, were host and hostess.

Jill Kunka portrayed the zany Mame, one of New York's leading hostesses.

She becomes saddled with her brother's orphaned son Patrick, played by Mike Esposito.

The play followed Mame's adventures in work, through the Depression, and in her marriage. She rocked the South with her riding abilities and her own methods of raising Patrick.

Main characters included Ray Connelly as Lindsey Woolsey, Mame's publisher boyfriend; Dave King as Beauregard a southern gentleman who married Mame in the Depression; Melanie Mosby as Sally Cato, the girl Beauregard left behind; and Joe Garbe as Mr. Babcock, Patrick's money trustee.

1 Shocked by her first hunting experience, Mame hangs onto the steering wheel that saved her life. 2 An irate customer (Kathy Lindemann) demands a return for skates from store manager Len Liaromatis. 3 Beauregard's relatives listen as Emory (Ray Sojka) describes Mame's riding feats. 4 Before dinner is served, the Neahauses and Murphys catch up on the latest news.

1 During the last week of school before vacation, students study near the school Christmas tree to brighten their days. 2 Mr. Mulcare enjoys Christmas kisses from Mary Hudson and Val Whalen under the mistletoe. 3 Doing a special holiday number, the drill team performs to "Jingle Bell Rock" at the Lisle-Seneca basketball game. 4 The chamber choir instills the Christmas spirit by caroling in the halls Friday morning before vacation. 5 The decorated stairway provides a dramatic entrance for the choruses in their Christmas concert.

Happiness Is Christmas Vacation

"Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" was heard through the halls as students prepared for vacation. Snow in the first week of December inspired a holiday mood.

Even though teachers were asked to keep room decorations to a minimum, there were still some decorations in classrooms and halls.

"The Seven Joys of Christmas" was presented by the chorus on Tuesday, December 18. They entered carrying lighted candles. Friday morning, the chamber choir caroled through the halls singing Christmas songs.

AFS sold candy canes Wednesday through Friday during the lunch hours and after school for ten cents.

Most students didn't study much during the week, but teachers still insisted upon giving tests so they would be able to start something new after Christmas vacation.

Everyone shouted last minute Christmas wishes as the school closed its doors for the holiday.

Honors Bring LSHS Recognition

Lisle Senior High School spread its name far and wide during the year. The most far reaching event was the '73 seniors' debt buster. Twelve boys broke the Guinness World Record for leapfrog by covering 50 miles and leaping 8,186 times. They raised $300 with the stunt, in a time of 19 hours, 35 minutes. Rex Sprietsma and Dave Van Kampen were the only two to complete the cold, rain-soaked course.

The other leapers, were Gary Mol, Tom Purpur, Wayne Janovsky, Rick Scudder, and Eric Wills. Hopping right behind them were Dick Dooley, Frank Spokas, Scott Cawley, Bob Blazek, and Bob Jenkins, coached by Stu Bryan.

In the nation, Ho Epstein was included in the 1973 "Who's Who in American High Schools." He also received his citizenship papers in December.

In scholastic achievements, Steve West (Class of '73) was awarded a National Merit Scholarship. Jill Kunka, Paul Naprstek, Judy Nickels, and Pam Oberschelp received letters of commendation in the 1974 N.M.S. competition.

Junior Stephanie Ruff achieved membership in All State Choir. Tom Faust won first place in state competition with his "Hire the Handicapped" poster. For superior individual reporting, NIU awarded Bill King the "Golden Eagle."

Quill and Scroll, an honorary literary organization, added five seniors to its one continuing member, Jill Kunka. These students were so honored because of their outstanding contributions to newspaper and/or yearbook journalism. Mr. Beato sponsored the group.

1 The best dancing couple, Marcia Holmes and Steve Sieloff, sway to a slow song. 2 Rock 'n rolling in 50's getups, students get into the craze at the turnabout. 3 Mr. Mulcare congratulates Kevin Maxwell for being the best dressed greaser as Nancy Blazek laughs. 4 At the senior-faculty game, Mr. Rapp sinks his one annual shot from the bleachers to get into the scoring column. 5 Battling to win, seniors fight to keep the ball from the faculty.

Follies Finalizes Winter Pleasure

"Join the 50's Craze" was the theme of the turnabout dance held Saturday, March 2. Students dressed in bobby socks, white T-shirts, flared skirts, and red lipstick. Some guys greased their hair. Kids rocked 'n rolled to fifties tunes as "Grand Junction" played.

During the week, crazy hats day was Monday, February 25. Dress-up day was Wednesday, while Friday was blue-white day. The second assembly of the year was Thursday, featuring the College of DuPage jazz band.

The faculty defeated the senior class in the annual senior-faculty game with a score of 81-56. Senior Todd Nelson and faculty member Mr. Wanic were the high scorers.

Because of lack of interest the jamboree was cancelled. The fifties dance took its place.

The Fun Begins at School's End

Despite Watergate, a sagging economy, and the energy crisis, students still found time for the less serious side of life. Familiar faces could be seen partying in Barnaby's, hanging out at the Lisle Bowl, or at concerts on weekends and an occasional school night.

"American Graffiti," one of the year's biggest movies, inspired humorous sights. Some kids were even seen riding around in the Meadows with their derrières pressed against the car windows, and spraying shaving cream, too.

"The Exorcist" was the year's most talked about film. Reactions ranged from horror to laughter. The "devil's voice" was mimicked around the school as people tried to scare each other.

1 Broken arms and legs seem more prevalent, although a cast comes in handy during a disagreement between Barry Basten and Bill King. 2 After talking to Mr. LeCrone about assemblies and money raising projects, Mark Kemerling decide to hand it up. 3 Wild socks make appearances around town as fashion brightens up the commons. 4 Logos provides a comfortable atmosphere and an evening of cards for Tom Straub, Paul Bryan, Scott Mackey, and Skip Mackey. 5 Beating the Christmas rush, Pete Mastandrea picks up a few items in Ben Franklin.

It's a Long Haul until Springtime

"It's a bird! It's a jet! It's . . . it's Super Streaker!" Streaking (running nude) became the main fad on college campuses, but was rare in Lisle.

However, there was excitement at LSHS. Lisle's AFS candidate, Cindy Homan, was accepted as a '74-'75 exchange student by AFS International to spend a year in Malaysia. She is the first LSHS student to go for a full year.

Also on top with honors were Debbie Antos, Dave Athey, Debbie Fuqua, Mark Bedore, Jim Pripusich, Sue Jessen, and Mike Spravka. Each won a Certificate of Merit in the Scholastic Art Awards competition. Ten of their art projects were on display at Wieboldt's in Yorktown. Debbie Antos also won a gold key.

The Fine Arts Festival was in February. Students manned booths with food and art work. "The Veldt," a one-act play, was the main attraction.

1 Cindy Homan receives help from Mrs. Phinney and Debbie Fuqua as she searches for Malaysia. 2 Tom Blair concentrates on murdering his "wife," Michelle DeFrank, in "Thurber's Carnival," a drama class production. 3 Leading the herd, Pat Schmidt scrambles for the ball at the donkey basketball game. 4 Practice for the polka contest in "Hello Dolly" starts in January for the performance in late March.

Missionary Bets on Luck, Love!

Seventeen strippers, fourteen gamblers, seven missionaries, four Cuban dancers, and two love-struck couples added up to the 1973 spring musical, "Guys and Dolls." Although there were no sell-outs, the auditorium was well filled for all four performances.

The cast's favorite line was "Come to the mission, one and all, except guys, I HATE GUYS!" The most repeated saying was "Watch those cigars!" as Mr. Wilson prevented "gamblers" from accidentally burning down the stage during the play.

John Deffner had his first major role as Sky Masterson. Bob Modaff played Nathan Detroit, joined by Robin Gaye Schedel (March 30,31) and Becky Roberts (April 6,7) as Miss Adelaide. Sergeant Sarah Brown was also double cast, with Michelle DeFrank making her debut the first weekend, and Tracey Wolf appearing the second. Mrs. Fiore directed the play, aided by Mrs. Densford (music), Mrs. Nelson (dancing), and Mr. Wilson (sets and construction crew).

Graduation and Prom End Year

With the coming of spring, the end of four years approached for the Class of '73. Prom and graduation marked the ending of these years.

Dining and dancing to the theme, "A Time For Us," eighty-one couples attended Lisle's first dinner-prom.

The Marriot Inn was the scene of the event. A filet mignon dinner was served from seven-thirty to nine o'clock, followed by dancing until midnight with music by Andrew Marchese and His Orchestra.

Graduation exercises began at eight o'clock on June 7 for the Class of '73. The 165 seniors gathered to hear Gail Avery and Frank Spokas as they addressed parents and friends.

After the ceremony, the graduates marched off Wilde Field to the song "Free" by Chicago, taking with them four years of memories.

1 After graduation, seniors look forward to a bright future. 2 A sunny evening greets 1973 graduates for an outdoor ceremony. 3 Dave Thomas and Joanne Hickey take a break from dancing to sip a glass of Catawba. 4 Junior class president Mark Foster and AFS student Liz Young dance to "Proud Mary." 5 After dinner couples enjoy the magic of a prom.

Express Yourself

Come sweet flower and kiss me softly
For I have a life before me
And there are things to do
Before I go.

Oh the night is coming swiftly
And my eyes are growing weary
Sleep descend upon me quickly
Let me dream.

What am I to do?
Where am I to go?
Will things work out?
How am I to know?

Come sweet flower and kiss me softly
For I have a life before me
And there are things to do
Before I go.

Truce

We have our differences
True.
Arguments, fights, quarrels,
Too.
I'm ready to reconcile —
Are you?

Me

young boy
trying to prove he's a man running along life's road
blindly
tripping
and stumbling over
and over and over again
falling defeated
but only to rise again
and run.
young boy
RUN!
young boy
perhaps if you are able
and have the strength
of a man or the endurance
or the fortitude
of a man
perhaps you will escape
perhaps.
young boy
tried to prove he was a man somehow he failed
somehow i failed
also young girl
tried to be a woman
all too soon.
young people
trying to prove they were right
running along life's road
blindly
tripping
and stumbling
over
and over
and over again
falling defeated
but only to rise again
and live.

Sight

You look at a person,
But you can't see his face.
All you see are characteristics,
And mannerisms which take their place.
Isn't it better for sight to be like this
When judging if people are up to par?
By nondiscrimination of race, religion, or sex
But to judge, and be judged, by what you really are.

J. Sheahan

The aged, crisp leaves release themselves quietly from the trees,
and the gray sky watches carefully.

The wind turns cold and sharp,
against my face,
bringing Autumn closer.

No sun shines on velvet grass,
No warm breeze,
No green trees,
Just dismal gray,
and falling leaves,
with spitting rain,
and Autumn's days are getting closer to Winter.

D. Fink

does anyone know of any lonely worlds for me?
my own world died.
it fell and crumbled with the leaves.
so I need a new one,
which i can crush all by myself.
or maybe even kill,
depending on my mood.
do you know of any lonely, empty
worlds for rent or for sale?

to Glenn:

November Eight

The day we fell in love, it rained.
We didn't care.
And it's rained a lot since then.
A week later, you gave me the first rose.
And I cried.
I've cried a lot since then.
Snow is coming soon: the air has grown colder.
I don't know why . . .
But it's easy now to tell you I'm in love.

The day we fell in love, it thundered.
A bad omen, perhaps . . .
I really can't believe so: no, not for us.
And I can't remember any thunder since then.
Has there been any other?
Only the jets as they drag through the blue overhead.

I turn my collar up against the piercing wind.
Put my hands deeper in grey pockets . . .
My frosty breath says it's cold.

The day we fell in love, I hesitated, then I told you.
I thought that I loved you.
It was the same for you. And you were kinda great to lean on.
Later that day, I cried my silly, happy tears . . .
Though I still can't say why.
I think it was just so you could hold me closer.

Strange to think of how much I've settled down.
And now I still love you.
It's a good feeling to smile on the little things again.

My nose itches . . . Means I'm gonna kiss a fool . . .
. . . wonder who . . .
Maybe if I hurry, I can take you by surprise.

freddie

Dear friend,

One night i cried for you, but you did not come, only the darkness,
the stillness,
In the morning i wept for you, but you did not come, only the night,
the emptiness,

I call for you, i cry for you to caress me, i weep for you to hunger for me,
through the night, i see a golden enchanted light, with you in the mid,
your heart breathing me, devouring me,

I awaken to find the phone ringing,
to my answer it is not you,
but i hear you calling me,
haunting me,

no not haunting me,
for i am loyal to you,

You call my love, i will be there.

The Shaft

When you feel blue lower than low
downer than down
and a numbness comes all over all because of one person, no longer needs you should you try and go on
Even though life looks unbearable?
This feeling I have is all caused by one person.
When I remember, how life used to be,
I never thought it would end this way.
I never thought this would happen to me.
I feel so low, I feel so blue
Right now things are messed up
I don't know what I want or what I want to do I know I need help, But there is no one to give it.
What I did wrong, I'll never know.
Ah the pain. Oh I hurt so.
Why couldn't it last? Why did it end?
I feel so bad I feel so low . . .

I'm dreaming, in green and golden beauty,
as leaves fall silently,
I see my hopes,
    like the velvet rolling hills.

The trees are whispering,
who knows what,
As I lie in fields of leaning grass tickling my skin as it ripples its cozy arms about me.

I can feel the warm sun
sinking into me,
As my thoughts are spreading gently
    with the breeze.

D. Fink

i feel so much for you how come you don't see me
don't you know i care
i'm shouting to you

Listen
I Care
I Understand
I'm Listening

you don't answer
you're just wrapped in
in your own circle
you blocked me in too
into my own circle

i don't like you

Poetry of a Dead Man

They came in
    All dressed in their rented suits
My friend there in the white shoes
    Never saw him before Everything seems so different from where I'm at Even those I know so well
That girl over there
    The one in the corner, all alone
Are those tears for me
    Are they truly
When were you in my life
    By the way who is she
Yes, she is not like the other fools
    Look at her clothes, Lord
She knows you, as I do
    Bare feet and blue jeans are the thing
How I wish everyone was as pure as her
    She has fun being herself, even now
Everyone else is dressed in the mourning black
    I don't even have a suit
Look at their faces flooded with thoughts
    I know where I am going, but do they Won't someone help her
    The girl in the corner
Give her hope renewed
    Don't let her go
Why didn't I tell her
    She told me
But now it has been months
    Will be years
Lord how the pain hurts
    When I can't reach out and touch her

D. Fultz

Please, please listen.
When things go wrong,
I mean really wrong.
When nothing goes right
Doesn't work like you planned
What can you do?
I wish I had the answer.
Oh, God, how I wish I did.
But I don't.
When you need a friend
Someone to talk to
Why don't they listen?
But they are too busy,
Doing things of their own,
Having a good time,
Running on highs.
For they don't feel blue
and don't have the time,
just a minute or so
to listen to you.
When they are a bummer,
Would you help them
or just keep on runnin'
while the good times last?
I don't know, I don't know.
I'm afraid I would Because nobody wants to pause and to listen to a friend who really does need someone to talk to.

dark clouded days
thund'rous nights wrongs that were done
then you came
all is right

the thrashing of seas
the sun that burnt red babes that went hungry
then you came
they are fed

men that whipped tongues
children's anguished cries ashes of hate
then you came
no one dies

fields that reaped famine dreams battered and scorned lives that were useless
then you came
they're reborn

Poems to the one I love

I have written many a poem, on many a subject,
Ones of death and war, and the beauty of nature,
But all can be found in the poems to my love.

For my love is everyone's love,
If someone needs her more than I,
I shall not stand in the way of the loves she gives.

My love can bring the tallest Mountain down under her feet,
While she looks and feels like a Wild Rose,
Good for the eyes and touch.

I know people would give her their life, if only she asked,
For she has such a soul,
Yet she will walk side by side with anyone.

I feel two steps higher when she walks with me,
Or if I catch her eyes looking in my direction,
She fills my day with joy and meaning.

In most poems and tales of love, the man wins his girl,
The ending of this poem hasn't been finished,
Not until the end of my day.

D. Fultz

I am my own person —
One individual in multitudes.
Independent in spirit, living free
Is what I am and will always be.
You then, are a person too,
With your own ideas and feelings.
Our predestined meeting was (In a sense) good luck because Seasons may change and Friends may grow strange, but Now and forever, this will be true
You love me and I love you.

Carnival, Shirts Help Pay Debts

Faster than a computer . . . more accurate with a sum of numbers . . . able to speak Korean as his native tongue . . . it was Ho Epstein, as candidate for treasurer! While Ho spoke of his attributes in a humorous sense, Barry Basten and Bob Andrzejewski, among those up for the presidency, gave speeches that were more serious. (Bob won.)

Affiliated with the State Organization of Student Councils, Lisle's council sponsored soc-hops and Homecoming week. Spectator buses were provided for the sports minded LSHSers, and the First Leadership Training Conference was held in the spring.

Interested students were able to buy T-shirts with LISLE emblazoned across the fronts. They could enter into the spirit of the Winter Carnival. Both of these filled the council treasury for later use. Conducive to growing political interest, Senator Erlenborn answered questions pertaining to government actions in a special assembly.

1 Worry doesn't seem to cross Steve Smith's mind when radiation is discovered with a Geiger counter in a council-sponsored assembly. 2 Mary Olson helps count cash as vice-president Mark Kemerling sells LISLE pennants during lunch hours. 3 The energy crisis and Watergate hearings are discussed by Senator Erlenborn as Steve Sieloff poses yet another question. 4 Absorbed in council proceedings, Kathy Tyznik, Karen Lester, and Judi McKenna listen for answers to their questions.

A.F.S. Lends a Hand and a Home

Remember the day when there were many strange faces in the halls? That was February 13. Foreign students from other high schools wandered the halls of LSHS. These students came from countries all over the world. They talked to classes at LSHS and at the grade schools about their homelands.

This and many other activities were part of the American Field Service Club. Every second Tuesday of the month, club members met and discussed future plans. The club held numerous events, including a garage sale and candy sales. AFS also co-sponsored a magic show and the dinner-theater as annual affairs.

LSHS hosted Kayoko Kurata for the year. Kayoko, from Kochi, Japan, lived with Francine Dunlap and her family. Kayoko enjoyed Lisle very much and couldn't see enough of Chicago. She especially likes to eat Italian food.

In Kochi, Kayoko will have to take her senior year as this year did not count academically. In college she plans to major in foreign languages, namely English, Spanish, and French.

Through the Americans Abroad program, Scott Stevens went to Germany for the summer. Cindy Homan was announced a finalist by the international AFS office in New York. Mrs. Phinney sponsored the club for her first year.

Honor Leads to Apish Activities

Magilla Gorilla (John Jelinek), a lovelorn sailor (Ho Epstein), and a vivacious nurse (Bradley Preston) took part in the semiannual International Thespian initiation. Following a formal candlelight ceremony in which the virtues of a Thespian were spoken outloud, new and old members joined in a dinner. An informal ceremony was held afterwards where initiates were given comic situations to act out.

In cooperation with a supper given by AFS, Thespians sponsored the fall drama, "Auntie Mame," directed by society sponsor Mrs. Fiore. Activities included tryouts for "Hello Dolly," the spring musical, and a trip to the Shubert Theater to see a musical performance of "Grease."

Club Maintains Language Study

One of the few clubs to participate in the fall activity fair was the Modern Language Club. Lack of enthusiasm in the French and Spanish Clubs caused their elimination and the formation of the Modern Language Club. The club pursued many money-making projects, including a perfume sale, bake sales after school, and button sales. A magic show featuring Mike McDade and Company was co-sponsored with AFS November 10.

Money raised will be used to sponsor students in Spanish or French-speaking countries for a summer of study. Through the efforts of the French Club, senior Linda Warren spent last summer in France taking a course in French grammar and literature.

Joe Garbe and Jolene Westendorf shared the responsibility of president. Mrs. Driggett, Mrs. Scott, and Mrs. Sonney all advised the club.

Basketball Is a Donkey's Game

To think that there were donkeys in the gym! The name of the game was donkey basketball, sponsored in January by BOSS (Business Occupations Student Society). Students and faculty were involved in the event.

Other activities for the club included bake sales, and a calendar sale in October. With the money earned, BOSS club members attended a business convention in Springfield.

Rooked Queen Is Quick Mover

Under the watchful eye of Dave Taggart, the black steed moved carefully, preventing a counter-attack from the white opposition. Every other Tuesday after school, similar mind battles were held. These were not people that met for violence, but were those that enjoyed an invigorating game of chess.

Although the club's enrollment was small, members were eager to win in competition. Fees for the tourneys and club equipment were paid by dues.

PRESSing Matters for Journalists

Notes in hand, a harried student reporter tries putting his thoughts together to write an interesting article for the next issue of Pride. Novice journalists learned basic journalistic skills and applied them to Lisle's Golden Eagle, Northern Illinois Scholastic Press Association's award-winning newspaper. Staff members completed much of their writing and typing Monday afternoons so the paper could go to press on Tuesday.

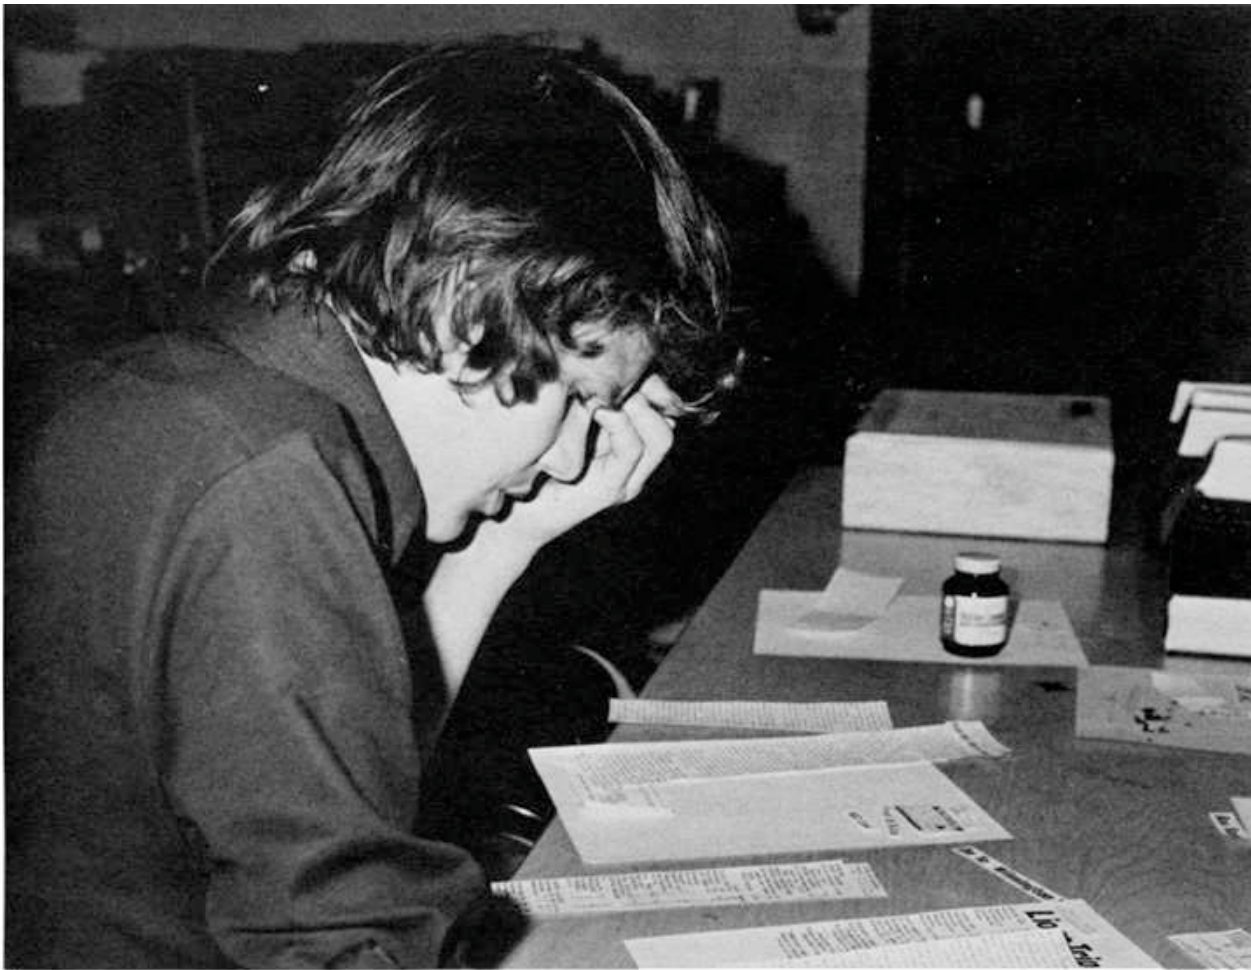

Published as a weekly paper for the first time in Lisle's history, it survived solely upon funds from advertisements of businesses. Sports articles were oc-asionally released in the Lisle Sun. Bill King's article entitled "Paper Lion" received a first place rating from the Quill and Scroll Newspaper Evaluation. Editor Paula Rice and assistant editors Bill King, Kathi Madden, Paul Napstek, and Dawn Barry traveled to a workshop at the College of DuPage in late October.

An addition was made in the form of a paper box which was placed under the main hall clock for the convenience of students. Adviser Mr. Beato stated that continued improvement in the journalistic arts was definitely among the future plans of the staff.

Co-op Prepares Future Workers

From brick laying to secretarial work for the fire chief, on-the-job training was an objective of Co-operative Education. This training also gave students a taste of what their career might be like. In addition to off-campus work, students received instruction in human relations, self-motivation, and career opportunities from teacher and coordinator Mr. Jones.

In May, Co-op sent representatives to Springfield for the annual convention of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. The students stayed overnight in Springfield, attending meetings during the day.

Screen down, lights off, and the projector won't work! Helping panicked teachers was only one job of the Audio-Visual Club members. Their chief work involved engineering lighting of drama productions and taping of sports events.

A new videotape machine replaced the old one used by the A-V Club. New equipment also included an overhead projector and a tape deck. Mr. Jensen offered his advice as club adviser.

Aiding Students Brings Rewards

"Teacher, will you tie my shoe?" pleaded one of Linda Warren's kindergartners at Meadows School. Linda and fifty other student aides earned a half credit by helping teachers and students in Lisle grade schools. For the first time, supervising teachers assigned grades based on cooperation, initiative, and creativity.

A car pool transported student aides to Meadows and Tate Woods Schools. Those who assisted at Schiesher and the Junior High were able to walk. All grade levels, except sixth at Main Street, benefited from the program.

Miss Loos, a new counselor at Lisle High School, coordinated and planned student assignments.

Red shirts, purple velvet vests, long skirts, and pants — that was the look for Chamber Choir members. Newly formed, the Chamber Choir consisted of twenty-four select students. The Frosh-Soph and Varsity Choir members sported new robes.

Chorus activities included the Northeast Conference Music Festival on November 6. Guest conductors led the Chamber Choir and senior choir members in the event, along with choir members from ten other schools.

The Christmas concert on December 18 was followed by the Oswego exchange concert in February, and the spring concert in May.

Stephanie Ruff made the Illinois State Choir. It is the first time that a Lisle student has had this honor. Mrs. Densford directed the choirs for her eighth year at Lisle.

Band Performs New Hit Music

"Saturday in the park, I think it was the fourth of July." That tune with other Chicago melodies made up the band show at the Homecoming game.

Under the direction of Mr. Sabin, and Dave Kriewall, drum major, the band performed at home football games and at Sandwich's Homecoming game.

On October 27, Senior Day, the band used the theme of "Strictly Commercial." Marching formations varied from a pop bottle to a Wrigley's chewing gum arrow. At the close of each show, the band played "On Ye Lions."

Concert band began in November under the direction of Mr. Bartelt. Ten band members participated in the NEC Music Festival held in November, with Mr. Nelson of Aurora East as guest conductor. The winter band concert was held on February 7, followed by the spring concert on May 16.

L.M.C. Explores Medical Futures

Though one of the oldest clubs, Lisle Medical Careers still has many interested members. LMC tried to provide its members with information about careers in medical professions. It delved into the duties and requirements of various positions in medicine.

LMC donated the money that they raised from selling candles to a field of medical research.

Club leaders were Erin Murphy, president; Ruth Turnquist, vice-president; Kelly Petersen, secretary; and Lori Hazard, treasurer.

Scholarship and Character Do It

Clad in suits and dresses, fifty-six National Honor Society nominees entered the auditorium with high hopes on April 13, 1973. It was the annual initiation of new members.

Each nominee had maintained a scholastic average of at least a B. The faculty then voted on the qualities of leadership, service, and character as demonstrated by each nominee.

Presented in alphabetical order by first names, initiates were escorted to the stage by present NHS members. Mr. Hornbeck closed the ceremonies with a speech of congratulations.

Officers elected at the first meeting were John Jelinek, president, and Pam Oberschelp, secretary.

Patience Is the Main Ingredient

Have you ever wondered what goes into the making of a yearbook? Copy, headlines, deadlines, layouts, and hard work are all ingredients. Every day first semester the yearbook staff met in Room 109 to work on the 1974 Valē.

Editor Pam Oberschelp and copy editor Kathy Tyznik attended a summer workshop at N.I.U. last June to get helpful ideas for the 1974 Valē. For the first time, the staff submitted the Valē for review by the National Scholastic Press Association. The 1973 book received a First Class rating, with highest scores in coverage.

Extra funds for the book came from the sale of individual picture packets to students, and contributions from local businessmen. This is the first year that the Valē was put out by an all senior staff, with Mrs. Baldwin as sponsor for her second year.

Spirit Helps Support Lisle Teams

Keeping team and school spirit at its highest was the main job of the Booster Club. Also lending support at all games, meets, and events were members of Lettermen's Club.

To raise money, Lettermen's Club sold Homecoming buttons during football season and spirit buttons during basketball season.

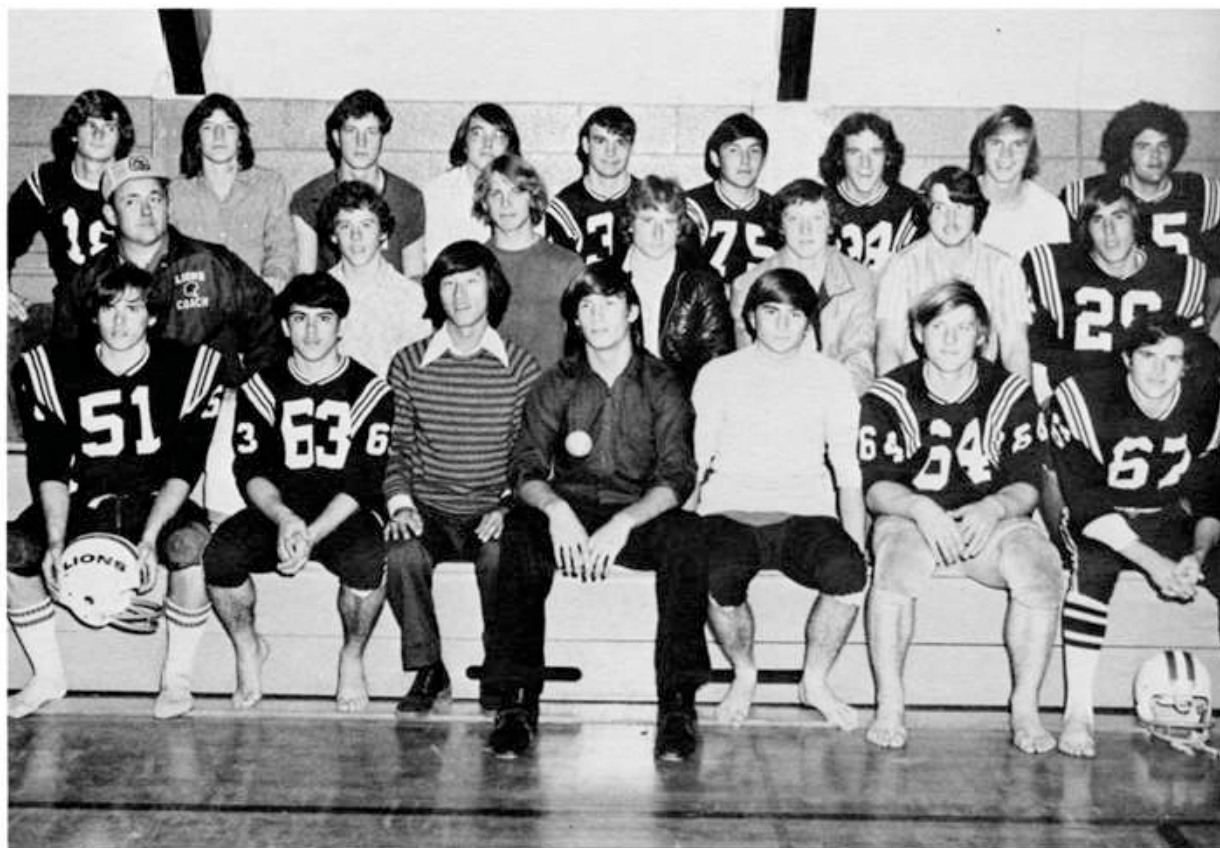

Uses of the money included athletic equipment and scholarships for Fellowship of Christian Athletes camp. Money was also used for trips to the state baseball and track tournaments.

The group organized and sponsored the annual athletic banquet in May.

The parents' end of support for the Lisle teams was achieved through Booster Club. Every other week members gathered at the high school to view the past week's sports events.

Booster Club purchased football gear for foul weather and warm-up pants for the basketball team, along with video tapes for the wrestlers.

Money raising projects consisted of holding bake sales and selling concessions at all track meets.

Spry Lisle Girls Lift Fans' Spirit

Male cheerleader? Yes, for the first time at LSHS, there was a male mascot, Jim Esposito. After the football season was over, the cheerleading squad split into a basketball team of twelve and a wrestling team of six. They practiced every Wednesday and Friday at 7 a.m., led by captains Connie Galloy (Varsity) and Ginny Jones (Frosh-Soph). Miss Lucary coached and advised the girls. As a money making project, the cheerleaders sold candy to buy new jackets for the football season.

The Lionettes performed at most home football and basketball games. The twenty girls acquired new sleeve chevrons to recognize the number of years each girl had participated.

The Lionettes practiced every Wednesday and Thursday after school. They named senior Judy Bos as captain and sophomore Desirée LaBianco as co-captain. Mrs. Dilacova again served as adviser for the Lionettes.

Chicks "Hatch" Athletic Talents

Freshman initiation? Yes, there was an initiation for Girls Athletic Association newcomers, even though the school as a whole did not have one.

Besides initiation, GAA participated in basketball, volleyball, bowling, and track. There were two bowling teams at LSHS, Team A and Team B. Team A consisted of the best bowlers, chosen by sponsor Miss Lucary.

In February, GAA started an extramural volleyball team sponsored by Mrs. Dilacova. They played five games during their 1974 season.

GAA members elected Diane Drendel as president, Judy Cabiniss as vice-president, and Penni Rice as secretary.

Runners Stride Toward Victory

Up and down hills, through the countryside, Lisle's Cross Country runners battled through the year.

"We had a very disappointing year for the Varsity team, but lots of depth for the Frosh-Soph team," remarked Head Coach Robert Jones.

Varsity Cross Country runners ran to a record of one win and fourteen losses. Co-captains for the team were John Crowley and Mike Kuncl, who was also Most Valuable Player.

The Frosh-Soph team finished up with a five-nine mark. They captured third place in the Northeast Conference meet with Larry Borden placing sixth and Paul Bryan tenth.

Varsity Marches to Greatest Year

"November 5, 1973 . . . 'Proud Monday' . . . Gentlemen, thank you for my greatest season . . . Thank you for the Lions of 1973, they were great, simply great." "The Lions Den" — a Coach Neahaus tradition. Before every game the assistant Varsity football coach handed out a printed inspirational message to the team.

"Proud Monday," however, came after the Northeast Conference championship game against Wilmington. Lisle lost to the Wildcats 7-6 ". . . on a penalty that wasn't called," in the terms of one news writer. It was the identical score by which Benet edged the Lions out in the first contest of the year. But those two losses proved to be the only blemishes on the Lions' 7-2 record, the best season a Varsity football team at Lisle has ever had.

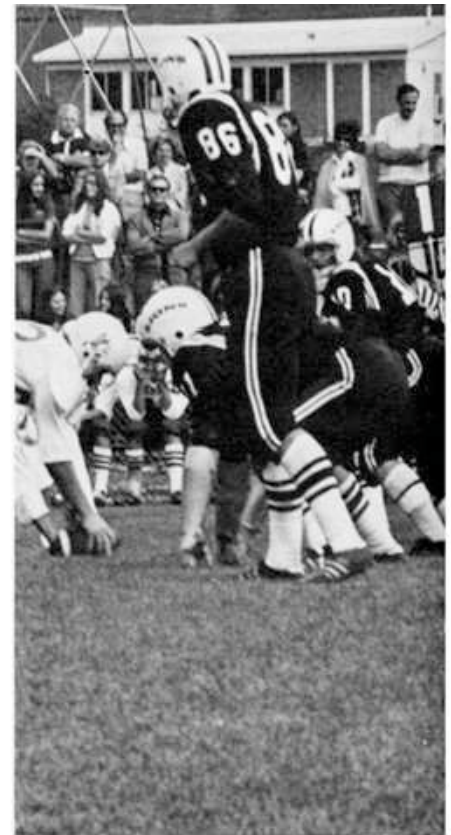

After a 22-8 stomping of Oswego, the "lynch mob from Lisle" proceeded to shutout six straight NEC opponents. John Jelinek, honorary co-captain, quarterbacked the team to such stampedes as a 38-0 romp over Plano in Lisle's Homecoming game. Shooting for a berth in the championship game, Lisle overwhelmed arch-rival Lemont 19-0, claiming the North Division title.

With the least average number of yards given up per game in conference action, Lisle's defense was rated number one in the NEC. Contributing to the formidable reputation of the "Big D" were all-conference selections Glenn Brooks, Dave Pillow, Bob Vodicka, Tim Doerr, and co-captain Pete Mastandrea. In addition to doubling on the NEC offensive team, Mastandrea also achieved Little All-State distinction for defense.

Sharing individual honors on the NEC offensive first team were Mike LaBianco and Bob Andrzejewski. Mark Kemerling was honored by the Lisle coaches with the sportsmanship award.

Head Coach Nalley, Suburban Life's 1973 All-Area Coach, cited the extra ingredient for the team's success. "You had to be pleased with the togetherness of the team," he commented.

The nucleus for a title club next year is there. North Division all-stars John Shamet and Rich Hampton will return along with leading NEC ground-gainer Jeff Payne, plus six more starters from last fall's club. Now there are two more traditions at Lisle: Coach Neahaus's pre-game speeches and winning football in Lion country.

Underclassmen Dominate N.E.C.

Undefeated in conference play, the Frosh-Soph reigned as the 1973 Northeast Conference champs.

A "total team effort" was the story for the young Lions. The toughest game played, according to Head Coach Jerry Diesron, was a toss-up between Wilmington and Benet.

Co-captains for the year were Dave Hanson and a three-way tie between Tim Krope, Tom Mol, and Jim Palmisano. Jim led the team in rushing with an average of 6.7 yards per carry, and in scoring with 62 points.

Offensively the Lions scored a total of 218 points in conference play, while the defense held the oppositions to only 32 points.

Freshman Lions, like their Frosh-Soph brothers, also captured the NEC first place crown, compiling a record of six wins, two ties, and one loss.

Besides blocking on Monday afternoons for freshman games, linemen Mike Stanley and Dave Carlson also played on the sophomore team. With their aid and the blocking of Ron Helms, Chuck Vodicka, Paul Dooley, and Sam Hazard, Wally Bass led the team in rushing and also in scoring.

Coach Krumlinde thought the team had a "very good start." He also felt that the team had depth because they suffered key injuries and still took first place. Indeed the groundwork was laid for future NEC contenders.

Time Runs Out on Lions Squad

Being the youngest team in the NEC and losing two close games to Yorkville affected Varsity conference hopes this season. The Lions were plagued by two factors according to Coach Baum, "lack of height and inexperience."

The team's biggest asset was its strength on the bench. Nine members earned letters helping out in several ball games. The overall team record was 4-19 with nine games being lost by twelve or less points.

Pete Mastandrea was voted Most Valuable Player by fellow teammates. Pete was also voted as a co-captain along with John Jelinek.

Cagers Capture the NEC Crown

For the first time in history, a Lisle basketball team won the Northeast Conference championship. The freshmen took the championship by beating Dwight in the final game. During the regular season, they beat Benet and won eleven straight games until they were defeated by Lemont. They finished with fifteen wins and three losses. Then they defeated four teams during the tournament.

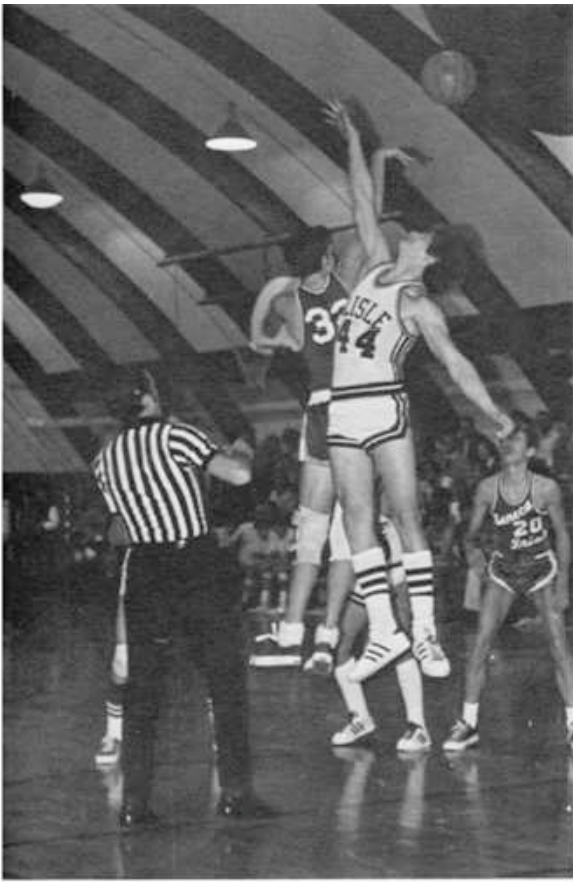

As Coach Diesron commented before the tournament, "We had the talent and everybody worked together. All year we lost only three games by a total of four points. We could have had an 18-0 record. This team will be the first basketball team to win a state title for Lisle."

But the Lisle basketball story is not all happiness. This year the Frosh-Soph team had a disappointing season with five wins and seventeen losses. "Somehow we were not together," commented one player.

Lions Wrestle to Second in NEC

Varsity Coach Krumlinde is optimistic for next year. He called this year's teams, "No disgrace, exceptional, super!" The Varsity, 16-3-1, placed second in the Conference meet to Yorkville, the highest finish in school history, and second in the final standings. The Frosh-Sophs claimed the Conference meet title for the second year in a row and boasted an overall record of 14-6. And all but one grappler from those teams are returning next year.

Spotlighting the '73-'74 Varsity season were senior Bob Vodicka and junior Tony Brinkman, conference champs at 155 and 126 pounds respectively. Bryan Demars, 105-pounder, went 21-5-1 for the season while Paul Lennon (132) posted a 22-6 mark. Both juniors also gained second place finishes in the NEC meet. Junior Kevin Maxwell (145) and sophomores Jeff Oberschelp (98), Dave Hanson (167), and Doug Overstreet (185) also placed in the top four at their weights.

The Frosh-Soph Lions were led by second-year man Steve Spagnola (20-0-1) and first-place finisher in the Frosh-Soph Conference meet. Sophomores John Van Meter, Curt Perry, Oberschelp, Hanson, and Overstreet also collected NEC titles for Coach Neahaus' Cubs.

LSSH Trackmen Lose First Place

"It was a disappointing year for Lisle's Varsity track team, but there were some fine performers like Lee Diehl, Rex Sprietsma, and Al Cafaro," commented Head Coach Nalley. The Lions' 1973 Varsity track team achieved second place in the North-east Conference meet, after placing fourth in the annual Lisle Invitational meet in May.

Lee Diehl qualified for the state meet in the high jump. He also leaped to a record-breaking 6'2" in the NEC meet and placed first in the pole vault event. Two-miler Rex Sprietsma gained second place in the NEC meet and was named co-captain of the team along with Bruce Janovsky. Despite an injury during the conference meet, Al Cafaro still capped off his career at Lisle by capturing the second place medal in the long jump. He was selected Most Valuable Player of the year.

Leaders among returning lettermen on the 1974 squad were sprinters Tom McGill and Peter Mastandrea, long jumper Ho Epstein, hurdlers Jim Revelle and Rex Giesler, pole vaulter Barry Basten, and high jumper Lee Diehl.

F-S Trackmen Grab NEC First

When the 1973 Frosh-Soph Lions' track team placed first in the Northeast Conference meet, that wasn't everything. When the Cubs captured number one in the eight-team Mar-seilles Invitational, that wasn't everything. When the F-S cindermen went undefeated in dual meets for the season, that wasn't everything. And when the '75-'76 club accomplished these feats, according to Coach Keeley, without a single superstar, that wasn't everything. But, when the Lions or anyone top all four pinnacles in the same year, that's something!

Leading the tracksters was 880-yard sprinter John Shamet with a 2:08.2 first place clocking in the NEC meet. Jim Pausche leaped to a 5'5" mark in the high jump to earn an individual blue ribbon. The team of Dave Hanson, Tim Krope, Shamet, and Pausche ran to a 3:49.6 timing in the mile relay for the Lions' other first place finish in the NEC.

Golf Swings for Winning Scores

Fore! Lisle's Varsity and Frosh-Soph golf teams each gained winning records for the 1973 season. The Varsity Lions placed fourth in the Northeast Conference meet and ninth in the State District squareoff. They compiled a 7-2-1 regular season match record.

John Krezel was elected Most Valuable Golfer while the team voted Jim Van Meter captain. Coach Fee cited more experience in competition as the main reason for the team's improvement over 1972's squad. The only returning letterman this spring was Dave Fee.

Scott Fine, Gary Prusa, and Bob Burich led the Frosh-Soph Cubs to a 5-4 dual meet mark. First-year clubbers, John Van Meter and Rick West, also turned in low scores to pace the team.

Baseball Takes an Upward Turn

While most students were enjoying the lazy days of summer, the Varsity baseball team achieved a record of sixteen wins and twelve losses.

The Lions won a state tournament game for the first time in school history, beating Wheaton Central Orange 3-1. However, their most satisfying game, according to Head Coach Mr. Pippen, was their 3-1 victory over Des Plaines Valley Conference winner, Addison Trail High School.

Mr. Pippen remarked that this was the best hitting team he has ever had. Leading the team in hitting was Gregg Meyer, Most Valuable Player, with an average of .416.

Pitching was another strong point, with Bob Spokas and Bruce Janovsky each hurling a no-hitter. Co-captains elected for the varsity team were Mitch Meyer and Pete Mastandrea.

Frosh-Soph Lion cubs participated in the Colt League for the first time. They finished up the season with three wins and fourteen losses.

The season saw an increase in the turnout of boys for the cub team as compared with eighteen the previous year. The 1973 team consisted of thirty boys. Of these, only five were from the sophomore class.

Coach Nalley said he was looking forward to an improved season in 1973 because of the large number of returning freshman players.

'B.A.A.' Attracts Biggest Turnout

In its first year, bowling for boys highlighted the intramural season. Bowling sponsor Mr. Rojas saw more than fifty boys join teams to compete in the Wednesday-after-school league.

Gerry Heiser, a senior, led the pack with an individual high average of 153. He was followed closely by freshman Pat Danzey with 152. With a high game of 226, Rick Covington outdistanced his closest competitor, Jay Grochowski, by twelve pins.

Despite leading the league by more than 900 pins, the team of O'Connell, Mueller, Getty, and Campos still could not upset the first-place foursome of Swink, Smith, Weiland, and Fitch in the standings.

Meanwhile the Senior-Faculty game climaxed the intramural basketball season. The faculty dumped the All-Stars for the tenth year in a row, 83-56.

The No-Names claimed the basketball title over the Exorcists two days before Mr. Pippen's 13-team floor hockeymania invaded the hardcourts.

Changes Include New Principles

Standing tall with hands on hips was a typical stance for the new LSHS principal, Mr. Charles LeCrone. From his first day he tried to communicate with the students by visiting individual classes. There he discussed assigned study halls, open campus for seniors, and assemblies.

Before arriving at LSHS, Mr. LeCrone was principal of Warren Township High School at Gurnee. When not busy with school-related activities, he enjoys sports and classical music.

Support from Mr. Doolen, assistant principal, and Mr. Baum, dean of students, helped Mr. LeCrone to put new policies into effect. Clubs were required to meet after school. The commons was open only to seniors with underclassmen in assigned study halls.

Mr. Doolen again served as Guidance department head. He coordinated the new computerized system for attendance and grading. Serving as Lisle's representative, he helped formulate plans for DAVEA's first year of operation ('74-'75).

Guidance Helps Plan for Futures

What do you do when you are scheduled for three separate classes in one period, or you are assigned to the industrial arts room for all three lunch modules? In the guidance office, counselors were on hand to assist students with problems of all types. Miss Elizabeth Loos, a new counselor, transferred to the staff from Minooka High School. Her interests are bowling, reading, and travel. She spent part of last summer touring Europe.

As an aid to choosing colleges, a new machine was added to the department. By the process of elimination, colleges were selected for students using such factors as location, academic major, and size of college.

Once again, Mr. Anderson took a group of juniors to visit College of DuPage. They visited the library and classes and ended the tour with an orientation lecture by a college official. To aid students further in their choice of careers, several speakers, from places such as Greer Technical Institute, gave talks and answered questions on their topics.

New Librarian Comes to LSHS

There is a new face in the library! It's Mrs. Jason, the new LSHS librarian. Mrs. Jason did her undergraduate work at Hofstra University in New York. On August 1, 1973, she received her masters degree in library science from the University of California, Berkeley.

The familiar faces of Mrs. Burkman and Mrs. Sauer, library assistants, added to the library's atmosphere.

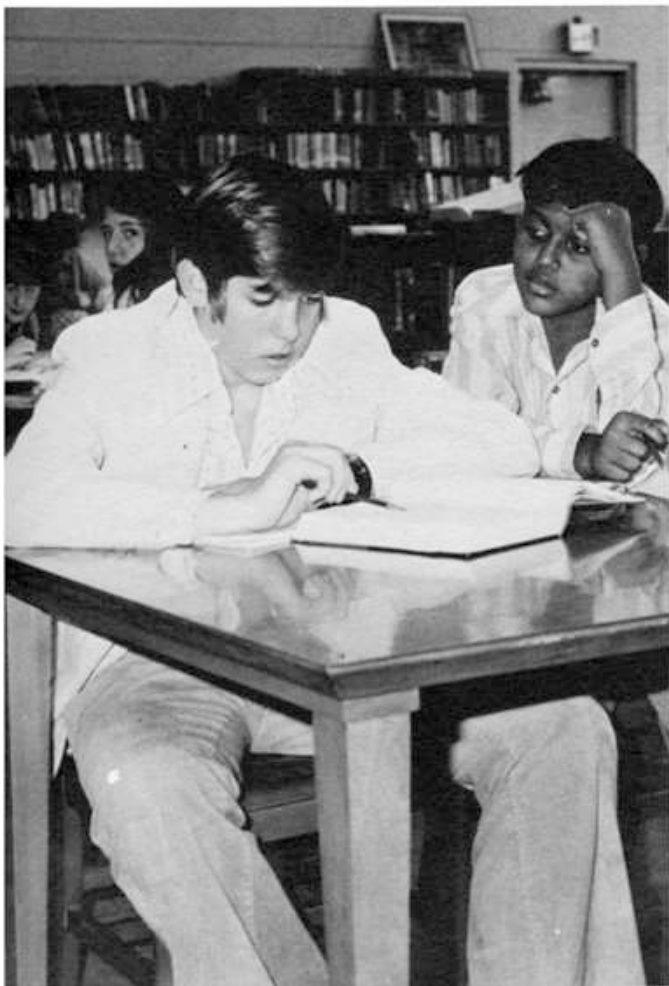

Mobiles, plants, and posters, influences of Mrs. Jason's youthful outlook, brightened the library. Mrs. Jason took special interest in young adult fiction and stocked the shelves with up-to-date books.

English Expands Communication

Bitter words flew as Mrs. Fiore and Mrs. Sonney battled as to who owed whom the ten-dollar bill. Students in the interpersonal communications class responded with extreme shock. Reactions such as these were expected in this pre-planned encounter. This new class in the English department helped junior and senior students convey their thoughts to others effectively.

Mr. James Thomas was another addition to the English department. Coming from Homewood-Flossmoor High School, his classes at Lisle included English I and freshman speech. In his spare time he enjoys most sports, and working on sports cars.

Students Cover Culture Studies

"A man that speaks two languages in worth two people" is the saying that decorated Mrs. Scott's bulletin board. She taught Spanish I and II. Mrs. Sonney taught Spanish III, IV, and V. While Mrs. Scott's students remained in a regular classroom situation, Mrs. Sonney's students progressed at their own pace in independent study.

Two new courses were conversational French and conversational Spanish. Rather than emphasize grammar skills and writing, these courses stressed learning the culture of the countries and speaking the language. Mrs. Scott taught conversational Spanish. Mrs. Driggett taught the French course and the regular four years of French.

History Classes Delve into Past

By supplementing book facts with stories of his past, Mr. Galovich made history seem interesting and more relevant to current events. Students suddenly felt as if they were experiencing life in the depression or battling the enemy in Germany. His vivid accounts were a delightful addition to his classes.

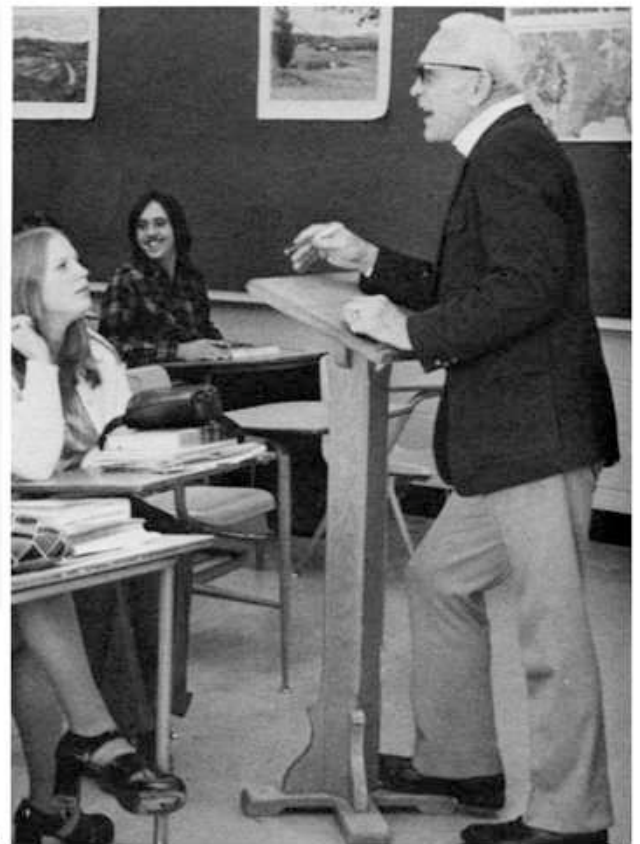

History requirements were changed for LSHS students. Only two years were necessary, but many students signed up for the various elective courses. Although no new classes or teachers were added to the department, teaching methods varied under the supervision of the new chairman. For his first year at Lisle, Mr. LeCrone filled the post formerly held by Mr. Neahaus.

1 Knowledge of world geography is helpful to Debbie Vining in Mr. Rapp's world history class. 2 U.S. history has its light moments for Debbie Fuqua, Ray Connelly, and Lori Hazard. 3 Study time is put to good use by Debbie Antos and Ann Beer during world history class. 4 Patti Sumner listens attentively to Mr. Galovich's response to a question in history. 5 The table arrangement in Mr. Neahaus's classroom permits honors history students to conduct intense debates of American issues easily.

Science Creates New Awareness

With all the problems of today's world, such as the energy crisis and ecology, LSHS's Science department believed the student should be aware. Viewing ecology films, participation in Earth Week, and entries in a Science fair are examples of the activities in which students were involved.

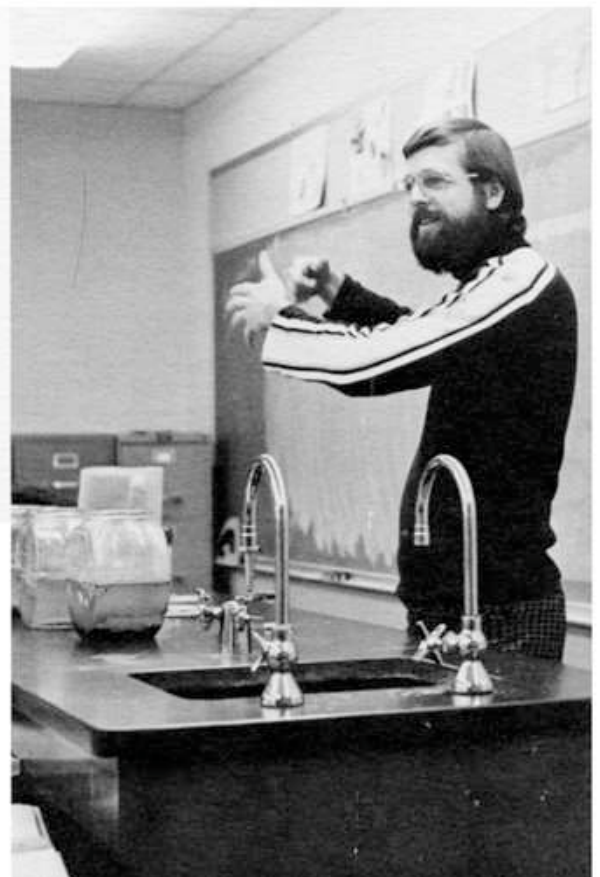

Mr. Alan Gunnerson, who was a new addition to the department, taught earth science. He was formerly a member of the faculty at Egyptian Community Unit School in Tamms, Illinois.

Math Stimulates Logical Thought

$a^2 + b^2 = c^2$  (the Pythagorean theorem). Any student in Miss Jurasek's geometry class would recognize it. She and Mr. Burns, the two new teachers, taught the first year math courses, freshman math and Algebra I. Miss Jurasek is a graduate of Aurora College where she was on the dean's list for eight semesters. Mr. Burns was the high school track coach.

Other courses open to students were Algebra II, taught by both Mr. Allen and Mr. Pippen, and math analysis, taught by Mr. Allen. Scott Stevens and Ho Epstein studied calculus with Mr. Allen independently since they had already completed math analysis.

Mr. Wanic taught at the junior high and taught Algebra I at the high school. On leave for the year, Mr. James was in Ivory Coast, Africa, where he taught in a missionary school.

1 Algebra II students, Bill Mueller, John Wilson, and Mike Kuncel, ponder some problems. 2 Carrie Neisius checks with Mr. Allen to make sure she understands her assignment. 3 Supervised by Miss Jurasek, Maria Esposito computes a geometry proof. 4 Demonstrating how to add fractions, Cindy Warren first converts them. 5 Sara Wolf concentrates on an algebra worksheet.

Business Charts Student Futures

One complaint of some students is that most courses do not teach anything useful for future life. This was not true of LSHS's Business department. Here the average student learned sales, retailing, business law, shorthand, and typing, only a few of the subjects that should be useful in the business world.

Accounting and typing classes learned efficiency by practicing on simulation sets. These contained material from an imaginary company and taught office skills.

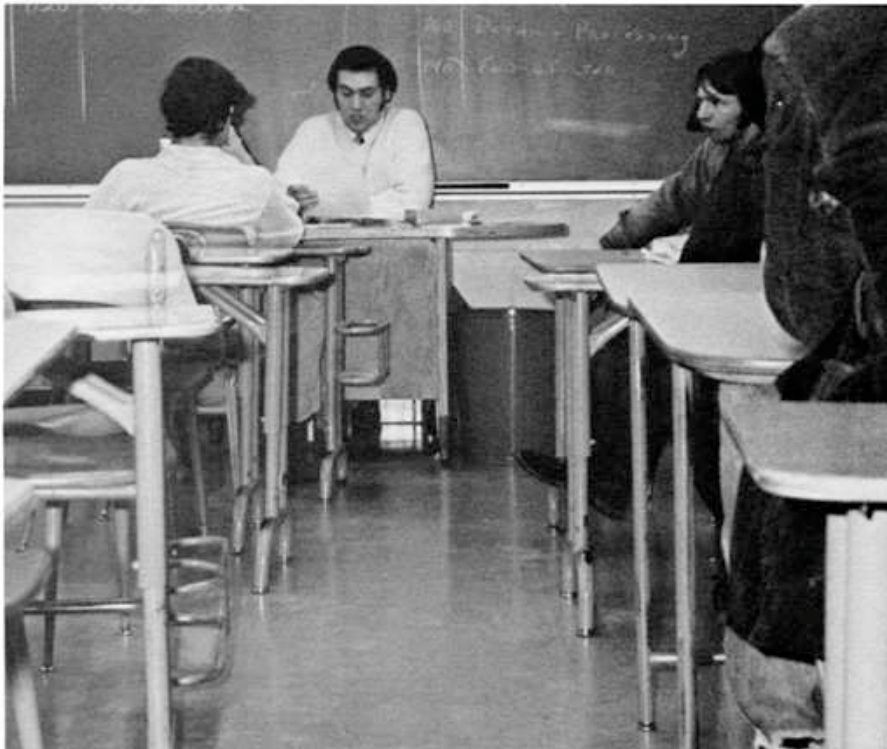

New personnel in the department were Miss Fran Boehme and Mr. Jack Royhl. Both taught general business courses and co-sponsored BOSS Club.

Seasonal Sports Develop Skills

"Fifteen regular jumping-jacks. Ready? Begin!" Exercises in gym class were always difficult to avoid. If a teacher was not there, one of the gym leaders conducted them. Five girls helped the gym teachers take attendance, set up equipment, and referee games in girls' classes.

Miss Standing, from George Williams College, student taught for the first nine weeks in girls' physical education. She was a member of the nationally famous GW volleyball team. In October, the team presented an open exhibition of volleyball skills at LSHS.

A new gym teacher, Mr. Ken Stinar, taught Boys' Physical Education II and III. He transferred from Main Street School. During the year he coached seventh grade basketball at the junior high.

Vocation Classes Learn by Doing

Field trips were a part of many home economics classes. In housing, girls visited area homes and apartments. Child care classes observed day care facilities besides providing their own center for preschoolers.

The coed vocational food service class practiced bakery and short-order cooking. Chef's cooking and foods preparation preceded it.

Despite Women's Lib, shop classes were still male-dominated. Mr. Rojas spent his first year at LSHS teaching industrial essentials and power mechanics. He enjoys water and snow skiing and goes to Mexico every summer.

Shades, Shapes Show the Ideas

Boss-gloss, a fake enamelling process, and Italian glass mosaics were new art media introduced to the arts and crafts class. Other means of self-expression were also firsts in Mrs. Morhous's classes.

Students in Art III classes worked with paper plate lithography and enamelling for the first time.

The Art II class labored many hours illustrating and lettering published children's stories. Some artist/writers even used their own stories. Intensive sessions were also spent in figure drawing. Nature study prints, lettering, and ceramics were done by artists in the first-year classes.

Tom Faust received first prize in the state for his poster entered in the "Hire the Handicapped" campaign contest. He and Lita Dushek, also a contestant, received recognition at suburban and district levels first. Tom won first prize and Lita took second in district competition.

1 Mr. Kentner begins a maintenance job in the typing room as Mr. Thome looks on. 2 Stacks of paperwork do not hide Mrs. Lindemann's cheerful smile. 3 Mrs. Borg stuffs hamburger buns in the lunch line. 4 Mrs. Kremer is engrossed in dittoing one of the guidance office's many handouts. 5 Mrs. Roberts strides toward the kitchen counter in last minute preparations for lunch.

Staff Keeps the School in Order

The people behind the scenes at LSHS worked together to keep things running smoothly. Although they were not often seen or heard, they were ever present. The maintenance crew put in many hours repainting the gym and the auditorium. They also replaced the long absent door on the boys' washroom.

Mrs. Murphy, once again the attendance secretary, learned to cope with a new system of record keeping. There was a computer card for every student in every class. If a student was absent, his card was turned into the dean's office. The cards were run through a computer at College of Dupage, which compiled a daily absentee list.

In the main office, Mrs. Lindemann, assisted by Mrs. Judy Neidinger, handled incoming work for Mr. LeCrone. Long hours, sometimes running into the early evening, were often necessary to keep up with the paperwork.

For the Seniors Life Just Begins

They were not number one, but they tried! The Class of '74 distinguished itself by placing last all four years in Homecoming float competition.

Many things affected the school life of the seniors. They were the only class to have commons privileges during study halls. The five-credit requirement changed to four. Twelve percent of the class graduated early. For the first time in LSHS's history, the Lions almost won NEC's football crown.

Seniors raised money from a concert with Madfox on October 27, basketball concessions, and bake sales.

With the coming of graduation, seniors ordered announcements and were measured for their caps and gowns. Traditionally, the senior banquet and show brought the year to a close.

Juniors Provide the Most Spirit

"Pooh on you, Plano" won first place in the Homecoming float competition for the juniors. However, this was only part of their story. Their overall spirit earned them the spirit trophy for Homecoming week.

Juniors took a new approach this year for prom. Unlike the sit-down dinner last year, juniors held a buffet style dinner in the Grand Ballroom at Pheasant Run. Concessions and bake sales helped to finance prom.

Among other activities, juniors ordered their long-awaited class rings. They also endured the strain of the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the American College Test in anticipation of college plans.

Sophs Learn by Experimentation

Neophytes no longer, the sophomores began the year with the confidence of pros. "Pinocchio 'nose' we're going to bust the reapers" was the theme for their third place Homecoming float. Selling "Spirit of '76" and "Go Lions" buttons raised money for the float.

The sophomores celebrated Halloween skating at the Elm Rink in Elmhurst.

Although relieved of biology lecture, they still faced the dissecting of the frog. Along with the squirms of the dissection came the excitement of driving. Passing the permit test, the eye test, and the behind-the-wheel driving were just a few hurdles to be jumped to receive a driver's license.

Freshman Spirit Conquers Fears

"Like Columbus in the olden days, we must gather all our courage . . ." A quote from Seals and Croft describes the freshmen as they entered LSHS.

Although freshman initiation was discontinued, frosh still felt the pangs of being novices. They struggled through the halls trying to find classes and to get to them on time. They also faced achievement tests at the year's outset.

As the year progressed, school spirit overcame frosh fears. With only ten dollars to make their Homecoming float, the freshmen earned second place with the theme, "Duck the Reapers."

Proving the freshman get-up-and-go, the bake sale at the Bank of Lisle raised $130 for their class treasury.

As the 1974 VALĒ ends, so do other things at Lisle. The new senior high school, composed of only sophomores, juniors, and seniors, will replace the traditional four-year high school. The addition of the DAVEA vocational center will allow students the option of studying college preparatory courses or pursuing classes relevant to a specific occupation.

Although the Class of '74 will not take part in these changes, in four years we have been involved in others and have accomplished much as individuals, if not as a class. We are looking forward to the future, the road unknown, and the changes it will bring to us and to those around us.
