'I'm So Glad You Came Into My Life'

The prom of 1976 was one to be remembered. It was held in the Hayloft Room at Pheasant Run. Though the room was not built to accommodate two hundred and four people, the couples still enjoyed themselves.

They were served a roast beef dinner at 8:30, as they were entertained by the band "Easy Money." As the couples finished dinner, some moved out onto the dance floor to dance to the theme song "You've Made Me So Very Happy."

Class of '76 Departs

The class of 1976 was the nineteenth class to graduate from Lisle High School. But this time the graduation ceremony was held at a new setting, the senior high gym.

Among the exercises on the agenda were the invocation and benediction by Reverend Elliot of the Methodist Church. One hundred eighty-two graduates were recognized and presented with diplomas. Delivering the valedictorian and salutatorian speeches were Wendy Olson and Zdenek Pelc, respectively. Maria Esposito and Jim Elliot sang a duet.

The salutatorian speech is solemnly delivered by Zdenec Pelc.

Lions' Homecoming A Week of Activities

Homecoming week started out this year with a powderpuff football game, in which the junior and sophomore girls defeated the senior girls. The week had many activities including hall decorating, sex switch, class color, dress up, clothes clash and fun days.

Seniors ended their last homecoming at Lisle by winning the spirit stick. The homecoming queen for the '76 football season was Kathy Collins and the king was Wally Bass.

Homecoming day started out with a dominating victory over Marseilles, 40-7. The week ended with the dance at the Senior High School featuring the band Morning Star.

Fanny Is The Girl

Funny Girl was a fine finish to many actors' and actresses' list of high school performances. The play also revealed new and maturing talent.

Maria Esposito ended her high school plays with her portrayal of Fanny Brice. Jay Grochowski acted the part of Nick Arnstein. Sally Johns, George Schmidt, and John Modaff were others holding major rolls.

The entire cast gave a very professional show which the entire audience enjoyed.

Who's The Inspector?

After two years of drama and melodrama, director Beverly Fiore returned to comedy for the sixth annual AFS-Thespian Dinner Theater

This year's production, an English mystery comedy, "The Real Inspector Hound," was a play within a play. The two theater critics, Birdboot and Moon, were played by Jeff Wildhagen and Scott Weller. They spent an evening at the theatre watching a drama involving a mysterious young man (Jay Grochowski), the two women in his life (Kelly Glenn and Karen England), his rival in romance (Bruce Baum), and Inspector Hound (not the real Inspector Hound), played by Larry Modaff. Soon, however, the critics found that the play terrifyingly came to life as the Real Inspector Hound showed his hand. Other parts were taken by Sally Johns, Mark Mosby, Mike Helms, and John Petry.

Love Is A Song

This year's talent show was held at the Lisle Jr High School on October twenty-ninth and thirtieth.

There were many students who participated in the show. The performances varied, including magic shows, skits, solos, and a rock band. The chamber choir and chorus performed throughout the program singing many assorted love songs from the past to the present.

The talent of the performers was appreciated by large audiences both nights.

DIRECTORS

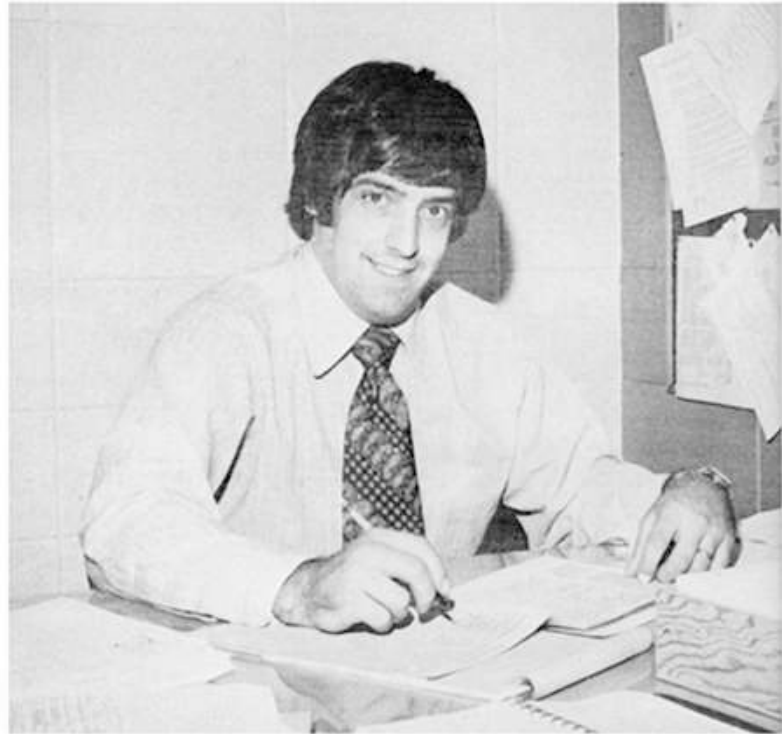

Board Members Are Working For Us All

Students seldom heard about the people who were in charge of running the school. If they did, they only heard of a new rule or of a new teacher's institute day that had been added.

However, the board was made up of elected officials who met on a regular basis and discussed school problems and activities. The board had all the public schools in the district under its jurisdiction, which gave it a big job to do. Each decision was based on how it would benefit the pupils and the school, which made each problem doubly weighted. The board was not only working for the district; they were working for us.

New Faces In Office

LSSH secretaries have once again worked hard to keep the school running smoothly. Mrs. Murphy returned for her eighth year as the attendance secretary. We welcomed two new secretaries: Mrs. Beatty, who handled incoming work for Mr. LeCrone, and Mrs. McKenna, who worked busily to keep the athletic office in order.

Welcoming visitors into the front office were Mrs. Curtin and Mrs. Sauer, who both worked part-time. Mrs. Kremer help set up appointments for students in the guidance department.

Custodians Ralph Earl and George Blesken worked to keep the school in top shape, by cleaning, restoring and maintaining classrooms and hallways.

Counselors Guide Futures

Miss Loos and Mr. Anderson helped students determine their objectives in life and prepare for the future. Present and future problems disappeared when students had the counselors' help.

Volunteers from study hall delivered messages to students who had made appointments with counselors.

A library of college catalogues was available to students who were interested in planning to enter college. Representatives from different colleges visited to help students decide which school they would like to attend. Counselors assisted in arranging visits to those colleges in which students were interested.

Students appreciated the counselors for helping them decide what they should do in the future.

Library Helps Students

Within the area of the library, an atmosphere of self-learning always existed. Students who needed help in the library could always rely on Mrs. Jason, librarian and library assistant, Mrs. Burkman. They were always available to help students find sources of information for term papers and reports. Encyclopedias, books and magazines were used as reference material. In addition, the librarians were available to suggest reading materials to students who were eager to learn.

Library aides rendered their valuable time by assisting in shelving and arranging books, checking materials in and out, and filing magazines.

Mrs. Jason looks up information for students.

English Has Diversity

The largest department in the school also had the widest spectrum of application. The fields of study included drama, history, fiction, and philosophy.

College preparatory classes stressed formal theme writing and word usage. Other areas developed artistic expression in drama and creative writing.

"Something for everyone" was the goal of the English department — a goal not very easy to reach.

1. While remaining in a comfortable position, Mr. Beato ponders a question. 2. Rick Turner listens in his journalism class. 3. Mrs. Phinney enjoys a passage in her book. 4. Study Of Cultures

Spanish and French classes were busy learning dialogues and memorizing words. Students were helped by their teachers Mrs. Sonney and Miss Ennis, respectively.

Spanish III and IV, along with French IV, participated in independent study in addition to their regular class. This helped students learn on their own.

Besides learning about the French and Spanish culture in school, the classes took field trips to different places surrounding the area. Both classes had opportunities to hear guest speakers. Throughout the year both teachers stressed the importance of a second language.

History Is Involving

Along with the presidential election of 1976 on November 2, Lisle had its own "mock elections." In preparation for the elections, debates were held with Jim Howard representing President Ford and Mike Helms representing Jimmy Carter. To be eligible to vote, students had to register.

Lisle students voted Ford and Dole. However, the people of the United States found Carter and Mondale the more popular selection.

Mr. Galovich's honor history class looked into the structure of Lisle township and DuPage County governments in order to become better acquainted with the many aspects of local government.

Science Explores All

Science started off a new year offering many courses from which to choose.

Students studied such things as the mechanics of the human body and the proper way to care for microscopes. They also dissected frogs, baby pigs and cats.

There were no new classes to choose from, but next year Integrated Science will be taught. This course will cover biology, earth science, chemistry and physics in one uniform class.

This year the Regional Science fair was held in April of 1977 at Illinois Institute of Technology. The exhibits entered placed very well.

Topics In Math

Areas of math study expanded this year with the addition of a new class, Topics in Math. The new elective provided something completely different for students interested in logic, probability, statistics and math history. The class explored other areas of math, the use of calculators, and physical probabilities.

The new class was taught by Mr. James along with his other classes, math analysis and algebra. Mr. Allen taught geometry and algebra. Mr. Pippen taught geometry here this year.

Students Gain Skill

Students who were enrolled in vocational classes gained helpful knowledge for the future. In courses like shop, cooking, sewing, child care, and drafting, things such as the care for a baby, the safe way to use power tools, and the proper way to prepare foods were taught. Some students drew up plans for future dream houses.

Participants in these programs appreciated the opportunity to learn relevant, useful skills while still in high school.

Art Sparks Creativity

The art department began the year with a new teacher, Mr. McCoy. He taught at Hinsdale South in the afternoons and taught art at Lisle in the mornings.

Students did many interesting things in their ceramics class. They first learned the basics of working with clay, then started glazing. Students studied Raka firing, which is the process of smoking hot pieces of clay by dropping them into sawdust. The textile class batiked some of their shirts and wove some very impressive items.

Business Aids Future

Do you know what you could have learned about the business world while still in school? The many skills necessary in performing office work duties were acquired in classes such as Typing, Business Machines, Accounting, Marketing, Business Law, Shorthand, Data Processing, General Typing, Office Practice and Co-op.

Students who gained experience in these areas felt they would appreciate it in later years of employment.

Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Brown, Mr. Jones, and Mr. Royhl enjoyed working with the many students who were eager to learn.

Co-op Goes To Work

Co-op was a program designed for students who wanted to work after graduation. Participants went to school in the morning and worked in the afternoon. They earned two credits a year toward graduation.

Many students worked at part-time jobs in businesses such as SWIB, Walgreens, Dog-n-Suds, and Chicken Unlimited.

Mr. Jones acted as the co-ordinator of co-op. Many students through co-op received training for jobs into which they may enter after graduation.

DAVEA Offers Early Training In Careers

DuPage Area Vocational Education Authority was open to LSHS for the third year. Each year attendance at DAVEA has increased.

DAVEA offered students advanced training towards certified employment in the career they had chosen.

The total number of students attending was seventy: thirty-one in the morning and thirty-nine in the afternoon. The most popular courses at DAVEA were construction, auto mechanics and aviation.

Band Hits High Note With Great Sounds

The band produced great sounds which were heard all year. They played in the Homecoming and LaGrange Pet Parades, and gave a winter and a spring concert along with the chorus. Two band members, Nola Schmidt and Steve Foster, were sent to the Illinois Music Educators Association and played in its District One band. By selling fruit, money was earned for a trip to a Galena ski lodge in the spring. On the way, the band gave a concert at Norridge High School.

Choirs Host Dinner

Starting the busy schedule for the 1976-1977 school year, the Lisle Senior High Chorus held the annual Variety Show. The program consisted of songs, dances, and skits.

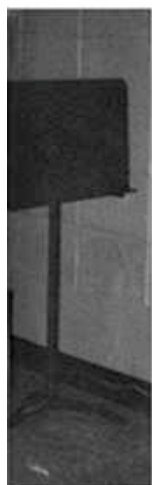

Something new to the schedule of events was the Madrigal Dinner. The dinner was held on December 21, and was presented in 17th century style.

The choirs traveled to Minooka on November 16 to compete in the Northeast Conference Festival.

To honor the Senior Class of 1977, the chorus presented a concert in May featuring many pop tunes.

The chorus completed a busy year by singing at Honor's Night in June.

Gym Classes Dive Into New Program

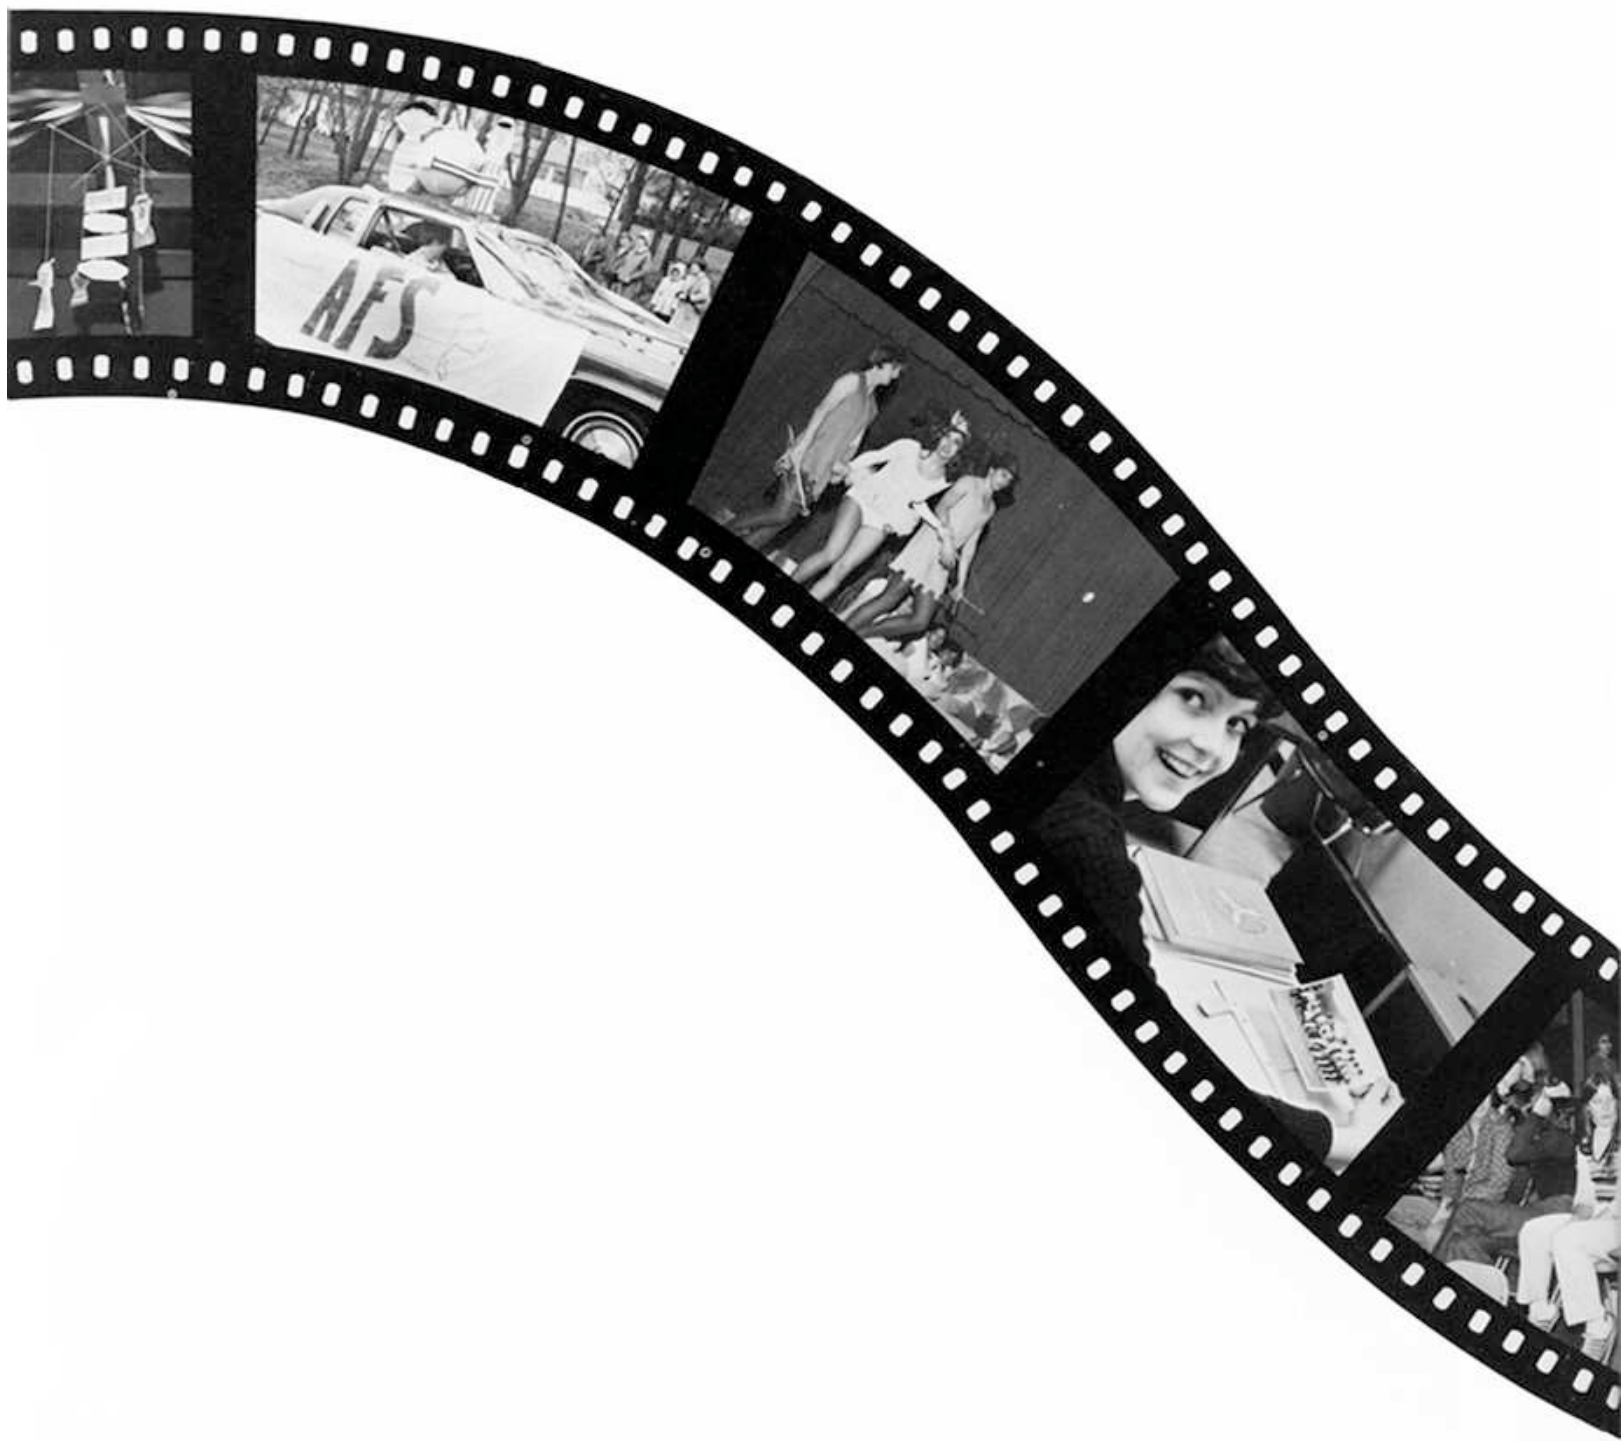

Gym classes offered many different activities this year, ranging from basketball to soccer. And a very new and different activity, swimming, was added. Students donned their swimming suits and went over to the new park district pool. Unfortunately, the weather only permitted a few days of swimming, but in this time swimming proved to be a unique experience for all. Football, basketball, and softball also highlighted the year.

Mr. Keeley and Mrs. Dilacova handled most of the gym classes, with Mr. Baum, Mr. Gollan and Miss Armstrong also teaching some classes.

1. A member of a gym class practices setting up a volleyball.
2. With help from friends, a student attempts a handstand.
3. Leg lifts provide good exercise for the girls.
4. A gym class goes through calisthenics before playing volleyball.

9. Cheryl Clark finds sit-ups amusing.

UNIONS-GUILDS

A.F.S. Students Come And Go

Through A.F.S. we had an exchange student from Thailand, Surasak Suparat. He stayed here for one year and lived with the Densfords.

Aside from sending and receiving students from other countries, A.F.S. members were very busy. They had two pizza sales, one in spring and one in fall, along with their annual Dinner-Theatre with Thespians. Also every two months the group visited an ethnic restaurant. To top it off they sponsored a short term exchange in March.

The A.F.S. club elected Diane Giesler, President; Patti Venard, Vice-President; Cam Wolf, Secretary-Treasurer.

Lisa Returns Home

This year A.F.S. sent Lisa Fiore to Christchurch, New Zealand. She left on her trip January 1976 and didn't return until January 1977. The scholarship which Lisa received is a very hard one to come by because of the various sectional screenings. She had a matter of weeks before she left, to prepare herself for the year. To Lisa, her year in New Zealand was a unique and invaluable experience. Besides seeing another country, she was able to learn of their culture and ways through day to day experiences.

American Field Service sent Kathy Hahn to Chile for the 1977-78 year. Mrs. Swanson sponsored the club for her first year.

Archery Club Changes Name

This year's archery club wrote a new constitution and changed its name to the Outdoor-Sportsmen Club.

Members started their activities early in the summer with a twelve mile canoe trip down the Fox River. Later, when school started, all of the members passed a hunters' safety course with flying colors. A shooting contest at American Archery Range was planned for the growing club.

FBLA Attends A State Conference

Future Business Leaders of America, a club for students interested in business, provided opportunities for students to meet and work with students from various schools. This year the club members attended the State Leadership Conference where they competed against other schools in various business subjects such as typing and accounting. The club sponsored many activities this year to raise money for the conference trip. These activities included a disco dance, a taffy apple sale, and a donkey basketball game. The game featured the faculty vs. the students. The students won the game by a score of 20-16.

FBLA was sponsored by Mrs. Brown. Officers included Cindy Riedy, president; Kerry Rosser, vice-president; and Sheryl McCoy, secretary-treasurer

Exploring New Fields

Offering activities for students interested in science, this year's Science Club explored new interests and studied various fields of science. Acting president Jeff Wildhagen stated, "The object of the club is to open new doors for those interested in science."

Mr. Gunnerson, the club sponsor, considered suggestions concerning possible field trips, letting the members choose places they were interested in exploring. This year the club went fossil-hunting in Coal City. Since the club encouraged participation in scientific competitions, some of the members entered the Inter-scholastic Science Fair

Lettermen Sales Profit Members

One of the primary purposes of the Letterman's Club was to raise money to help club members attend wrestling, basketball, and football camps. Lettermen, led by J. Barney Neahaus, engaged in many fund raising activities.

They began the year by selling ski caps and N.E.C. T-shirts at football games. During the basketball season, Lettermen again sold N.E.C. T-shirts. Throughout the year the club had Letterman's jackets available.

Honor Society Shares Talents

The National Honor Society was a club that admitted only a chosen few. N.H.S. had fifteen members returning from last year.

Club members spent time in all areas of school activity. Advised and aided by Mr. Mulcare, individual members tutored students who needed help. The year ended with the addition of new juniors and seniors to the club.

Pride Speaks Out

Working every Monday, sometimes until ten o'clock at night, this year's Pride staff strived to get a paper ready for printing on Tuesdays. The paper contained articles on the various school events and sports. Many articles dealt with the students either directly or indirectly. Also included were editorials and a space for feedback from the students concerning their feelings toward school affairs and policies.

Mr Beato was the sponsor of the paper, offering his help and advice to the staff. Mr Rybolt printed the paper since he did not have a printing class this year. Dan Faust was the editor-in-chief. Grace Richusa, the managing editor, wrote editorials which reflected the opinion of the Pride staff. The business manager was Joe Chiapetta and the sports editor and the girl's sports editor were Bill Cordes and Jeri Grochowski, respectively.

Valé Co-editors Win A First For Design

During the summer, the co-editors of this year's Valé, Ann Gerten and Heidi Otto, attended a seminar on the Basics of Yearbook at the University of Wisconsin. There they chose the theme and won a first place award for the design they chose for the Valé.

Under the instruction of Mrs. Johnson, the Valé sponsor, and the two co-editors, the twenty-seven members of the Valé staff learned such things as writing copy, headlines, and captions. Businessmen from the Lisle area helped sponsor the yearbook.

Three photographers, Ron Helms, Heidi Otto, and Jeanne Dietrich, helped the staff by taking pictures of various school events. Lori Anderson also helped the Valé staff in her position as copy editor

Student Forum Does The Job

This year Student Forum went into action. Members started the year off with the annual homecoming week. Soon they got involved in sending buses to the football games, and preparing the 1976 presidential mock elections and the Ford-Carter debates. The Forum also sponsored a student exchange with Proviso East.

The officers of Student Forum were John Fallon, President; Carole Gass, Vice-President; Kathy Collins, Secretary; Len Liarmatis, Treasurer

Skiers Off To Michigan Hills

This year's trip to Powder Horn Michigan was the final one for the Lisle High School Ski Club. Club members left after school on Thursday February 10 at 4:30 p.m. and arrived at the Lodge at 12:30 a.m. The members got two and a half days of skiing in and suffered only one injury, though not serious.

Other members took lessons or just skied at Four Lakes during the year. The club members sold doughnuts to help pay their expenses for the big trip to Michigan.

Thespians Get Good Reviews

Thespians members received good reviews on all of their activities this year

"The Real Inspector Hound" (the dinner-theatre), found Thespians backstage as well as on stage. A few club members joined Mrs. Fiore's drama class to attend "The Wiz," the black musical version of "The Wizard of Oz." On February 18 and 19 Josephine Forsberg, director of the Second City Players in Chicago, gave a workshop on improvisation. The musical, "Lil' Abner," kept Thespians busy during February and March. Members of the club closed the year by initiating new Thespians.

M.L.C. Raises Travel Money

Modern Language Club, led by Mrs. Sonney and President Diane Dickey, was involved in many money raising projects that showed good results. At the beginning of the year they joined A.F.S. for a pizza sale. Their pretzel sales provided refreshments for students. Monte Carlo Night found M.L.C. and Thespians raising more money.

The money M.L.C. raised went to award partial scholarships to club members so they could study in Mexico during the summer.

A.V. Helps Out

The Audio Visual Club, under the direction of Mr. James, worked all year to help our school. During the school day, aides could be found delivering tape recorders, record players, movie projectors, and other A.V. equipment to various classrooms. A.V. members were called in to solve different problems that arose with the machines. Sometimes, after school, A.V. members could be found repairing equipment.

The talents of the club also extended into Homecoming when the members made and rode on a special float.

RAH!

The last pom-pon falls
weary-defeated.
Cheerleaders turn to hide
mixed emotions.
A rejected crowd turns away,
and for a moment
experiences a "sad state" of emotion.
The last piece of confetti drifts serenely from the clouded sky.
Despairingly, the loud speaker is unnoticeably clicked off —
packed away for next season.
Solemnly, the bleachers
creak under the feet
of disconsolate viewers
Off the field walk thirty men — sagging shoulders, heads bowed.
Dejected, they take off their helmets which have dutifully done their job —
solemnly they gaze at a goal post, and then take their longest walk ever
to the locker room,
as they realize the shattering of a long-life dream.

Slowly a tear trickles and falls
to the beaten field.
The player shamefully,
unsuccessfully, wipes away
a stream of steady tears.
This single emotion —
feels more than all others combined.

C.T.W.

A tear rolls off her cheek,
Falls to the floor shattering Memories.

A New Day

Rose and pink blend into blue showing just a lucky few who chance to see the lovely view
that a new day has begun.

A soft song from a lonely bird
but not the sound of a human word Nature has not been disturbed
a new day has begun.

In the distance the roosters crow
then a car horn starts to blow letting everybody know
that a new day has begun.

Kathy Kozack

Little mouse in the feline's mouth
Why don't you converse with me?
What's the matter?
Cat got your tongue?

Jay

Wouldn't . . .
it be perfect
if for every person
there could be someone who willingly matched and loved that person?

If
this happened
the world would be happy —
there would be no triangles
no problems only love.

Tears trickle
Sorrow spawned springs
Washing away the lingering
Time pads the wound
Calloused over the heart
Found another for a new start
Gone again
And the tears start to reign.

It's over
OK. I accept that.
Then why do I
still ½ expect you to call
And ¾ jump when the phone rings and 1/1 die when it isn't you?

Sandy Kuncel

I am as an infant is.
Clutching for warmth and security,
And crying if I am left without.
Looking for peace in a simple way,
I whisper my thoughts to you.
You reject them.
All is gone,
Your warmth, Your security
My innocence.

Andrea Hanacek

Look What I've Found —
You Can Find It Too.

I used to be all alone
I knew not how to live,
But then He came into my life
He, who has love, and is so willing to give.

And now my life is wonderful
Ever since I gave myself to Him
My heart is running over with love,
It's filled way past the brim.

He showed me the happiness I'd looked for
The love I'd searched for so long
And now I know He'll never leave me
I've found the place where I belong.

For once my smile has real meaning
My heart learned to love and care,
Reach out and you'll find Him,
His love is everywhere.

My world —
So peaceful,
So content,
So serene.
I know who
I am.
I'm not afraid
of anything.

No! Go away!
I don't want to share!
It's mine!
You can't be a part of it!

My world —
So lonely.

Kathy Hahn

ou came into my life not even realizing at first my unawareness now seems a bit humorous you muttered those words so soon they couldn't possibly be true i didn't feel all that thought it flattering tho
you never quit
saying i was most important caring more than i thought possible
i reached for you
you were there
being part of me was not enough
you became the life of me
there was hurt
and sometimes tears
i told you i loved you
there were laughs
days of joy
as i see from here
these years are left behind thoughts of you — will never leave my mind
you are beautiful and will be my life for however long you wish i love you just isn't enough
there's just so much more

Can I take you to the wonders of the universe?
 Let me show you the beauty of a star
 There are spellbinding things
 Like lions with wings,
 And soft butterflies
 With huge gilded eyes.
 Please come to my home — it's not very far

I have traveled through space for such a long time.
 And now, to home, I'll soon return.
 Without you I will be
 In such misery.
 Our time is here
 Come be near
 I'll teach you our ways, and quickly you'll learn.

We'll travel together through love and time.
 The stars are calling to them we'll fly.
 Please come with me
 And we will be
 Always together,
 And nothing will ever
 Keep us apart. Our love won't die.

Rick Turner

Don't ever leave me,
 not for someone else
 or because of something I said.
 If you do,
 Just leave me if your love for me has died.
 I'll always love you, but love has to work two ways —
 Once one dies, the other has nothing to live for.
 So, if you leave me — I'll get over it;
 But in my heart there'll always be a place for your love.
 So remember:
 Don't ever leave me,
 not for someone else
 or because of something I said.
 Just leave me if your love for me dies.

A child at heart I was,
 Living in a world of fantasies and dreams,
 of ice-cream and candy,
 of dolls and crayons,
 Never wanting to face reality but turning my head away.
 Selfish like a child I was, asking alot, but never giving.
 Taking love, but never loving
 In return.
 Then you came.
 You rebuilt and remolded me.
 You showed me that giving
 Was better than taking,
 And that love was made to give.
 I guess
 I should thank you
 But, you haven't taught me
 that yet.

 No — I'd rather leave
 things unfinished.
 I'll be content to keep dreaming . . .
 That at least,
 seems nice.

 but that feelin's gone
 Somehow, though I feel like
 We never really gave it much of a chance —
 So I guess I shouldn't be
 So broken up — But it hurts
 When I see you with someone else
 Oh — Why couldn't you be in real life
 As you are in my dreams?
 OH — Hey — don't worry about me —
 I'll be OK — Life as usual!
 " I'd walk away like a movie star
 that got burned in a three-way-split

 Maybe I can get them
 Engraved on my new necklace —
 After all, what else can you do

LAST STOP

Inside an empty freight car
 a dying tramp lay.
 His companion stood beside him listening to the final words he said.

"I'll soon be going to a better land,
 where loneliness can't be found.
 And memories won't mock me,
 My traveling days are over
 And my misery is through.

You're the only pal I ever had
 But I hear my final stop calling me
 I've got to catch it;
 I'm ready to meet death.

His head fell back.
 And his companion stole
 his frayed hat and worn shoes,
 And caught the next train.

In ways though Jayme was better than Mike.
 She could make chocolate chip cookies

She could do everything alright,
 And this summer,
 just to prove it to us guys and especially Mike,
 She did something
 none of us ever thought of,
 she died.

My eyes, like my mind, are burning with tears of rage.
Thoughts of my past cloud my memories, memories I no longer want to remember. But they taught an important lesson, or at least I thought they did.

The pain of years past and those memories all came through tonight, and you saw the real me.
A scared little girl, longing to trust, yet remembering a storm filled past.
That little girl is trembling with fear of the future.
And you.
She fears love, not longing to be hurt again.
And she knows all too well now, the hurt of loneliness.

Yet the word "love" scares her.
For her, trusting herself to love will take a long time.

And she knows this.

Yet tonight she saw the real you.

A little boy growing up, realizing his heart's bursting.
He's longing to tell the little girl of his love.
He learns that the little girl is fearful, fearful of is it the future? No, not just the future, the future and himself.

Yet this little boy has patience and understanding.
And with these, his love will endure her fearfilled journey through the real, grown-up world.
She'll gradually accept his patience with gratitude, for he accepts her as the fearful little girl she is.

And thru his patience and love, and her willingness to grow,
the thorns of regret and loneliness will never again
pierce this little girl's heart.

waiting to become famous ready to take place in a real-life drama staring nervously at the stage door
he waits, for his ticket to fame
he fingers the trigger nervously

When the Falling Stars Stop Falling

When the tides cease to ebb,
And the birds do not sing,
When the magaliths of Stonehenge
Aren't such spectacular things,
When falling stars stop falling,
And foreboding clouds loom,
When all the flowers wither,
And their petals fail to bloom,
When the mountains are all leveled,
And Santa Claus stays home,
When there aren't such things as elves and trolls,
Unicorns, dwarves and gnomes,
When the sun stops burning brightly,
And the sea-line leaves the sky,
When the form of Man becomes extinct,
And butterflies don't fly,
When all these things threaten, and when They finally do come true —
The feelings I have in my heart will change
And I'll stop loving you.

As I wait
among a field of flowers
I, a simple daisy
the same as all the others
yet wanting to be unique.
Suddenly
he, a butterfly
circles over
and lands upon me.

So beautiful is he
I can't help but smile.

To think he picked me
over all the others,
all the other simple flowers
am I that special could I be?

And I wrap myself around him
sinking deeper into love
only knowing underneath
that one day he will be gone.

For I'm not special
I'm not unique
I am just another flower that a butterfly choose to stop on as he passed along the way.

He is gone now
I have no sorrow
for he and I both know and understand that next spring when flowers blossom he'll be back and I'll take him in.

We're Always Mystery

We're always mystery — me and you,
Not knowing the other as love needs to.
But let us love beyond this time,
Both you and I in gentle rhyme.

Life takes us ways beyond our choice,
Surprised in pain without a voice.
But let us love beyond this time,
Both you and I in gentle rhyme.

Apart and changed as time demands,
Both you and I don't understand.
But let us love beyond this time,
Both you and I in gentle rhyme.

in gentle rhyme.

Just because
The sun never rose
Nature overslept
The ticking hands were stalled,
morning dew left late,
the sun's heat rays were cancelled,
night stars were reluctant to leave,
a gray stillness existed
past dreams had hung and dinner had been served —
This isn't necessarily a result of your farewell
Is it?

CTW

At least you said you loved me
once
I may have to live on just that forever.

Lost In Your Midst

Lost in your midst
Hearing only what I want
Seeing only what I want Believing
only what I dare
Lost in your midst.

Andrea

No time of doves
Or soft spoken loves.
No happy joyful days
Glittering with the Sun's gold bright rays.
Only a time of great sorrow,
Living in dread of tomorrow.
In a pit of all lost hope
Pain is a feeling.
We all must cope.
Parts of life are a bitter pill.
They say it'll pass.
They say it always will.

Lost Yesterday's

The hop-scotch games
 The jump rope rhymes
 The innocent years of youth
 While time was passing
 The years of tears and laughter
 And I yearn for
 Those lost yesterdays.

Yesterday is past and gone
 The days of dolls and dreams
 The checker games with Gramps
 When love was simple
 And I yearn for
 Those lost yesterdays.

The time of jelly beans
 And special friends
 The bed-side prayers
 The talks with Mom
 And I yearn for
 Those lost yesterdays.

The jump rope rhymes are forgotten
 The dolls are put back on their shelf
 And dreams turn to reality
 Those days are past and gone
 And I yearn for
 Those lost yesterdays.

Unknown Artist

In the late hours of night
 I see a picture of cloudy white.

As I behold before my eyes
 A snow covered sky.

And what's that afar
 Could it be a twinkle of a star?

Or maybe the artist's smile
 It will be gone in a little while.
 Changing into a sea of floating ice
 Oh, it really must be nice,
 To rearrange the sky
 I wonder who it's done by.

Maybe the artist isn't well known
 Like so many artists in Rome.

His name I cannot find
 I don't think this picture's signed.

Wait, at the bottom of the sky
 I see who it's painted by.

Oh this is very odd
 a strange name
 It's signed "God."

True Love

When seen such a joyful love that it seems to overpower
 the happiness of all,
 is the most true
 love of all

Sandi

Their's is a love more worthy of devotion than any other It's the kind of love not even a kiss has blemished.
 Worshiping from afar
 Knowing exactly what is expected from each other
 Trust overflowing.
 Their love is peaceful and harmonious.
 Their love is true forever
 These lovers are man and God.

Touch the Earth

The walls of my scurried living are growing high
 I've got to get out and see the sky.
 To see and feel safe,
 Kept warm against the earth's breast.
 I've got to get out and see the sky.
 To grow large and fill my body with air
 And laugh till the birds hush to hear
 To run and stomp,
 Scream and breathe.
 To drink in spring with my eyes
 To hear fall's geese call
 To taste winter's ice
 To let summer's sun warm me through
 I've got to get out and see the earth,
 The stars and sky
 If I don't I'll shrivel up inside and die

I've had you alone in my mind
 With your heart closing around me
 Making me feel your soul
 Love's the thing that starts,
 How I feel for you.

Thinclads Take First

The Varsity track team captured its second consecutive conference title by smashing all opponents in dual meets and placing first in the conference meet. The Lions had many fine solo performances that produced five individual champs.

These standouts were Wally Tarasewicz in the 100 yard dash, Jay Grochowski in the long and triple jumps, Bruce Baum in the high hurdles and Kurt Grutzmacher in the low hurdles. Tarasewicz, Grochowski and Grutzmacher each smashed school records in their respective events. Others placing in the conference meet were Tom Maxson, Larry Esposito, Jeff Oberschelp, Wally Bass and Steve Smith. Baum and Grutzmacher were named co-captains while Tarasewicz and Grochowski shared M.V.P. honors.

Youthful Linkmen Acquire Experience

Lisle's golf team, made up of predominantly underclassmen, managed a respectable finish after winning three meets and losing five.

A third place finish in the conference meet and a fourth place finish in the Seneca tournament provided a few bright spots for an otherwise disappointing season.

Team leaders included Pat Danzey, who finished sixth in the conference meet, Steve Smith and Ken Saraga.

The team ended their season by voting Brian Demar and Pat Danzey co-captains.

Varsity Reigns

The Varsity Baseball team successfully defended its Quad-County Conference title by posting a 9-3 mark and finishing the season with a fine 17-7 mark. The Lions combined speed and good pitching along with fine hitting to defeat many larger schools. Coach Pippen completed his fourth consecutive winning summer as head coach and is "looking forward to continued success next year."

Three players were named all-conference: Dave Ericksen at pitcher, Jay Grochowski at shortstop and Pete Neisius at catcher. Mike Saul and Dave Gorden received honorable mention as infielders. Ericksen was voted M.V.P while Neisius and Grochowski were elected co-captains.

Soph Squad Places Second

The sophomore Lions ended a successful season, placing second to an undefeated Lemont team. Their final record was 7-2 with one of those losses to Benet.

Mike Diebel was the team's leading gainer from his halfback position. Barney Neahaus and Mike Oberschelp split the quarterbacking duties. Russ Krause and Chris Vodicka were standouts at linebacker and offensive back. The line play was led by two-way players John Krebs and Tom Sumner

This was the second time in five years that Coach Diesron and Pippen had a second place team. The other three years were championships.

Change In C-C Format

Although the cross-country team did not have a winning season, they showed many pluses. Coach Crouch, in his first year at the reins, laid the groundwork for a fine cross-country program. The Lions were led by sophomore standout and team M.V.P., John Loehman, senior captain Chuck McKenna, and four-year letterman Scott Weller. As evident by the large turn-outs and cheerleaders at home meets, the spirit is on the rise for the cross-country program.

Lisle: 3A Power

The 1976 Varsity Lions set a precedent that will be hard for any future Lisle football teams to achieve.

The action packed team earned a state playoff berth for the third consecutive year by winning the Northeast Conference with undaunted consistency.

It was the fourth conference crown for the seniors, who were undefeated in four years of conference play.

The team proceeded into the playoffs and became the first Lisle team to win the preliminary game by defeating a tough Walther Lutheran team. Lisle's next opponent was Geneseo, the eventual class 3A State Champions.

The squad placed eleven players on the All-Conference Team. Junior Al Garringer and Seniors Kevin Ireland, Mike Stanley, Wally Tarasewicz, and Dave Shoop were selected at either an offensive or defensive position. Jeff Sauer, Jay Grochowski, Ron Helms, Todd Miller, Wally Bass, and John Wagner were chosen on both the offensive and defensive teams.

Wally Bass was voted most valuable player, Jeff Sauer received the sportsman award, Ron Helms was captain, and Todd Miller, Jay Grochowski, and Mike Stanley were co-captains.

Cagers Break Spell

The varsity basketball team achieved the best record and finish in the N.E.C. by any Lisle varsity squad in the last nine years. The Lions finished 10-3, second in the conference, and 13-11 overall.

Defense was the Lions' game as they allowed an average of only 61 points a game, the best in the N.E.C. The club also scored a record high 93 points in one game.

Lisle placed Bruce Baum and Jay Grochowski on the All-Conference list — second team. Ron Fuqua and Pete Wagner earned Special Mention and Honorable Mention awards respectively.

Sophs Take Third

Starting with a new coach, Van Gollan, the sophomore basketball team achieved a third place tie in the N.E.C. with a 9-4 record. Led by freshman Lynn Coleman and Ken Tyznik, the Lions placed themselves to an overall 13-10 season.

Coach Gollan commented, "We started out slow but came on strong at the end and had an outstanding team this year." The team won seven of their last nine conference games and were the only team to defeat the N.E.C. champion, Dwight.

Sophs Battle

The sophomore wrestling team earned a fourth place finish in the conference tournament along with some individual awards.

Tim Stuedell defended his conference title as king of the 167-pound weight class and Dave Helderle finished second in the heavyweight division. Dan Adomaitis placed third in the 138-pound class, with Al Peterson and Robert Polic earning fourth place in their respective weight classes.

Tennis Gets A Start

Intramural tennis took shape in Lisle's long list of sports activities last spring. Boys' intramural tennis was the first step as singles and doubles teams met each other in assorted matches. Advisor Mr. Thomas gave the winners a chance to play in the Boys' State District Tournament.

In the following fall, the girls were given the same opportunity as four attended the Girls' State District Tournament. Cam Wolf, Janet Baluk, Terri Borowski, and Patti Fink represented Lisle in the preliminaries. Patti Fink returned as a successful quarterfinalist.

On The Way Up

In its third season, the girls' soccer team achieved the best season's record of all previous years. Although the team put forth a great effort, due to inexperience they did not produce a winning season.

Under coach Liz Armstrong, the team of twenty-one, including fifteen underclassmen, started practice in August. Daily workouts stressing conditioning and skills brought the girls to their first game and a season of dedication and spirit.

Cam Wolf and Sue Cull were voted co-captains of the squad.

Spirit Over All

This year's cheerleaders did a fine job of promoting school spirit.

After returning from cheerleading camp at ISU in early summer, the girls practiced throughout the rest of the summer and a few days a week when school began.

The squad raised money through bake sales and car washes to purchase new varsity sweaters.

Cheerleaders could usually be found cheering their loudest at pep rallies and sport activities, while behind the scenes they were involved in decorating hallways, making crash-throughs and posters, or selling tickets to away games.

This year, Alison Bieschke was varsity captain while Tracy Neisius was captain of the sophomore squad. Miss Armstrong was the cheerleading advisor.

Pom Pon girls performed original routines throughout the year. While attending summer camp at Illinois Wesleyan, the squad was awarded many ribbons. The squad practiced throughout the summer and continued to have after school practice during the sport seasons.

The pep band worked closely with the squad in preparing for their routines. Miss Lund was the advisor for her second year while Liz Valentour was captain with Karen England helping out as co-captain.

Girls Take NEC Glory

The varsity and frosh-soph volleyball teams finished their seasons with successful records. The varsity team walked away with a conference championship. Going on to win their first game in districts, they were then defeated in their second game. For the seniors this has been their third official NEC championship. As freshmen, no standings were kept, but they were undefeated. Senior Janet Baluk was chosen to lead the team as captain for the third time.

The frosh-soph volleyball team completed its season with a record of 8-2. Sophomore Donna Kendall was chosen as the team's captain.

Bowlers Go To State

Practicing weekdays at the Lisle Bowl, the girls' bowling team worked towards a very successful season.

The bowling team was divided into a varsity and junior-varsity team. Averages were kept throughout the entire season and the five highest averages represented the varsity team, while the junior-varsity team consisted of the next five highest averages.

Winning the NEC conference with a standing of 7-1, the girls then went on to win the district title by a slim 10 pins. Advancing to state, the bowlers made the top 16 of 32 teams, qualifying for quarter finals and then went on to semifinals. The girls had an impressive eighth place finish.

Track Strides On

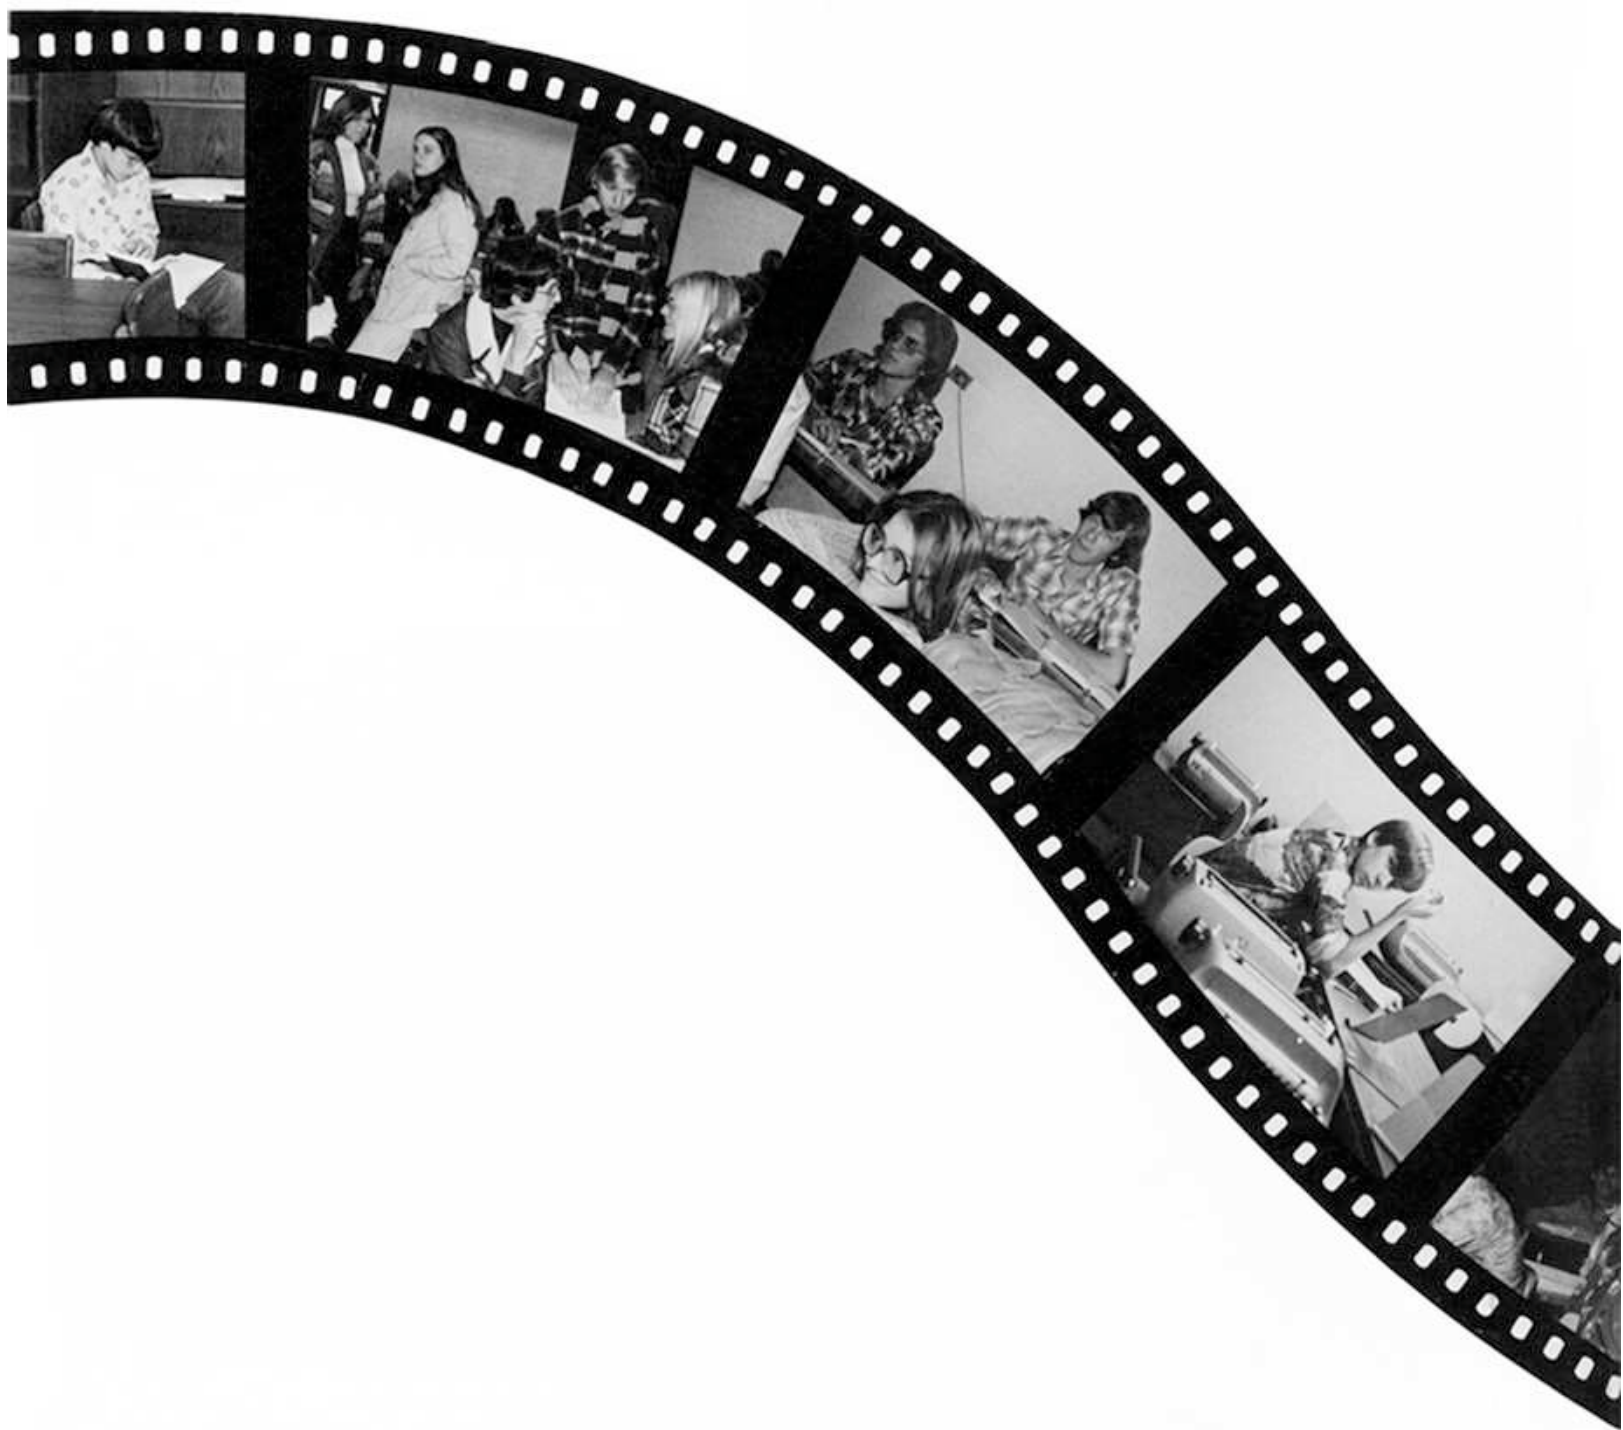

This year, girls' track participated in a rewarding season. The team practiced five days a week, preparing for meets throughout the season. Finishing fourth in the conference meet, the girls went into the district meet with Lisa Esposito receiving a fourth place title and Bridgett Collins receiving a second place title. Bridgett Collins also went on to state competition.

Co-Captains this year were Bridgett Collins and Patti Venard, voted by their teammates. Patti Venard was also voted as MVP. Mrs. Dilacova was the teams' coach this year.

CAST

Sophomores Learn Through Experience

As the newest members of the high school this year, the class of '79 showed much spirit and enthusiasm.

"We've hatched a #1 team," was the theme of the sophomore float, which placed second in the float competition during homecoming week. Other events of Fun Day in which the class of '79 were successful were the three-legged race and the pyramid.

Experiencing the drivers' education program for the first time with our sophomores was Mr. Evan Gollan, a first year teacher at Lisle.

To raise money to add to their class treasury, they sponsored a bake sale which raised forty dollars.

Juniors Capture A Powderpuff Victory

The long hours spent by the junior class during Homecoming week paid off when they took first place in the float competition. During Fun Day they also won leapfrog, tug-of-war, and for the second consecutive year, the Beauty and the Beast contest. Earlier in the week, the junior and sophomore girls displayed their football abilities by beating the senior girls 16-8 in the Powderpuff football game.

To raise money for prom, juniors sold taffy-apples after school and sold concessions at the football games.

The Class Of '77' Has Class

Spirit was always with the Class of '77' during their four years of high school. For the second year in a row the class captured the spirit stick for outstanding participation throughout Homecoming Week.

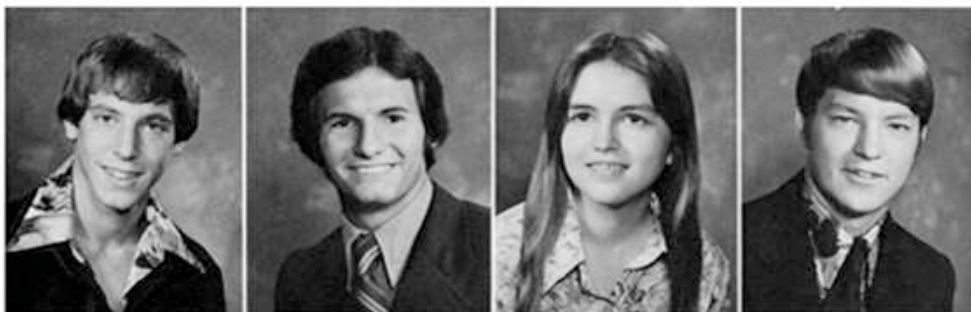

The senior class was the first class to complete all three years at the new building.

A Christmas Dance and Valentine's Day flower sale were sponsored by the seniors. They also raised funds through bake sales and car washes.

As the seniors look to the future, their four years of high school will always be remembered.
