The administration strives to solve many problems of education

The administrative staff is the guiding factor behind the school. Under the direction of Mr. Miller, our superintendent, and Mr. Cusic, our principal, our school runs smoothly. Mrs. Everette and Mrs. Lindemann are always found in the office listening to "valid" excuses of students and answering phone calls. This staff is the constantly needed backbone of our school. They solve the many distressing problems of students and teachers alike.

MR. GENE CUSIC — Principal

MR. RAYMOND MILLER — Superintendent of Schools

MR. WILLIAM KNOOP — Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Business Affairs

MRS. HELEN LINDEMANN — Secretary

MRS. SHIRLEY McKENNA — Clerk-Typist

MRS. ROSEMARIE EVERETTE — Principal's Secretary

Universal ideas expressed in literature

The English department of LCHS offers a variety of courses. Freshmen are introduced to speech, grammar, and literature. In the sophomore classes, American Literature is studied while juniors study English Literature. The senior program includes several semester courses. Among them are Composition, World Literature, Business English, and Speech. Elective Honors English is offered on each level. The library is an essential supplement to English courses. It greatly aids students. The library is equipped with books of all types, reference materials, encyclopedias, and dictionaries.

Students using reference materials study quietly in the Library.

MRS. WINIFRED SHANNON — Librarian, Latin

MR. RICHARD PALZER — English, Speech

MRS. RUTH MICHAEL – English, World Literature

MRS. MARGARET PHINNEY – English

MRS. LEOTA PROKOP – English, Composition

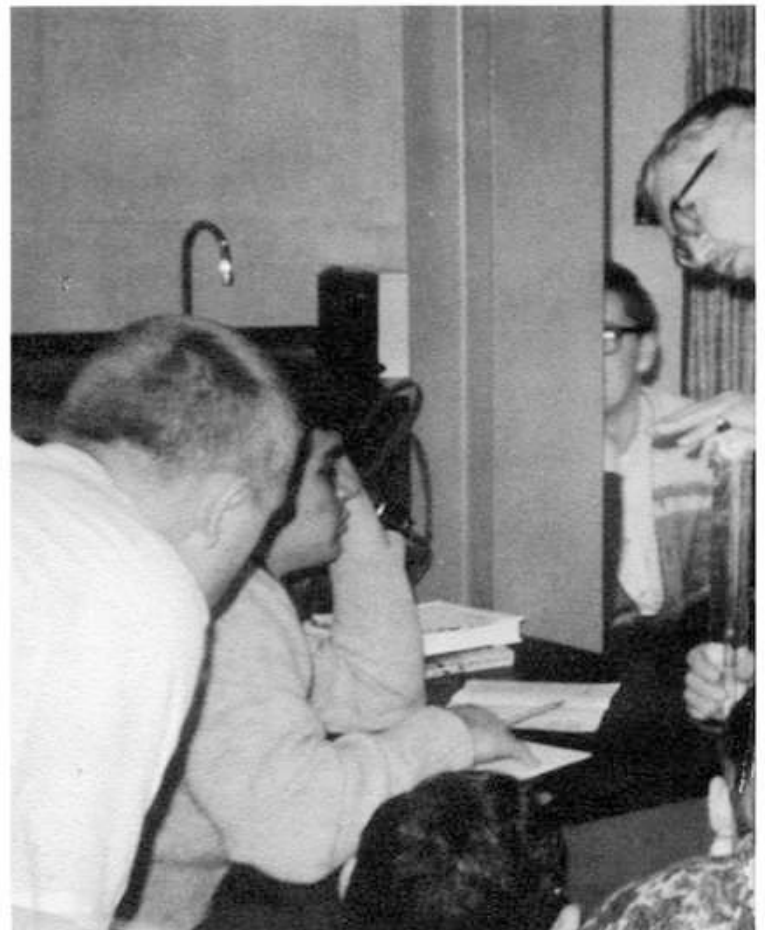

MR. CLARENCE JENSEN — Electronics, Physical Science and Physics

MR. JOHN CIESIELSKI — Biology and Physical Education

MR. CARLIN NALLEY — Biology and Physical Science

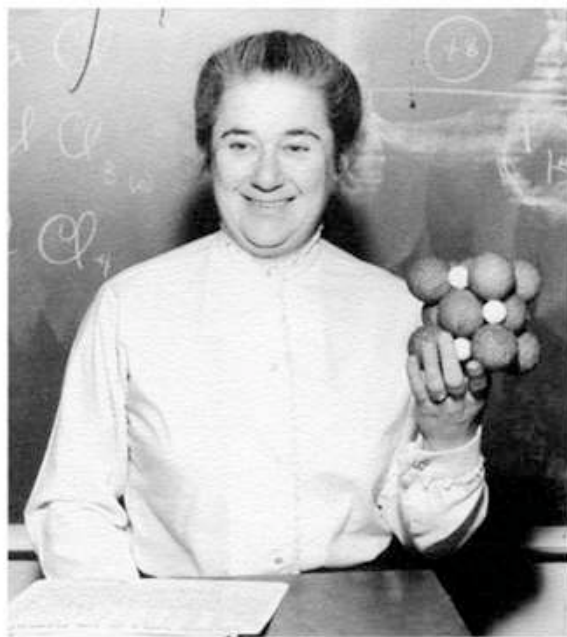

Through their science classes, new paths are discovered

A variety of sciences were offered this year: Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Physical Science, and Electronics. The new labs were put to good use. With more equipment and space, each student had a better chance to explore the scientific world. While Mr. Jensen's physics class was looking for their missing decimal point, the chemistry class was busy figuring out the meaning of 6.02×10^{23} . As biology students finally get over the terror of dissection and physical science students finish their final research papers, the year comes to an end. The labs are empty and await a new group of students who will also peek through the doors of Science.

MR. JOHN MULCARE — Chemistry and Physical Science

MRS. MAY AVERY — Science Aid

Mr. Jensen demonstrates the Cartesian Diver to an engrossed physics class.

MR. ROBERT JONES — Bookkeeping, Business Law, Economics, Record Keeping.

MRS. MARY LAWRENCE — Shorthand, Typing, Clerical and Secretarial Practice.

Verna Jones develops her typing skill.

Math and business in our future

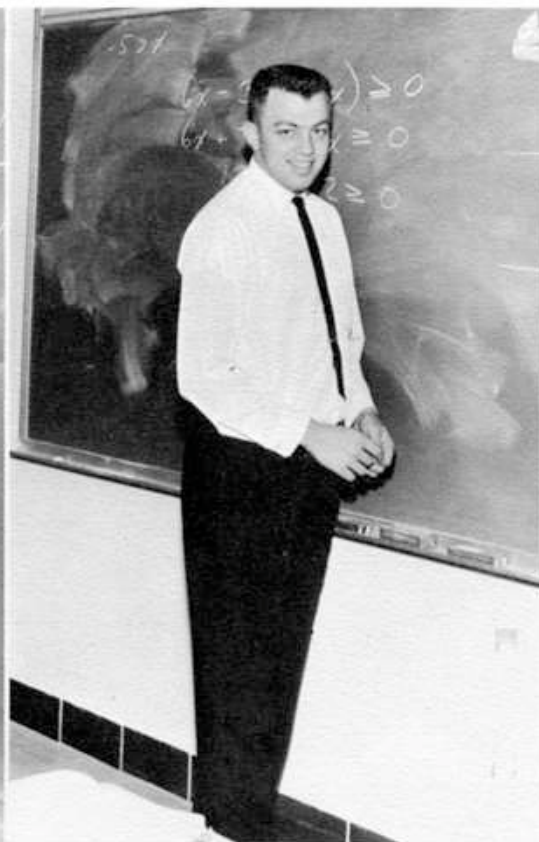

Our Math department has really been in full swing. This year we have three excellent teachers who enlighten students in the sphere of mathematics. With new rooms and several new desks the students and teachers were prepared to delve into their studies. Mr. Hettinger returned after a leave of absence while he was studying at the University of Illinois. These teachers have worked hard all year to open the doors of Mathematics to all. Mathematics is the key to the business world. Typing, shorthand, business law and bookkeeping help to open this door also. They provide the student with a good experience in office work duties. Math and business can be found more and more in our world today.

MR. ANDREW J. SAMIDE — Applied Math, Geometry.

MR. DONALD L. JAMES — Applied Math, Algebra, Trigonometry, Analytical Geometry.

MR. MICHAEL F. HETTINGER — Algebra, Trigonometry, Functions.

MR. ANTHONY CASTINO — World Civilization, Modern European History, U. S. History.

U. S. History classes meet in small groups to discuss a possible article for their Constitution.

MR. GEORGE RAPP — Drivers' Training, World Civilization, Senior Problems.

MR. J. BARNEY NEAHAUS — U. S. Government, Sociology, U. S. History.

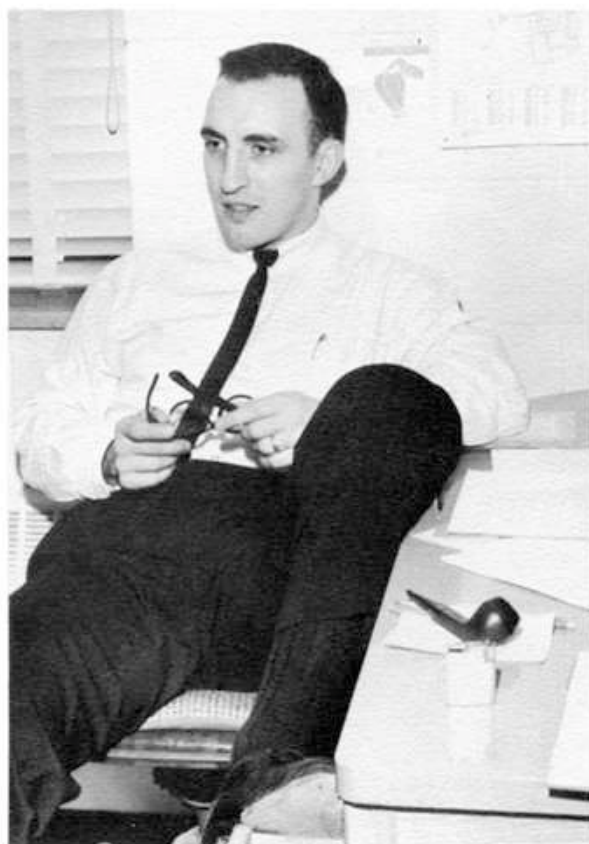

We learn of man, society, and human relations

The Social Science and Guidance departments can be summed up in one word—PEOPLE. The social science classes deal with the study of people in other lands, as well as our own. Mr. Neahaus, Mr. Castino, and Mr. Rapp tried a new type of teaching in their World Civilization and History classes whereby each student researched and explored new ideas on their own. Helping people is the job of our guidance counselors, Mr. Giuntoli and Mr. Thompson. Replacing Mr. Bushdieker, Mr. Giuntoli introduced new counseling projects to unite parents and students.

MR. RICHARD THOMPSON — Guidance, Typing.

MR. REX GIUNTOLI — Guidance.

Through Music, Languages, and Art, we build our world

Our school offers three foreign languages—French, Latin, and Spanish. These three are very important to all of us—especially in international affairs. In these days of modern travel our worldly neighbors are as close as a few hours of our time. Consequently our language department has become more popular with the realization of the importance of communications today.

Art and music are another means of communication in the world today. More and more people are expressing their opinions about these subjects. The art department provides a variety of views and styles, encouraging free interpretation with paints, chalks, and crayons. Chorus has become one of the most popular courses with over one hundred members. Always working for their next concert, the members rehearse week in and week out to perfect their numbers. Through these communications, world peace and understanding will be easier to attain. In this way our language, art and music departments have become increasingly important every year.

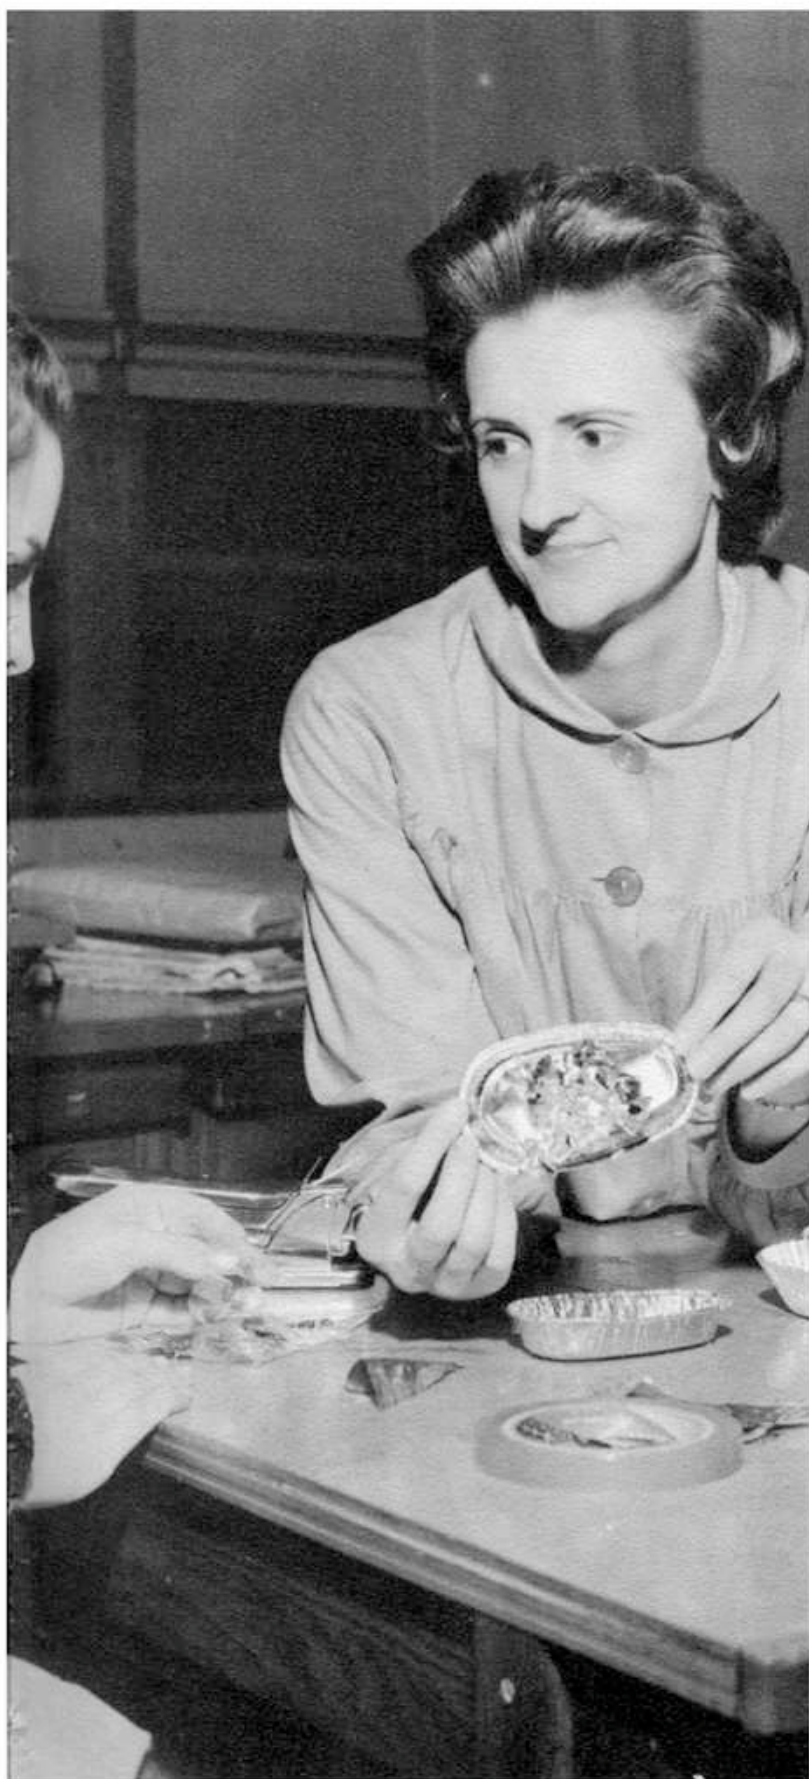

Mr. Robert Bartelt — Band

Mrs. Patricia Densford — Chorus

Mrs. Elizabeth Driggett – French, English

Mrs. Margaret Goodell – Spanish, French

Mrs. Doris Straub – Art

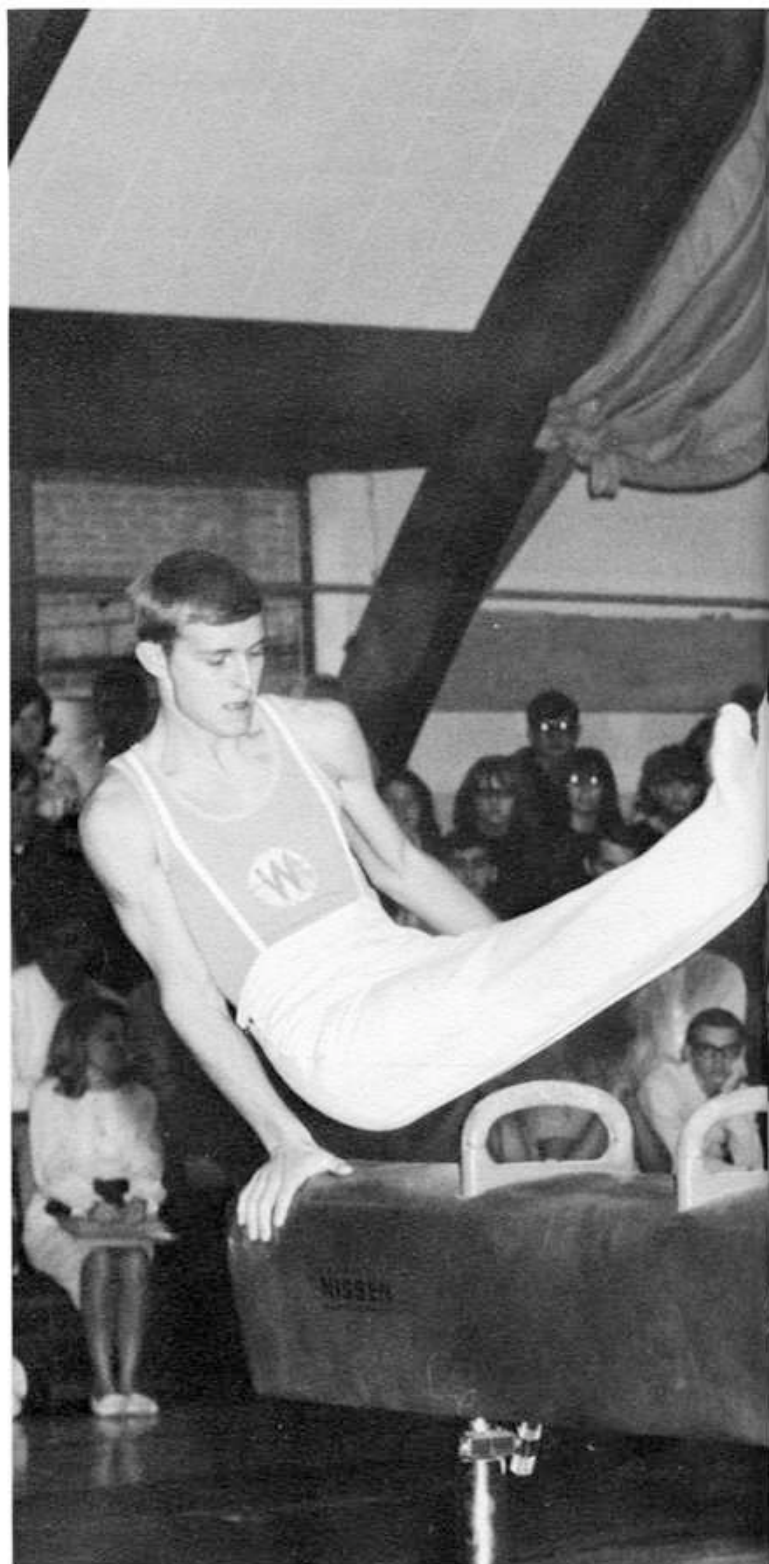

MR. GERALD SAATKAMP — Industrial Arts.

MRS. CAROL Di IACOVA — Physical Education.

we can use these arts

The Applied Arts classes gave the students an opportunity to use their energy and skill. Whether jumping on the trampoline and swinging on the ropes, typing a letter, baking a cake, or making a book-shelf, the students and teachers worked together successfully.

The Physical Education departments are under the direction of Mr. Fee, Mr. Ciesielski, and Mrs DiIacova. A wide variety of activities, including tumbling, calisthenics, sports, and classroom studies in first aide and driver's training are offered.

The Home Economics department studies the preparation of delicious foods, sewing, home decorating, child development, and home management. Their well organized planning has turned out many new ideas and designs.

Industrial Arts teaches students about our industrialized society. They learn the basic principles of wood design, welding, and machines. A few new machines have been added this year to make this class one of the best equipped in our school.

MR. WILLIAM FEE — Physical Education, Mechanical Drawing.

MRS. ANN JOHANSEN — Home Economics, Food Services.

Willowbrook exhibits skill and coordination in a gymnastic program.

Staff works to uphold orderly school routine

A competent group of workers is necessary to keep our school and grounds clean and in order. Our custodians have the task of cleaning rooms and halls, of repairing anything from lights to pencil sharpeners, and keeping the school in good running order.

Each noon in the vicinity of the cafeteria occurs the busiest of all school businesses. Students rush in to buy their lunches, are served, and rush out again. The faithful cafeteria staff takes care of everyone in a well-regulated manner. Little emergencies often arise during the day. The nurse has commendably taken care of these minor crises — the hurts and ills of our students. These efficient personnel do an excellent job in performing their duties.

Cindermen prepare for Spring meets

The track team developed the talent of quite a few athletes last season making the coming season a very promising one. Mark James and Bob Taylor were keen competition for all the teams in the league, both in the high and low hurdles. Bart Cloustan and Jeff Mack took many honors in the field events. Andy Brubaker and Phil Nystedt placed in Varsity events. Bob Lindgren broke the record for the mile.

All in all, last season's team, under the coaching of Mr. Ciesielski and Mr. Samide, proved to be very promising.

Front row: Ed Forst, Bruce Rakosnik, Doug Jensen, Ed Wright, Jim Black, Mark James, Charles Nystedt, Frank Ferrin, Bill Wenning. Row 2: Doug Miller, Don Marek, Phil Nystedt, John Reeder, Don Lindemann, Burnie Orpin, Roy Kruger, Mark Ross, Bruce Frey, John Forst, Andy Brubaker. The Lisle Lions prove to be a threat to the Mets

Although the season got off to a bad start due to poor weather, early practice was held indoors. Despite the team's inexperience, they gave their opponents a tough battle. Underclassmen manned many positions making numerous mistakes but gaining valuable experience. Baseball, demanding planned action and strategy, needs trained and coordinated players to make up a good team. Each player had to develop his own specific skill to add to the team's overall success.

As Art Laramy winds up for his next pitch, Mike Carrie hopes for a strike.

It's a close play between Steve Cook and the third baseman.

Frosh-Soph team gains much experience

This year forty boys came out for Frosh-Soph Football. Under Coach Neahaus these new "rookies" learned discipline and the many plays of the game of football. Many hours of practice were spent to get these boys in shape. There were many veterans from last year's team, also. Together, both old and new, they worked hard and proved themselves well, for their record was 3-4-1. The experience gained this year will be an important factor in a winning team for coming years.

They had the determination to win

Hopes were high for this year's season. We were competing in the newly formed Northeast Conference. Our team had a new coach, Mr. Nally, who had coached winning teams in Kansas. The whole student body was more enthusiastic than ever before. The first game against Stevenson brought a 14-14 tie and it left its mark on the rest of the season. Our record for the year was 2-5-1. However, under the direction of Coach Nally, our team worked their hardest ever. They learned how "to put out 100% at each practice and 200% at each game." Each player gained something from this season, and that is what counts.

Frosh-Soph work hard for victories

This year's Frosh-Soph team was balanced by many fine new men. Headed by Coach Fee, the team has taken great strides towards improvement. There are several promising Frosh-Soph players for next year's Varsity Squad. The team practiced for hours during the week to perfect their skills for one Friday or Saturday evening's performance.

The Lisle Lions swung into the basketball season with energetic spirit. The team used their coordination and skill developed in weeks of practice. New strategy was put into action. The rivalry was fierce, but Lisle battled for the ball. Although the team as a whole was not too successful, many individual skills were developed. These skills indicated the team's great potential.

Wrestling: A new division in our athletic department

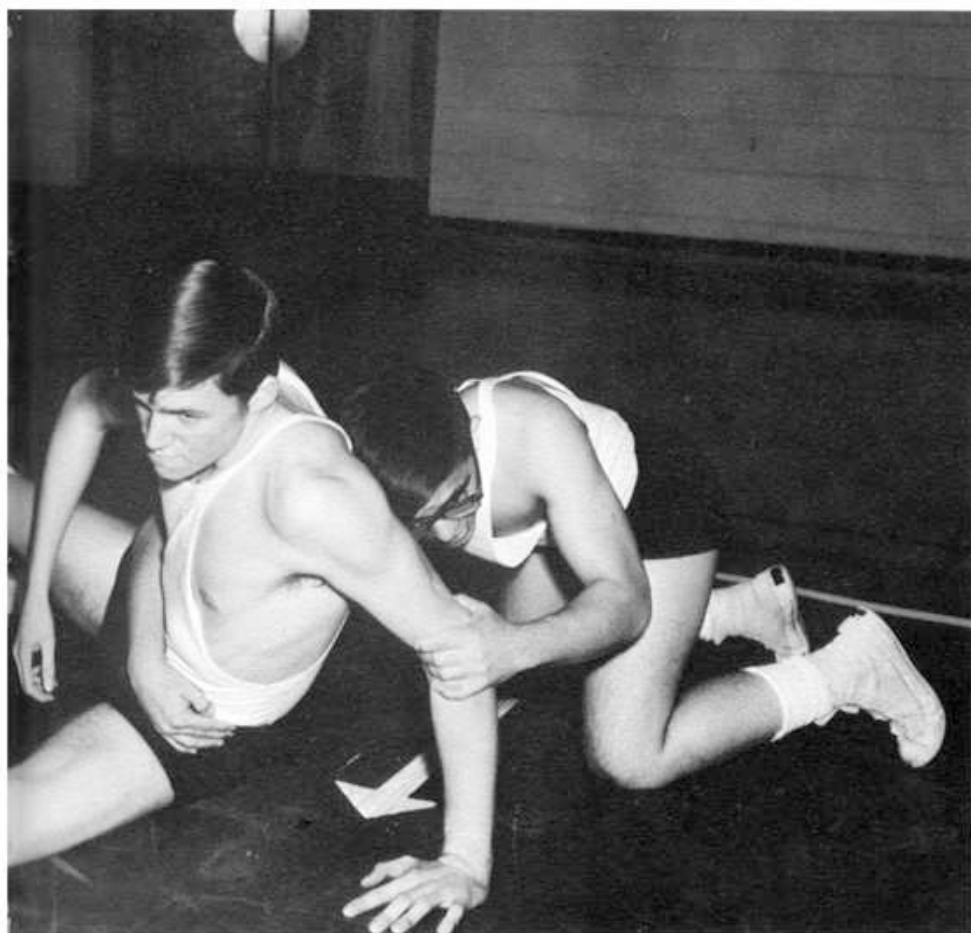

Among the new additions to our school was a wrestling team. The team was coached by Mr. Neahaus, Mr. Nally, and student teacher Mr. Tallach. Although this was our first year of participation, we entered both the District and Conference meets, placing sixth in both. Pete Cheng, Captain, and Nick Heinz placed third and fourth respectively in the District meet. Five Varsity letters were awarded to Mike Athey, Pete Cheng, John Forst, Elmer Grunst, and Nick Heinz.

With Mr. Tallach's supervision, Elmer Grunst and Ed Forst demonstrate a wrestling hold.

Members perform with a 'voice of singing'

One hundred and nine strong, the chorus became a top-notch performing group this year. Under Mrs. Patricia Densford, our energetic director, the chorus sang at concerts and benefits. Various members also participated in State Competition, and worked along with the drama department to produce "Oklahoma." Plans for next year include choir robes and a select sixty member choir. Also a "new group" of Junior and Senior folk singers was organized. Also plans were made for a down-state chorus tour.

Continual practice yields perfection

The band was a familiar sight around LCHS. It increased in size and quality this year. The members practiced hard each morning to perform at the Saturday football games. The band was also represented at the home basketball games and added some pep and spirit to them. This year, as in previous years, the band participated in Northwestern University's High School Band Day.

Many new overtures were added to the band's list. The fine quality of the band showed up in their winter and spring concerts. The band participated in the IHSA Band Contest in the spring which also included the solo and ensemble events. The band will participate in La-Grange's Annual Pet Parade this summer.

Communication is key to LCHS leadership

The members in Debate spent much time in gathering material concerning the question of the year and in studying the art of argumentation. The members of the debate squad occupied themselves the whole school year in taking notes, gathering, organizing, and presenting material and preparing themselves for competition with local debate teams. They have taken several trips to Urbana where they had the opportunity to debate with many large and new schools.

Members of the National Honor Society are selected by the faculty on the basis of scholarship, character, service, and leadership. Fifteen per cent of the Senior class and ten per cent of the Junior class may be selected. Students must have a "B" average to be considered for eligibility. This year fourteen new members were honored at an assembly held in the auditorium.

Creative Writing Club and Speech Club encourage students to cultivate literary interests and talents. The Creative Writing Club develops writing skills by studying many different composition forms. Speech Club develops speaking skills by competing in contests of reading and dramatization. Comedy reading, prose reading, radio speaking, and verse reading were only a few of the many events a student could enter. Many hard hours were spent in preparation for the different meets and especially for the District Contest. Lee Hankinson received a first in prose and Ed Wright received a fifth in radio speaking at the District Contest. All in all, the students did an excellent job.

Students search for a future career

FTA provided an opportunity for prospective teachers to learn about the teaching profession. Each meeting was highlighted by a speaker or filmstrip. One of the club's projects this year was to give a Christmas party for the EMH students at the Main Street Elementary School. The members also observed junior high and elementary classes where they could watch experienced teachers at work.

The purpose of LMC is to explore careers in nursing and other medical fields. Speakers and films were featured at meetings throughout the year. For Christmas, members made cookies for a boys home. The LMC participated in the annual Jamboree.

The Commercial Club helped prepare prospective students for the business world by having guest speakers and taking trips to nearby business companies. Every year the Commercial Club attracts more and more business-minded students who have an eye toward the future.

'Parlez vous Francais?' 'No, hablo Español'

Our school offers three foreign languages — French, Latin, and Spanish. All three of these languages are very important to all of us — especially in international affairs.

In these days of modern travel, our worldly neighbors are as close as a few hours of our time. Consequently, our language department has become more popular with the realization of the importance of communications today.

Through these communications, world peace and understanding will be easier to attain. In this way our language department becomes increasingly important every year. We are confident that they will continue to stride forward and improve where improvement is needed.

Organizations serve our school

To run projectors and record players and to produce lighting effects for assemblies and plays are the jobs of A-V members. These boys aid teachers by showing movies; and in learning how to use the equipment, they do their job efficiently. Each year students volunteer their free time to be hall monitors. Their job is to collect passes and absentee slips, direct puzzled visitors, run errands for the office, and in general, maintain order in the halls.

To ease the busy day of the librarians, library aides help bewildered pupils find books. Among other duties, they shelve books properly, file magazines, and check out books. These assistants are a blessing to the librarians and students.

Our school life put in print

Another year of fury is over. The year-book is completed and everyone sighs with relief. We look back on those nights when the clock ticked midnight and tired staff members dragged themselves home. Our editor and advisor remember the time they had keeping our noses in close contact with the old grindstone, and how everyone sweated over pictures, layouts, copy blocks, cutlines, and headlines. Now it is over, and all look back on a wonderful, fun-filled year. We are proud to present you with the 1967 Vale. Another year is also completed for the Roar Staff. They have worked hard to turn out a refreshingly different newspaper every month. Reporters who went out trailing a "hot" story now can sit back and take life easy. The editor, assistant editor, and advisor have had a lot of problems with printers this year but hope next year to have the beginning of their own printing press.

Sports provide enjoyment for everyone

Each Monday night screams of the "dainty" girls of GAA echoed throughout the gym. These girls sought enjoyment in bowling, swimming, and in basketball and volleyball tournaments. The girls learned athletic skills and team sportsmanship.

Gym leaders helped in leading exercises and refereeing games in the gym classes. They helped to make classes run smoothly each day. This year's Pep Club filled many a bus with enthusiastic team followers. Its members kept right on cheering our team in defeat as well as in victory. Pep Club is a major part in promoting our school spirit.

Clubs generate school spirit

With a new burst of school spirit and enthusiasm, a girl's Drill Team was formed for the first time in Lisle's short history. The Lionettes supplied new entertainment for the crowds at half-time of many Varsity games. These girls worked many long hours in order to polish their routines to perfection. Mrs. Di Iacova and the Lionettes deserve credit for their help in supporting the Lisle Lions.

Many Lions belong to the Lettermen's Club. This year three new members were accepted to make a total of twenty-three. The members of this club are envied by all boys active in high school sports. Not just any boy can join the club. He must work hard at his chosen sport or sports. Many hours of earnest practice and a certain time of sport participation is necessary to become a member. The lettermen are important representatives of our school. They reflect an image of our school to others.

new horizons in new projects

The Lisle chapter of the Future Homemakers of America participated in many events this year. We had the honor of holding the annual sectional rally at our school. This year's rally was to celebrate FHA's 21st birthday. At the rally Betty Dyntera was elected vice-president of projects, a section office. Also sponsored by this active group were the annual hayride and the turnabout dance. The members extended an invitation to all the girls in the school to attend the dance with their favorite beaus. Both of these events are held yearly by the future homemakers. Also the girls participated in community projects. Several served orange juice, cookies, and donuts to people donating to the Kiwanis' blood-mobile. To help bring Christmas joy to hospitalized children during the holidays they sewed and stuffed toy animals and sent them to a local hospital. These many projects help mold the girls for their future jobs of homemakers and citizens.

Sue Curtin and escort are among the first to arrive at the FHA dance.

To help welcome the FHA section rally, Rae Blevins and Linda Byrd put finishing touches on the bulletin board, while backstage Mrs. Johansen coaches the new officers.

Cheerleaders

rouse enthusiastic support for our teams

Boundless pep and energy, a never-ending smile, and good sportsmanship — the makings of a cheerleader. Such is shown in our two cheerleading squads. Their job is to promote enthusiasm and spirit throughout the student body, and they do it well. They create "mass hysteria" and excitement at every game. During the summer, the varsity squad spent one week at camp where they won many ribbons and were honored with the coveted "Pep Stick." They also competed at the Illinois State Fair. Team spirit is sparked by these girls, and they are an inspiration at every game.

Joan Kremer freezes silently as Dwight scores again.

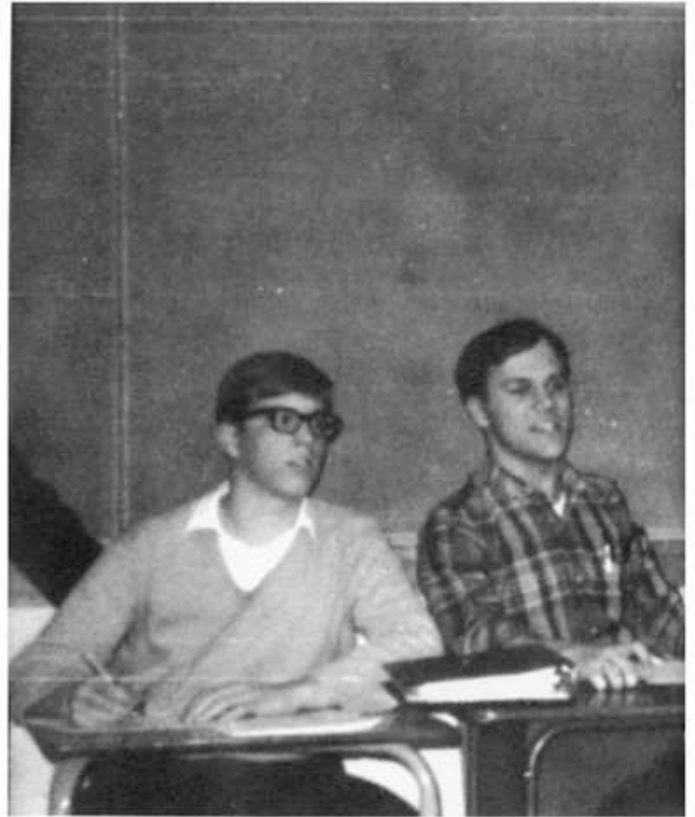

Alternate cheerleaders are Linda Saraga — Frosh-Soph and Kathy Kemerling — Varsity.

Eager to cheer, the Frosh-Soph squad includes Sue Barnard, Cindy Johns, Darcy Anthony — Captain, Lyndi Sprietsma, Pam Kassell, and Cheryl Connelly.

Council coordinates the year's activities

The Student Council represents the students in organizing school functions. Student Council is a guiding hand that makes sure that a dance and a game aren't scheduled for the same night. It plans and organizes novel assemblies and the annual talent show, renamed the "Mad Show." Homecoming is coordinated by the Student Council, and the traditional Council's Jamboree winds up the laborious, but fulfilling year. The Student Council representatives are students who work hard to better our school. The Council also establishes the important tie between the student body and administration.

Talent Show tunes in the 'Tonight Show'

Bright lights and shining talent came through to present the Student Council's annual talent show. "The Tonight Show" was the theme for the program. The part of Johnny Carson was played by Barry Melton and Ed McMahan by John Carter. Each year's talent show reveals that Lisle High School has talented students, both as performers on the stage and as workers behind the scenes. Special recognition should be given to the Campus Crooners who had the wonderful opportunity of taking a tour through Europe this past summer. They will surely be remembered always in the hearts of everyone.

LCHS Students are MUNA hosts

Last spring, Lisle High hosted the successful Model United Nations Assembly (MUNA). Many people involved in this interschool convention considered the MUNA project both interesting and educational. Through MUNA, those in attendance were able to realize several of the complex problems facing our world. MUNA was the second interschool convention to take place in DuPage County. The first one was the Constitutional Convention Committee in 1965. Both of these projects helped to promote greater civil spirit.

Credit should be given to Mr. Castino and the Student Council for their leadership in the organizing of the delegation.

Last minute deals and bargains are made before final balloting for president of the assembly.

While Holly and Nancy clear up last minute problems, Mr. Cusic concentrates on more important matters.

Months of hurry and preparation are over and MUNA officially opens.

'BRIGADOON'

This year's spring play, "Brigadoon", was Lisle's first musical. The play concerns the adventures of two vacationing American hunters, Jeff and Tommy, in the Highlands of Scotland. They come upon a small village that appears once every 100 years. Tommy falls in love and must decide between staying in old-fashioned Brigadoon or returning to the modern world he lives in. Tommy returns home, but true love calls him back to Brigadoon.

The words "full house" came as a delight to the cast and motivated them to put on the best performance ever. Credit must be given to Mr. Rapp for directing the play, to Mrs. Densford for directing the musical portion, to Mr. Mulcare for setting the atmosphere, and to Mrs. Grant for directing the dancing.

The combined efforts of these four people, as well as the large cast, stage crew, and make-up committee, brought forth one of the best shows the Drama Club has ever produced.

Fiona explains the miracle of Brigadoon to Tommy and Jeff, with the assistance of wise Mr. Lundi.

Lost in the Highlands, Tommy and Jeff stop to examine their maps.

Drama Club presents

Could this miserable girl be a princess?

dramatic story of 'Anastasia'

Could Anna Braun, a girl rescued from the edge of a canal, be Anastasia, daughter of the assassinated Czar Nicholas II? This was the question brought before the audience as the stage came alive with the story of "Anastasia." The plot is set in Berlin, 1926. Prince Bounine of Russia, played by Andy Brubaker, attempts to obtain the ten million pound inheritance by convincing everyone that the girl he has is Anastasia. The most trying test is the meeting of the girl, Ellen Koba, and Anastasia's grandmother, Judi Paulsen. As the curtain closed on the final act, the question still remains to be answered — was the girl really Anastasia?

Dave Williams puts on finishing touches as fellow cast member Ed Fraser looks on skeptically.

Serious thoughts accompany a serious atmosphere.

Homecoming '66: Year's first big event

After the hustle-bustle of a new school year calms down, the thrills and excitement of Homecoming are in the minds of every student. This year's Homecoming revolved around the theme of football. Many nights, homework was left undone to work on floats. Dance preparations by the Senior Class were in their last stages. Yells of "Beat Dwight" echoed in the blue and white decorated halls. Five queen candidates were chosen by Senior boys of the football squad. Then came the election — at Friday's pep assembly the anxious waiting came to an end. As her eyes filled with tears of surprise and joy, Gerri Stanek, 1966 Homecoming Queen, received a standing ovation from the student body.

Rain threatened the Homecoming weekend, but it was still possible to have the snake dance and bonfire while it drizzled slightly. As the last embers of the fire died, all worked on through the night to complete the floats. Dawn came — cold and dreary — but the aromas of the Vale Pancake Breakfast and the music of the parade filled the air.

Cold weather

The newly formed drill team, the Lisle Lionettes, made their debut during the half-time of the football game, despite the windy, 48° weather. The Class of '68 won first prize for the first time in float competition. That night, couples walked through the opening of the "Lions' Den" into a "cave" of fall colors. Everyone enjoyed the dance, a final climax to a memorable weekend.

The newly formed Lisle High School Boosters' Club has done a great deal in promoting the Lions' spirit. 'Some Enchanted Evening' is theme of prom

On May 20, Hinsdale Community House became a world of tiki gods and leis; of girls in floor-length gowns, long white gloves, and boys in tuxedos — a world that only lived for four brief hours. To many it was "Some Enchanted Evening."

All had been looking forward to the day after Prom — a day of sun, sand, and swimming. Those who had been up late the night before arose early to travel to the Warren Dunes. The day was cool, for it had snowed only four days beforehand, and yet everyone was able to have a good time.

As the weekend drew to a close, it meant the end of months of fund raising and planning for the Juniors. For the Seniors, it was a dramatic climax of their memorable four years in high school.

As Mr. Rapp and his wife dance, a few Senior couples pause to talk.

Many couples decided to sit a few dances out—especially John Catlin with Jan Brinkmeyer and her crutches.

So ends the year

In the final weeks of the '66-'67 school year, we all think back on the fun and excitement this year has given us. For the freshmen, it was their first big year in high school. Sophomores were stepping up to the excitement of their junior year with a prom and class rings. Soon the juniors will be on top of the totem pole as seniors, and they will be looking forward to graduation. And last, but far from least, are the seniors. Seniors will now go out and work, continue their educations, and settle down with families.

The year, though filled with fun and fast-moving events, was also filled with tragedy — the deaths of two freshmen, Tom Davis and Robert Keller. Both of these boys were well liked by their classmates and regarded as good students by their teachers.

So, as the year and the yearbook come to an end, we remember all the school events, our classes, and the Great Snowstorm that gave us a day of vacation.

The first of these is the fact that the system is not a simple one. It is a complex system, and as such, it is not possible to understand it by looking at its parts in isolation. The system is a whole, and its behavior is determined by the interactions between its parts. This is a fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The second of these is the fact that the system is dynamic. It is not a static system, and its behavior changes over time. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The third of these is the fact that the system is open. It is not a closed system, and it interacts with its environment. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The fourth of these is the fact that the system is self-organizing. It is not a system that is controlled from the outside, and it is not a system that is designed from the top down. It is a system that organizes itself from the bottom up, and it is a system that adapts to its environment. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The fifth of these is the fact that the system is resilient. It is not a system that is fragile, and it is not a system that is easily disrupted. It is a system that is able to withstand change, and it is a system that is able to recover from setbacks. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The sixth of these is the fact that the system is sustainable. It is not a system that is unsustainable, and it is not a system that is doomed to failure. It is a system that is able to maintain itself over time, and it is a system that is able to adapt to changing circumstances. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The seventh of these is the fact that the system is equitable. It is not a system that is unfair, and it is not a system that is biased. It is a system that is able to provide for the needs of all its members, and it is a system that is able to distribute resources fairly. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The eighth of these is the fact that the system is transparent. It is not a system that is opaque, and it is not a system that is hidden. It is a system that is able to be understood by its members, and it is a system that is able to be held accountable. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The ninth of these is the fact that the system is participatory. It is not a system that is top-down, and it is not a system that is controlled by a few people. It is a system that is able to involve all its members in the decision-making process, and it is a system that is able to harness the wisdom of the crowd. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.

The tenth of these is the fact that the system is innovative. It is not a system that is stagnant, and it is not a system that is resistant to change. It is a system that is able to embrace change, and it is a system that is able to create new opportunities. This is another fundamental principle of systems thinking, and it is one that is often overlooked in traditional approaches to problem-solving.
